Nine Die As Storm Rips Northern Ohio

300 Hurt, 200 Feared Lost As Tornadoes Strike

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard said today that perhaps as many as 200 persons were still unaccounted for in the wake of howling thunderstorms that swept into northern Ohio from Lake Erie last night, killing at least nine persons and injuring more than 300.

The Coast Guard said, however, that no drownings had been reported, that communication was poor, and that "it was only a matter of time" before any survivors of the storm-related boating mishaps were found.

Forty Coast Guard boats and 12 planes were combing Lake Erie for persons from the 200 small boats the Coast Guard estimated capsized during the storms.

The Coast Guard said it hoped to have later in the day a complete list of all those unaccounted for.

RIPS TOLEDO

The storm smashed into the Toledo area at 8:15 p.m. yesterday, cutting off half the city's power and producing a tornado which damages some 10 homes in the city's Point Place area.

Speeding eastward with winds clocked at 60 and 100 miles an hour, the storms produced other funnel clouds in Hancock, Huron, Cuyahoga, Geauga, and Lake counties.

Extensive damage to trees and power lines was reported all along the storm paths which extended more than 50 miles into the state from Lake Erie.

A Toledo man was killed by a falling tree at Cedar Point amusement park near Sandusky. At least three other persons were killed in the Cleveland area by trees, and two Cleveland men were electrocuted by downed power lines.

National Guardsmen were ordered into Ottawa County and the Cleveland suburb of Lakewood to help clean up storm damage. Toledo officials plan to discuss possible use of guardsmen later today.

Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes flew from Columbus to Cleveland to begin a tour of the lakeshore area. In Cleveland, he called damage "the worst since the 1937-1941 floods in the Ohio Valley."

HUNDREDS STRANDED

Several hundred persons were stranded temporarily on an island in the Cedar Point amusement park near Sandusky by hight waters.

An estimated 200 persons escaped serious injury when a tent collapsed on them during a "Mardi Gras" at Fairport Harbor, east of Cleveland.

"I've never seen anything come up so fast and throw down so much water in so little time," said Robert Cullins of Dresden, Ohio, who was with his family at the Cedar Point amusement park when the storms hit.

ALL AT ONCE

"It was real funny at first, but then the storm came up all at once and everyone went into a panic," said Carol Harwell of Mansfield, one of the persons trapped on a small island in the park by rising waters.

"It just rained and rained," she said. "People were just running everywhere and there were lost children. Water was up to your knees in places."

"You saw it sweeping across the lake from the west, a real

Marin Celebrates Glorious Fourth

Marin residents celebrated the Glorious Fourth yesterday under balmy skies with the thousands of "straights" attending traditional parades and fireworks displays and about 75 hippies setting fire to debris at Muir Beach.

The day's activities in Corte Madera and Larkspur which featured a parade and fireworks as well as many other events were attended by thousands, according to Louis N. Malvino, president of the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce.

"Many more people attended the parade than last year," he said, adding that moving to the fireworks display to Larkspur's Piper Park from Corte Madera gave a better view for more residents of central Marin. (See story of parade winners on page 4.)

The hour's display of fireworks drew about 1,000 persons to the scene with no estimate made of the number watching from their own homes or other vantage points.

Many thousands also toured the annual Marin Art and Garden Fair in Ross.

Hardest working people in the county yesterday, however, were probably firemen, who were called to put out a rash of grass fires as well as blazes started by illegal fireworks.

At Muir Beach where hippies set fire to the remains of the old tavern, firemen had to enlist the help of law officers to "quiet the hippies" before putting out the fire.

Hayakawa Hopes He's Selected

"I'm surprised they didn't nominate Eldredge Cleaver," was the reaction today of Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, acting president of San Francisco State college, to the recommendations of the school's presidential selection committee.

The committee is expected to submit three names, Assemblyman Willie Brown, D-San Francisco; Franklin Williams, former ambassador to Ghana, and one other unidentified person.

Hayakawa of Mill Valley indicated, however, that he hopes the appointment will be his and that it will be a permanent selection, and not for just one year.

"A permanent appointment will help stabilize the relationship between the administration and the professors," the semanticist said.

The appointment of Hayakawa would bypass the campus' presidential selection committee which, according to the acting-president consists "mostly of members of the American Federation of Teachers who struck last year and are my avowed enemies."

Dr. Hayakawa, named as acting president last fall, brought the five-month student strike to a close with a hard-line policy toward demonstrators.

The California State College trustees will meet Tuesday and Wednesday and one of the items on the agenda is the selection of a president for San Francisco State.

Nixon Picks Leaders Of Arms Curb Team

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon announced today senior members of the U.S. delegation for proposed arms curb talks with the Soviet Union will include retired Ambassador Lewellyn Thompson and two men who were high defense officials in the Johnson administration.

Gerard C. Smith, director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, will head the delegation. In addition to Thompson, former ambassador to Moscow, senior members of the group will include former Deputy Secretary of Defense Paul Nitze and former Secretary of the Air Force Harold Brown, who served in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

Others in the delegation will include Philip J. Farley, deputy Assistant Secretary of State for political-military affairs, and Air Force Maj. Gen. Royal B. Allison, deputy chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff's special studies group.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the Soviet Union has not yet responded to a Nixon suggestion that talks on strategic arms limitations begin during the July 1-Aug. 15 period, perhaps in Geneva or Vienna.

Nixon, through Ziegler, also announced he will nominate Leonard C. Meeker, legal adviser of the State Department since May 1965 as U.S. ambassador to Romania. A 53-year-old career diplomat, Meeker would succeed Richard H. Davis, a longtime acquaintance of the President, who is expected to remain as envoy in Bucharest until after Nixon's Aug. 2-3 visit to Romania.

Ziegler announced a tentative schedule for Nixon's globe-circling trip.

On July 24, if the Apollo 11 mission proceeds on schedule, the President will board the carrier Hornet in mid-Pacific to witness the splashdown and recovery of the spaceship and its crew. He then will fly by helicopter to Johnston Island for a jet flight to Guam, where he will spend the night of July 25.

Hanoi Envoy Back In Paris; Attacks U.S.

PARIS (AP) — Hanoi's chief delegate at the Vietnam peace talks returned to Paris today after a month of consultations in Hanoi, Peking and Moscow and accused the United States of not really working to negotiate peace.

Ambassador Xuan Thuy was welcomed back by Soviet, Chinese and East European diplomats and by Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, Foreign Minister of the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government.

On his way back to Paris, Thuy conferred with Chinese Premier Chou En-lai in Peking and Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin in Moscow.

In an arrival statement he said he was returning to the talks "with goodwill and a serious attitude."

Asked whether he thought the U.S. delegation also had such an attitude, he replied:

"In my view there is not yet any serious effort on their part.

"For example, President Nixon's eight points are completely different from the 10 points of the PRG. The withdrawal of 25,000 American troops is aimed only at soothing public opinion which is demanding an end to the American involvement.

"By comparison with the total number of U.S. troops in South Vietnam—540,000 men—the withdrawal of 25,000 of them is meaningless."

Thuy was asked to comment

THE ART, GARDEN FAIR TO CLOSE TOMORROW

Attendance yesterday at the fair was 8,260 compared to 8,464 last year on the Fourth of July and 6,646 on last year's third day of the fair.

Bob Mielke's Bear Cats will play Dixieland jazz between 6 and 7 p.m. and 8 and 9 p.m. today, and Friendly Clyde and the Big Time Operators will take over between 7 and 8 p.m.

The Marin Dance Council will present a folk dancing display in the amphitheatre at the fair grounds between 7:30 and 10 p.m.

Novato Man Is Shot; Wife Unconscious In Hospital

A 56-year-old Novato man was shot in the back early this morning, apparently by his wife, who then took an overdose of pills, according to police.

Robert Abercrombie of 5 Harding Drive, was reported in poor condition at Letterman General Hospital at the Presidio of San Francisco, where he was transferred from Novato General Hospital.

His wife, Connie, 55, was also reported in poor condition at Novato hospital. Officials said that she was unconscious.

Police said that the shooting occurred in the bedroom of the couple's home but did not know what led up to the assault. Mrs. Abercrombie, who called an ambulance for her husband at 5:45 a.m., was unconscious when it arrived, officers said.

A .38-caliber revolver was found by police.

Detective Sgt. Perry J. Haley said that Mrs. Abercrombie has been arrested on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder.

CHRISTMAS

California Highway patrolmen, sheriff's deputies and park rangers were required last night to control 50 to 75 hippies who were interfering with Marin county firemen fighting a fire at the remains of Muir Beach Tavern, according to Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom.

The fire was deliberately set by the hippies who tried to prevent the firemen from putting it out, Bloom said.

After the hippies were shoed away from the fire in the piled remains of the tavern, they went down on the beach and set several other fires, Bloom said.

When the firemen received a call at 9:45 p.m., the blaze was burning quite furiously, he said.

The firemen first kept it from spreading through the dry grass and brush to the houses higher up on the hill, Bloom said.

Then when they turned their attention to the main fires, the hippies booed them and pulled at their hoses.

Firemen finally used a bulldozed to scatter the piled debris so they could extinguish the fire. It was well after daylight before they finished the job, he said.

A grass fire hit the Tiburon peninsula yesterday. It started at 2:15 p.m. at the home of Byron W. Leydecker, 170 Avenida Mira Floers, according to the Tiburon Fire Department.

The fire burned approximately 40 acres before 12 units from Tiburon, Belvedere, Alto, Sausalito, Kentfield and Marin county fire departments brought it under control.

The cause of the fire is still under investigation.

Holiday Traffic Deaths Mount

The traffic death count mounted to 281 today as the three-day Independence Day weekend passed the midway point, the Associated Press reported.

Torrential rains that swamped the nation's midsection created hazardous driving conditions for motorists in Michigan and Ohio.

Texas, with 26 deaths, reported the most fatalities of any state. California was second with a count of 24.

Architect Gropius Is Dead At 86

BOSTON (AP) — Walter Adolf Gropius, 86, who founded the Bauhaus School of Design and Architecture that helped wrest art into the 20th Century, died today.

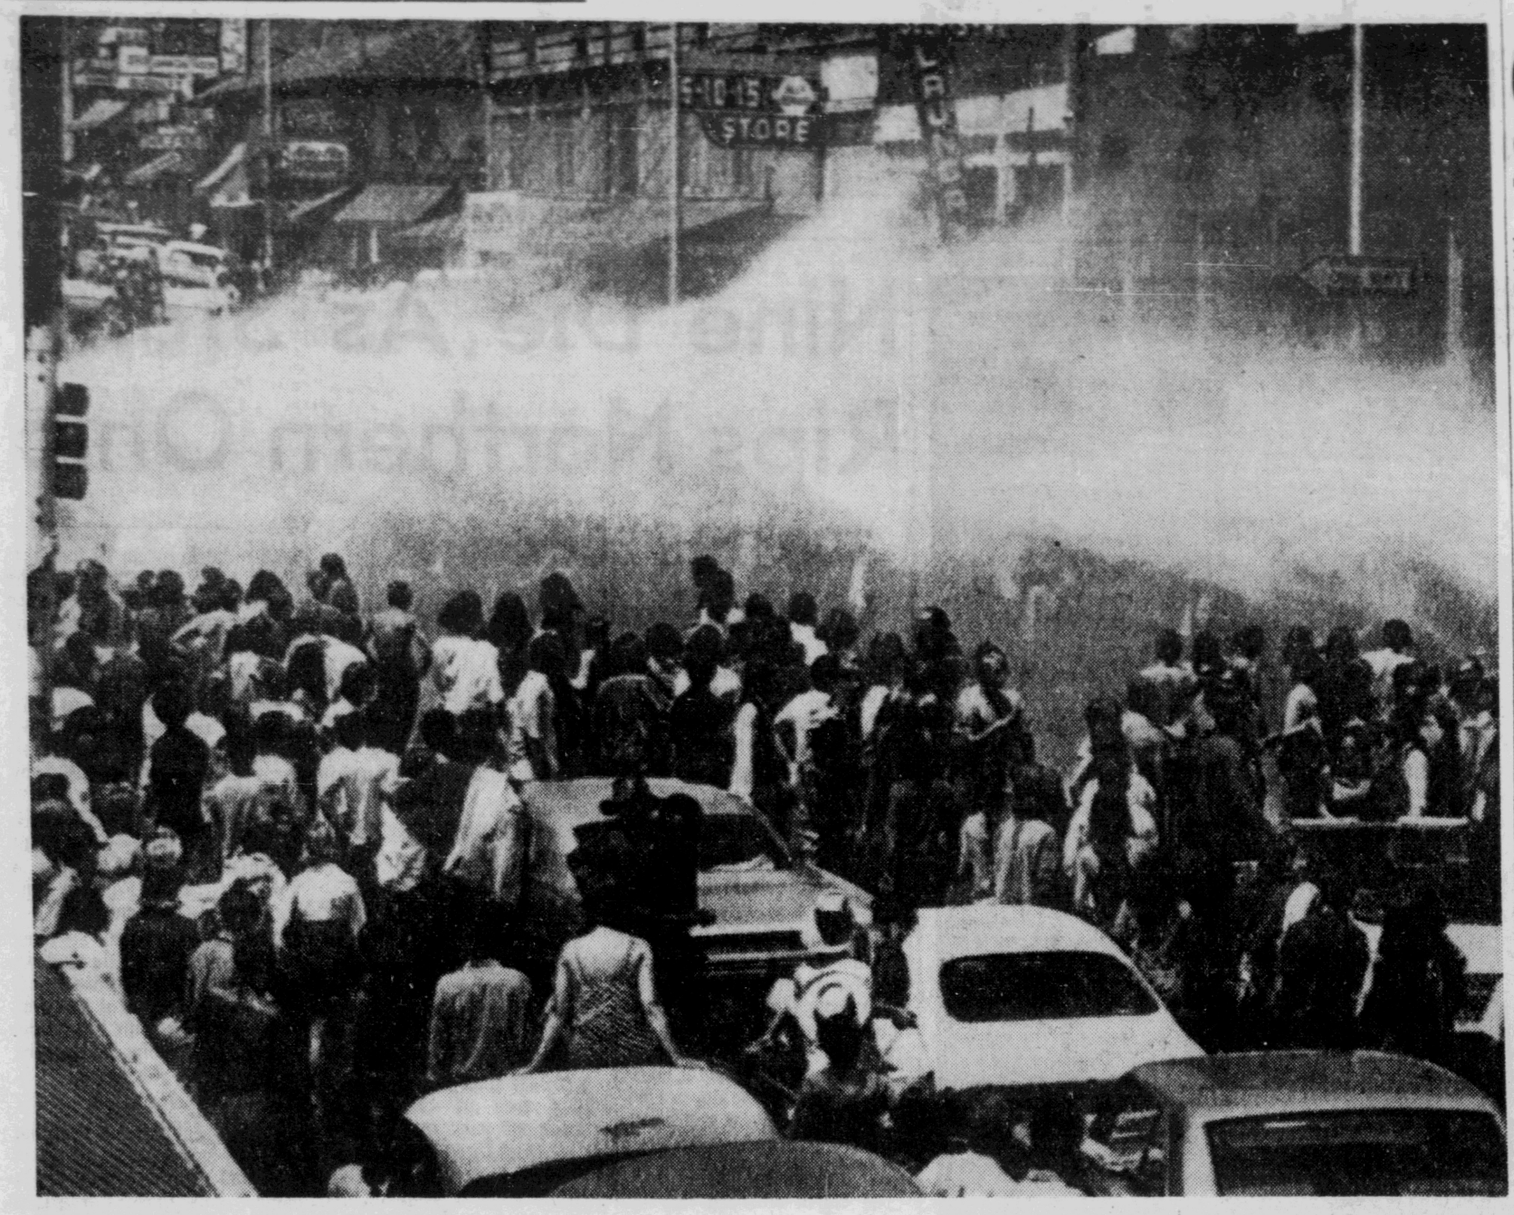
Gropius, prior to becoming a professor of architecture of Harvard University, established the Bauhaus School in Weimar, Germany, in 1918 by uniting two art schools.

Belgium Burial For Tshombe

BRUSSELS (UPI)—Former Premier Moise Tshombe of the Congo was buried today in a suburban Brussels cemetery. His sobbing sons tried to leap into his grave when the coffin was lowered. Tshombe, 49, died Sunday of a heart attack in Algiers, where he had been held for the past two years after being kidnaped during a flight over the Mediterranean.

The Katangese politician, one of the Congo's main political leaders following independence from Belgium, could not be buried in his native country where he had been branded a traitor.

Today's interment in Etterbeek Cemetery outside Brussels was provisional in hopes a later burial in the Congo will be possible, a family spokesman said.



COOLING OFF — Street people of Berkeley turned on the fire hydrants yesterday during the heat of a warm afternoon festival and celebration. But police came along and turned off the hydrants. No violence was reported but there were a few arrests. (AP Wirephoto)

'Negligence' Charged In Sinking Of Sub

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shipyard workers at California's Mare Island Naval Shipyard are accused of "culpable negligence" in the dockside sinking of the $50 million nuclear submarine Guitarro.

Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., chairman of the House armed services subcommittee, yesterday called the sinking a "comedy of errors."

The subcommittee charged:

Crews fore and aft filled and emptied ballast tanks, unaware of each other's presence.

Workers ignored two warnings that seawater was leaking in as much as two hours prior to the sinking.

—The cover to the hatch through which water poured had been lying on the dock for months.

The foreman in charge admitted he did not know how to operate submarine ballast tanks to keep a submarine level.

FINAL REPORT

The charges were made in the subcommittee's final report, prepared after a visit to Mare Island.

The 292-foot, 4,100-ton vessel mysteriously sank in 35 feet of water at dockside last May 15 where the attack submarine was being outfitted.

The report said emptying of aft ballast tanks while forward tanks were filled caused the submarine to dive. There were no injuries in the incident.

Costs of stripping down and replacing the vessel's interior will run $15.2 million to $21.85 million, the report said.

Stratton, however, said later estimates have moved the cost closer to the $30 million mark—more than half the cost of the completed vessel.

Stratton said his subcommittee is not interested in disciplining workers involved but he said some had been warned during testimony before the Naval Board of Inquiry that they faced such action.

COVER REMOVED

The report emphasized that a hatch cover and protective cofferdam had been removed in March to make it easier to place sonar equipment in the forward section. The cover was not replaced.

A security watch twice within a half hour advised the forward group that the sub was so low wakes from passing boats were causing water to enter the open hatch, the report said, but the warnings were ignored.

To prevent similar incidents in the future, the subcommittee recommended that Navy shipyards appoint a "strong-man" supervisor to coordinate crews working in various locations aboard ships.

It also recommended that cables and lines connected to vessels be designed so they could be immediately connected. Cables running through watertight compartments prevented closing hatch covers that might have prevented the sinking, the report said.

Kenya Leader Mboya Slain

NAROBI (UPI)—A gunman killed Kenya political leader Tom Mboya in a drug store doorway today, the government said. The assassin escaped in an automobile.

Mboya

Police said the unknown killer fired a bullet in Mboya's chest the moment the minister for economic planning and development stepped from Channi's Pharmacy, near the Hilton Hotel.

A doctor tried artificial respiration without success.

Mboya, 39, who was expected to be the next president of Kenya, did not utter a word after being shot.

The killer struck as Mboya was ending a brief shopping tour. He had returned to Nairobi yesterday after attending a U.N. sponsored meeting in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

Hundreds of persons were within a few hundred yards of the killing. At the sound of the single shot, they froze and then rushed to the scene — as the killer's car sped away.

Officers Killed

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Two Camden police officers, one a rookie, were shot to death today as they answered an apparently routine call in South Camden.

Medical Examiner Blair Murphy said the dead officers were Charles Sutman, the rookie, 23, and George Shultze, 27.

Both men had embarked on the midnight to 8 a.m. patrol in the same car. The shootings occurred less than one-half hour after they started their patrol.

The two officers reportedly exchanged shots with a gunman firing from the second story of a frame house at Third and Sycamore streets.

Monkey Lazy?

MOUNTAIN VIEW (AP) — Space scientists were wondering today whether anstronout Bonny was getting a bit lazy as he orbited the earth for a seventh day.

Officials at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Ames Research Center said the 14-pound male monkey was not as active as he was earlier.

Leopard Death

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A black leopard killed his spotted mate of three years in a fight in their Los Angeles Zoo compound before a dozen Fourth of July visitors.

At first the spectators thought the cats were just playing, but as the pawing and screaming increased, one ran for a zoo keeper.

When the keeper arrived, the female leopard was dead of broken neck.

A zoo spokesman said no reason for the fight was apparent, but added it was not unusual for leopards to fight in captivity.

Trouble In Aspen

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — A curfew was clamped on this year-round resort community early today after at least five separate dynamite blasts and a night of restlessness by an estimated 500 hippies.

Sheriff Carrol Whitmire of Pitkin County issued a plea for help late last night after explosions had damaged a city trash collection truck and three buildings.

He estimated the number of roving "hippie types" at 300 but Dick Ritchey, acting Aspen police chief, later placed the number at 500.

The four-man Aspen police force and the Pitkin County sheriff's force were bolstered by a 17-member posse from nearby Garfield County, four members of the Glenwood Springs police force, and six highway patrolmen. Six more patrolmen were standing by in Glenwood Springs.

Speaks In Romania

Harry G. Barnes Jr., U.S. charge d'affaires and ranking diplomat in the absence of Ambassador Richard H. Davis, who is in the United States, was the first American envoy to appear on Romanian television. He spoke for 10 minutes in Romanian, hailing President Richard M. Nixon's forthcoming visit here Aug. 2 as an expression of good will between the two nations.

Chutist Cited

NEW YORK (AP) — A skydiver was issued two summonses yesterday for parachuting into Van Cortlandt Park flying an American flag from a cord of his parachute in honor of a friend slain in Vietnam.

James Mullarkey, 28, a Bronx construction worker and former paratrooper, said he made the jump to honor Sgt. Gerald J. Dunne, 21, of Brooklyn, who was killed in action in Quang Ngai Province last Aug. 25, and to commemorate Independence Day.

The flag had draped Dunne's coffin.

Backs Officer

SUBIC BAY, Philippines (AP) — The captain of the U.S. destroyer Frank E. Evans said today the young officer on duty at the time the American destroyer collided with the Australian carrier Melbourne was one of his "more experienced officers of the deck."

Cmdr. Albert S. McLemore, skipper of the Evans, made the statement before a joint U.S.-Australian navy board as open hearings into the June 3 South China Sea tragedy were convened briefly after a week-long break and then were recessed indefinitely.

The officer in question was Lt. J. G. Ronald C. Ramsey, 24, of Long Beach, Calif., who was on watch when the Melbourne sliced the destroyer in two, killing 74 Evans crewmen.

Racial Brawl

Twenty-five prisioners were injured. Ten were treated at a city hospital, and the others at the reformatory infirmary.

At the close of the evening's movie, "Bonnie and Clyde," some inmates tossed firecrackers into the Negro section of the cellblock, said Supt. Joseph Noble, who went into the block to help calm the inmates.

The disturbance was "purely racial in nature," Noble said. "We can't say it is all settled, but at least it has quieted down."

Eight Arrested

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Eight Americans, four of whom identified themselves as U.S. deserters, were arrested yesterday for disturbing Fourth of July ceremonies at the U.S. Embassy in Stockholm. Police said the youths shouted anti-American slogans and refused to leave the embassy lawns.

Flag Burned

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI)—Students protesting U.S. involvement in Vietnam broke into the grounds of the U.S. Consulate and burned an American flag last night. Then they surged toward a downtown hotel where an American Independence Day ball was underway, but police stopped the march.

Divorce Granted

LONDON (UPI)—The wife of one of the great train robbers was granted a divorce yesterday on grounds that her husband's crime constituted legal cruelty. The judge made the award to Mrs. Helen Mary Welch, whose husband, Robert, was sentenced to 30 years in prison in 1964 for his part in the $7.3 million robbery of a mail train.

War Operation Level Maintained By U.S

SAIGON (AP) — Despite the sharp decrease in North Vietnamese and Viet Cong military actions, U.S. troops are maintaining the same level of operations the U.S. Command said today.

"It's the same as it has been for the past several months," a spokesman said when asked about American operations. "We're continuing to operate in our areas, to search out the enemy, to look for caches. We are at a full level of operations."

Battlefield communiques did not list any significant ground fight during the past 24 hours. The level of activity across South Vietnam dropped to its lowest in more than a year.

The U.S. Command said it had 12 operations of battalion size or larger currently under way, about the same number it has been conducting for the past six months.

U.S. officials have said they do not know whether the decrease in attacks and the withdrawal of enemy troops to border areas is a signal that Hanoi wants to deescalate or just a pause to regroup and resupply.

Only one significant rocket or mortar attack was reported in morning communiques.

Ten mortar shells hit a base camp of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division in the central highlands 245 miles northeast of Saigon. Some Americans were wounded but none was killed, headquarters said. No damage was reported.

B52 bombers made four strikes against enemy troops maneuvering near the Cambodian border and 97 miles northeast of Saigon.

Rocky's Visit To Guyana Turns Out To Be Peaceful

Prime Minister Forbes Burnham told a midnight news conference that expected demonstrations by his Communist-led opposition, the People's Progressive party, failed because "they got cold feet."

Burnham's government tightened security measures for the Rockefeller visit and detained or kept out of Georgetown persons police said were troublemakers.

At joint meetings, Rockefeller heard Burnham discuss a territory dispute between Guyana and Venezuela, plans for settlement of Guyana's interior and plans for regional integration based on agreements with English-speaking countries in the Caribbean.

The most serious problem Rockefeller will take back to President Richard M. Nixon for consultation from this nation of 700,000 is its dispute with Venezuela.

Venezuela's government claims two-thirds of Guyana's territory and Burnham hinted strongly that he believes Venezuela might use arms to enforce its claim.

Rockefeller also will take back requests for aid to build a $150,000 dam to produce cheap electricity and a road linking Guyana with Brazil.

The New York governor will leave Barbados tomorrow after a "listen and learn" tour that took him to 20 nations in Latin America.

Peru, Chile and Venezuela asked him to postpone his visit and Cuba was not included on the schedule.

Rockefeller and his aides will prepare a report on the trip that will serve as one of the guidelines for the Nixon administration's Latin America policy.

Another Ann Arbor Co-ed Shot

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A University of Michigan coed was found shot in the head and critically wounded today in her apartment in Ann Arbor, near where six young women have been found murdered in the past two years.

Police said Margaret Phillips, 25, of Coopersville, was found in her Ann arbor apartment lying on a bed, fully clothed and unmolested. Police Chief Walter Krasny said the apartment apparently had not been burglarized.

Miss Phillips was a student in the School of Social Work, as was the last victim in a string of six murders of young women during the past two years in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area.

Miss Phillips underwent surgery early today. Doctors said she still had one slug imbedded in her head. They added the next 24 hours will be critical for her.

Police said Miss Phillips was found by a neighbor about 15 minutes after she was shot. Police said a preliminary examination indicated the victim admitted someone to her apartment about midnight and talked about 10 minutes. Neighbors reported they then heard loud reports.

The neighbor who found Miss Phillips said she came to use the phone, and entered the victim's apartment through the unlocked door.

Borman Honors Moscow Tombs

MOSCOW (AP) — In an unusual gesture toward closer U.S.-Soviet ties, astronaut Frank Borman placed wreaths today on the tombs of a Communist leader and a Red army soldier, as well as on those of cosmonauts.

On the fourth day of his goodwill visit, the first to Russia by a U.S. spaceman, Borman solemnly laid a wreath at the Red Square mausoleum of Vladimir Lenin, leader of the 1917 Bolshevik Revolution.

The inscription with the flowers said: "To V. I. Lenin, founder of the Soviet state."

Elysee Palace Being Remodeled

PARIS (AP) — Mrs. Georges Pompidou, wife of the new French president, is sprucing up Elysee Palace to give the official residence a little more warmth and intimacy.

She says some of the bathrooms that are being done over were so Spartan "you think you were in an English hotel." The private apartment of former president Charles de Gaulle is being painted in warm pastels. It had been white.

Won't Give Up Gaza Strip—Israel

JERUSALEM (AP) — An Israeli cabinet minister says his country won't return the occupied Gaza Strip to Egypt.

Information Minister Israel Galilee said yesterday in an interview over the army radio station: "I believe it can be said definitely that the Gaza Strip region will not again be separated from the state of Israel."

Peacefulness Marks Berkeley Gathering

BERKELEY (AP) — More than 5,000 young people celebrated a "July 4th Festival of Liberation" on Telegraph Avenue in events marked by peacefulness, ear-splitting music and several girls going topless.

American flags flapped everywhere and the event was all legay because the city council had granted permission for blocking off streets yesterday in the area south of the University of California campus.

Police, guarding the controversial People's Park two blocks from the festival, moved in only to turn off gushing water mains.

A dozen persons were arrested in isolated incidents.

The revelers, who police said were not as numerous as they had been at last year's festival, drank wine, finger painted, carved on wood, listened to loud music, and milled about.

As is becoming customary in Berkeley demonstrations, several young girls went topless.

Kites and balloons flew aloft. The balloons carried a message: "Create."

"They do seem to be having a good time," said Edwin Tiemann, a graying revivialist preacher who watched from his "salvation" truck.

Fireworks Kills Girl, 4, Injures Several Others

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Shelley Adams died an hour after she was hit in the back by exploding fireworks, apparently homemade, Kansas City police said.

A 7-year-old boy was critically injured yesterday during a fireworks display in Goodale Park in West Boylston, Mass. Gerard N. Gaudette Jr. was hospitalized with face and head burns after an aerial bomb exploded in a crowd. Five other persons suffered minor injuries.

A 6-year-old boy from Wickliffe, Ohio, was in fair condition in a Cleveland hospital with severe burns. Police said John Coxwell threw a firecracker into the family garage and it hit some gasoline, setting off an explosion.

James Spahn, 19, of Niles, Ohio, lost his left hand when someone threw a firecracker into his car, police said. The explosive landed in Spahn's lap, police said, and went off as he picked it up to throw out the window.

In Russellville, Ark., a country club manager and a Little Rock fireman were injured when a box of fireworks was ignited by sparks from an aerial bomb, during a display at the Russellville Country Club. Both men were reported in good condition.

Three persons were injured in New York City and about 100 windows shattered when a box of firecrackers exploded a block from police headquarters in lower Manhattan. Police said they found hundreds of unexploded firecrackers in the same building.

In Wallace, Idaho, Thursday, a woman gave her children some fireworks left over from last year. One child dropped a lit firecracker in the family car's gas tank. The car was destroyed, but the family escaped unharmed.

OAS Is Working To Mediate In Border Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — A plan for Costa Rica, Guatemala and Nicaragua to mediate the border dispute between Honduras and El Salvador has been unanimously endorsed by the council of the Organization of American States.

The OAS resolution approved yesterday urged Honduras and El Salvador to avoid any action that might further endanger the situation in Central America. The council will meet July 10 to review mediation efforts.

The United States supported the plan and John Ford, the U.S. representative on the council said he hoped an early settlement could be reached.

Honduras, claiming there was an armed attack by El Salvador Thursday, asked the council for an immediate meeting of Western Hemisphere foreign ministers. The two nations broke diplomatic relations with each other a week ago following a series of border incidents.

Dealer In Art Dies In Pool

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Martha Jackson, 62, who had been described as the nation's best known woman art dealer, drowned yesterday while swimming in the family pool at her Brentwood home.

A neighbor looking over a fence saw her body in the pool and called police.

Police said she had telephoned a friend at 2:20 p.m. and in the course of conversation mentioned that she was going swimming. Police recovered the body at 3:10 p.m.

An autopsy was scheduled to determine whether death came from drowning or some other cause.

Mutiny Lawyer Order Revoked

WARWICK, R.I. (UPI) — A U. S. Army attoreny who gained national prominence defending soldiers charged with mutiny at the San Francisco Presidio will not be sent to Vietnam as previously ordered, it was learned yesterday.

Orders for Capt. Bredan V. Sullivan Jr., 27, of Warwick, were revoked Wednesday by Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor.

Sens. Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., and Alan Cranston, D-Calif., had accused Army officials of ordering Sullivan to Vietnam in retaliation for his vigorous legal defense of two soldier's charged with mutiny at the Presidio stockade.

bad storm," said Clevelander Robert Coatman, who was in his 16-foot boat awaiting a fireworks display at Cleveland's Edgewater Park.

"We headed for shore fast and ran right through the barrier the city had just put up to protect swimmers. Twenty boats must have hit it at the same time."

Few of the persons injured in the storms were reported seriously hurt. More than 300 injuries were reported in Cleveland alone.

At least 30 persons were hospitalized in Toledo for injuries suffered in the storms. Most Toledo hospitals operated on emergency power systems after the storm and one was isolated by water.

Five of the storms dead were identified. Ernest Paszczytowski, 20, of Toledo; Greta D. Schwatz, 16, of Lakewood; and Joann Geneva, 23, of Cleveland, were all reported killed by falling trees.

Samuel Butler, 44, and Elmer Wacchhaus, 50, both of Cleveland, were reported electrocuted by downed power lines.

NIXON

The balance of Nixon's schedule:

July 26—Depart Guam for Manila. July 27—Fly trom Manila to Makarta. July 28—Fly from Jakarta to Bangkok, remaining in the Thai capital until July 31, when he will go on to New Delhi. Aug. 1—Fly from New Delhi to Lajore, West Pakistan. Aug. 2— Fly from Lajore to Bucharest. Aug. 3—Fly from Bucharest to Andrews Air Force Base, Md., arriving in the evening.

Ziegler said there was a "slight possibility" of changes in the schedule. He said a longer stay was scheduled for Bangkok because "this will provide an opportunity for some relaxation following the lengthy flight to the Asian area."

Asked if Nixon might visit South Vietnam during that period, he said, "There's no plan whatsoever to do that."

OBITUARIES

Frederick Scheffauer Dies At 90

Frederick Scheffauer, marine engineer, inventor and author who had been a Marin resident since shortly after the 1906 San Francisco earthquake, died early today at a local hospital after a brief illness. He was 90 years old.

Scheffauer was a former chief engineer of the Rivers and Harbors Division of the U. S. Army Engineers Corps guiding operations on the entire Pacific Coast, Hawaii and Alaska.

Before his retirement in 1944, he obtained patents for several inventions put in use on seagoing hopper dredges. In 1954 a book written by Scheffauer, "The Hopper Dredge," was published, the first work in the field.

Scheffauer moved to Marin from his birthplace, San Francisco, about 1907. He joined the Army engineers two years later.

In 1929 he developed the Blithedale Terrace subdivision in Mill Valley, where he lived until entering Marin General Hospital one week ago after suffering a stroke.

In the late 1930s Scheffauer was named to the board of directors of the Old Mill Valley Bank, which since has become part of the Wells Fargo system.

During World War II Scheffauer joined four Army officers on a secret mission to the South Pacific zone to research areas for allied bases.

He continued to serve as a consultant to the Army engineers as well as to private firms following his retirement.

In his later years Scheffauer was active in Seniors In Retirement of Marin. He also held membership in the society of American Military Engineers and the Permanent Association of Navigation Congresses.

Burnham of Mill Valley; one Scheffauer was a graduate of Technichum Breman, Germany, and Durham College of Science, Newcastle on Thames, England.

He is survived by his wife, Inez; three daughters, Mrs. Juanita McMillan of Strawberry; Mrs. Gisela Sawyer of San Francisco, and Mrs. Louise Burnham of MillValley; one brother, Walter Scheffauer of San Francisco; three grandchildren, and four great grandchildren.

ENVOY

on reports from Washington and Saigon that Hanoi was pulling forces out of South Vietnam and had virtually halted infiltration into the south.

"On all questions concerning South Vietnam," Xuan Thuy replied, "I must ask you to address yourselves to the Provisional Revolutionary Government of the Republic of South Vietnam."

Mrs. Binh was standing nearby and grinned when newsmen turned to her for an answer.

"The Americans are intensifying their aggression in South Vietnam," she said. "Therefore, our military pressure against them has not ceased and will not cease. Under these conditions our people must continue their struggle until the American aggressors have withdrawn without posing any conditions whatsoever."

When newsmen pressed her to explain why the United States reported a decrease of pressure against its forces, she replied, "This is a subterfuge by Mr. Nixon who on one hand is intensifying the war and on the other tries to give the impression that his tactics are succeeding and are achieving results however small."

Seven Die As Rains Lash Western Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Torrential rains have lashed western Japan for two days and national police reported today seven persons perished and seven were hurt. In addition, seven houses were destroyed, 11 were badly damaged and more than 1,200 were flooded.

It was the second session of killing rains in western Japan. Fifty-nine persons perished there in heavy downpours at the end of June.

Quentin Inmate Reported Missing

Kenneth Magarell, 25, who had less than six months to serve before he was to be paroled, was reported missing today from the outside dormitory at San Quentin Prison.

Magarell entered the prison in December of 1966 following a burglary conviction in San Diego County. He was to be paroled Nov. 17, said James W. L. Park, associate warden.

Magarell was missed when guards made a routine count of prisoners at about 3:15 a.m. at the dormitory, about 100 yards west of the main prison wall.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Dividing Awards In Property

Back in 1849 our government made a peace treaty with Mexico. As part of this treaty, California adopted the Mexican-Spanish community property system under which husband and wife jointly owned property acquired after marriage.

To most settlers this kind of ownership was strange. They had been used to common law ownership, under which the husband had all the rights of ownership and the wife, almost none. As a rule, she could receive some of the property if she outlived her husband.

So our early settlers tried to apply most of the common law ideas to the new communtiy property system.

In the earliest days the husband could manage and control the community property, much as if he owned it.

About 1890, however, the laws started to change. The law would not let a husband give away community property.

A wife could ask, and the courts would set aside, any gifts of community property and return them to the "community." Under later law the husband had to get his wife's consent to sell the family furnishings.

In 1917, the law further said that no husband could sell any community real property without his wife's consent. If he did, she could have a court set aside the transfer any time within a year.

In 1923 the wife got the right to will her one-half share of the community property to anyone she wished.

In 1927 the law gave the wife a "present and existing" interest in the community property. She had one-half before her husband's death.

In 1951 the law gave the wife a rignt to control and management of her own earnings, although they were community property. The wife could not give away her earnings without the husband's consent, but she could manage them.

Under a 1957 law, any financial awards a wife got in a damage suit for injuries, let's say in an automobile accident, became her own separate property. However, a recent law says a judge may divide the award from a personal injury suit in divorce proceedings.

Note: California lawyers offer this colmun so you may know about our laws.

Italy Socialists Form Own Party

ROME (AP) — Italy's anti-Communist Socialists broke from the party ranks and formed their own party today. Their action threatened Premier Mariano Rumor's coalition government and confronted Italy with its second major political crisis in seven months.

As the new party was being set up under three breakaway Socialists who quit the Rumor Cabinet, Foreign Minister Pietro Nenni talked with the premier, President Giuseppe Saragat, and top Socialist leaders to decide whether he also should quit the government.

Life Sentences For Stathos, Harnal

The state prison sentence received by two men convicted of the kidnaping and armed robbery of Luciano A. Sabella was life, not five years to life as erroneously reported in a headline in Thursday's Independent-Journal.

A possibility of parole after seven years will exist for Daniel Thomas Stathos, 22, of Pacifica and Kenneth Lee Harnal, also 22, of San Francisco. Stathos also was sentenced to five years to life for the armed robbery of the Greenbrae Lanes in October.

Taps Monument Is Dedicated

They gathered yesterday at Berkeley Plantation, where Union Gen. Daniel Butterfield wrote the haunting melody in 1862, and spoke of sacrifice and dedication.

The monument was donated by the Legion and was built on the site where the general's tent stood on the day he wrote the tune that was later adopted by the military.

Two Women Hurt In Waldo Crashes

Two women were treated at Marin General Hospital last night following two separate accidents on Waldo Grade in Sausalito according to the California Highway Patrol.

Christine Smith, 18, of San Francisco, suffered back injuries in a two-car collision in the southbound lanes on Highway 101 at 10:15 p.m.

Marilyn Pierre, 41, also of San Francisco, suffered a cut chin when her car was involved in a three-car collision approximately 5 minutes later, at 10:30 p.m.

Grenade Blast At Police Station

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A military-type concussion grenade exploded on the steps of the Mission Police Station late last night, blowing out a window but causing no injuries.

"The office shook, the lights dimmed — some of us thought it was a bomb," said Sgt. Jasper Starkie, who suggested the explosion was a July 4th practical joke.

Starkie said the force of the grenade went straight up, breaking a window above the steps and loosening a light fixture on an overhead awning.

The grenade was identified as a military-issue practice grenade made of cardboard packed around an explosive center.

Because the grenade contains no metal parts, there is little danger of shrapnel injury, Starkie said.

Hanoi Release Still Expected

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — American officials hope that three American prisoners North Vietnam said it would release will be aboard an International Control Commission flight from Hanoi next week.

The regular weekly ICC flight was refused permission to land in Hanoi yesterday and returned to Vientiane, but officials said it would leave again late Tuesday.

Hanoi authorities reported the weather would not permit the plane to land yesterday, although well informed sources said the weather was unsettled but did not appear too bad to permit a landing.

Hanoi Radio, which announced the prisoner release Thursday as a Fourth of July gesture to the American people, did not say when the three would be released or how they would leave the country.

Check Stolen

Camera equipment and a book of blank checks were stolen from the apartment of Fred H. Howey of Sausalito sometime Thursday by a burglar who entered through a sliding glass door, sheriff's deputies reported today. The burglary occurred at the Eden Roc Apartment, 100 Ross Road.

Truman Watches Parade From Porch

The 85-year-old Truman stood with his hand over his heart each time a color guard passed his white frame Victorian home. He occasionally waved and smiled as political colleagues marched by.

Witnesses Will Attend Big Meeting

Members of the San Rafael congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses will attend a seven-day convention, July 14-20, at Dodger Stadium in Los Angeles.

Nearly all members of the local group will join thousands of other delegates who are coming from all 50 states and 17 countries, according to Francis Paulson, presiding minister. Local services will be suspended for the next two weeks.

Paulson also reported that 8,000 volunteers in the Los Angeles area have spend thousands of hours searching for rooming accommodations in private homes for the visiting delegates. Other volunteers are staffing information booths to provide conventioneers with travel data, freeway routes and locations of accommodations in relation to the convention site.

Greek gods had monthyly birthdays. Artemis, goddess of the moon and hunt, was honored on the sixth of every month. Moonshape honey cakes lit with tapers were placed on altars in her temples — the first birthday candles.

A Mill Valley youth was reported in critical condition today in the intensive care unit at Marin Genral Hospital following a motorcycle accident on Fort Barry military reservation last night.

John M. Linberg, 20, of 206 Scott Street, Mill Valley, suffered severe head injuries, and cuts and bruises over most of his body, according to a spokesman for the hospital.

According to the military police at the Presidio of San Francisco, Linberg was driving east through the tunnel under Highway 101 at 9:45 p.m. when his motorcycle struck a curb and he was thrown off.

Aussie Students Battle Over War

Ten persons were injured and 30 arrested in Melbourne as more than 3,000 demonstrators battled police for three hours outside the U.S. consulate. The protesters threw stones, smoke bombs and firecrackers.

Students in Sydney burned an American flag outside the U.S. consulate, and 17 were arrested in a skirmish with police. Two hundred protesters sat down in the street and chanted: "Victory for the Viet Cong."

SELECTION OF FINE HOMES

FOR THE FAMILY — NOVATO

On a big corner lot, with view of surrounding hills and a good feeling of privacy — this is a fine family home in a lovely neighborhood. Close to schools and close to the Indian Valley Country and Golf Club, this 4-year-old home has 4 bedrooms, or three bedrooms plus dining room, a deluxe kitchen range and oven, large family kitchen. The exposed aggregate patio has a fire pit for those outdoor barbecues. Owner has transferred east and will consider LEASE/OPTION with $2,000 down, $27,400. Eves. 453-8881.

EXCELLENT LOCATION — FAMILY HOME — SAN RAFAEL

Very attractive home within walking distance to primary and high schools. 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, separate dining room, large deck off living room, storage galore. Attractive views from front and rear. Unfinished area off garage could be another bedroom or den. Easy-maintenance garden, 2-car garage and 2-car port. Assumable loan of nearly $19,000 at 5¾%. Owner may carry 2nd deed of trust for qualified buyer. Excellent opportunity. $33,950. Eves. 453-5718.

NEED MORE SPACE? — CORTE MADERA

Here's a large home for the growing family. It has a great back yard for small children — is close to school and shopping center for maximum convenience, with an easy commute for Dad. Four bedrooms, 2 baths, garage all tiled for family room, huge kitchen with adjoining area. Landscaped for minimum upkeep — panoramic view. $39,950. Eves. 924-4323.

5 BEDROOMS, 4 BATHS — GREENBRAE

This lovely home is located on the level in Greenbrae and is in excellent condition. $28,000 5½% assumable loan and owner will consider second to qualified buyer. Best value in Greenbrae at $47,900. Eves. 453-5983.

IMMACULATE GREENBRAE HOME — GREENBRAE

Beautifully renovated 3-bedroom, 2-bath home in excellent location. 4th bedroom could be made of large family room. 3rd bath and sauna bath not completely finished. Dining room is large with built-in broiler. Enormous view deck overlooks north and East Bay. 3-car garage. $54,500. Eves. 435-1590.

FOR THE SAILING BUFF! — TIBURON

Immaculate Paradise Cove home with 20' easement to water, 400' into bay for boat dock. Ideal for the yachting enthusiast. This custom-built home has 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, formal dining room, family room — all designed for gracious living. Sweeping view of Bay. Grounds are completely landscaped and there's a good pool site. $59,950. Eves. 435-1590.

UNIQUE DESIGN — MILL VALLEY

This extraordinary 2,300-sq.-ft. home is supported entirely on Baxter poles — startling and spectacular. All the rooms are unusually large with beamed ceilings. It has a roomy den or family room with circular fireplace opening to one of three spacious decks. There is dining space and a breakfast area, 3 bedrooms and 3 baths, and this splendid home is not yet a year old. Woodsy atmosphere but convenient to town with easy San Francisco commute. $79,500. Eves. 435-1590.

CUSTOM-BUILT — KENTFIELD

Ideal location. Custom-built home of Master Builder gives privacy and seclusion but on the level and walking distance to schools and bus. 3 bedrooms, 3 baths, paneled living room, huge family room, large free-form POOL. $89,500. Eves. 453-5983.

FIT FOR A KING! — KENT WOODLANDS

This is very definitely a luxury home, exhibiting quality and impeccable taste throughout. For the super-executive, it is designed for entertaining on the grand scale. The living room, with cathedral ceiling, is truly magnificent — fully 38 feet long, and this superlative home offers a splendid view to the East Bay and Mount Tamalpais. There is a library for true privacy, and a large formal dining room for elegant dinner parties. Beautifully landscaped, of course. A truly fine offering at $115,000. Eves. 924-4323.

for the purpose of treating and disposing of the sewage from Oceana Marin Unit No. 3 and Oceana Marin Unit No. 4 as provided for by the sewage disposal facilities agreement between the North Marin County Water District and Bodega Bay Lands, Incorporated and Highway Properties, Incorporated, dated July 1, 1969.

5. This Board hereby finds that the project will be of special benefit to such improvement district.

6. This Board hereby declares its intention to undertake the aforesaid project.

7. This Board hereby estimates the annual cost of the operation and maintenance of the sewage disposal facilities at $3,000 per annum.

8. The method by which the project is proposed to be financed is by the levy of ad valorem taxes upon all the taxable property within the improvement district. The rates of such taxation shall be fixed annually by this Board of Directors in the manner provided in Sections 31702.1 to 31702.4 inclusive of the California Water Code, provided, however, that the maximum amount of such tax which may be levied in any year shall not exceed seventy-five cents (75c) per $100 of assessed value of the taxable property in such improvement district.

9. NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON PROPOSED FORMATION OF AN IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT WITHIN THE OCEANA MARIN-DILLON BEACH TERRITORY OF NORTH MARIN COUNTY WATER DISTRICT

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Board of Directors of North Marin County Water District will conduct a public hearing on the proposed formation of an improvement district in the Oceana Marin-Dillon Beach territory of North Marin County Water District at 8 o'clock p.m., P.D.T., on Tuesday, July 15, 1969, at the office of the District, 999 Atherton Avenue, Novato, California. Said hearing will be held pursuant to and on the matters stated in Resolution No. 784 of the Board of Directors of said District adopted on July 1, 1969, which resolution reads as follows:

'RESOLUTION NO. 784
RESOLUTION OF INTENTION TO UNDERTAKE A PROJECT IN OCEANA MARIN-DILLON BEACH AREA AND TO FORM AN IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT THEREFOR

BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of Directors of North Marin County Water District as follows:

1. This resolution is adopted to institute the formation of an improvement district within North Marin County Water District in the County of Marin, State of California, pursuant to Chapter 5 of Part 6 of Division 12 of the California Water Code.

2. A description of the boundaries of the imporvement district proposed to be formed is as follows:

A portion of the uninhabited lands in the County of Marin, State of California, which were annexed to North Marin County Water District on April 16, 1969; said portion referred to as "Oceana Marin Unit No. 3 and Oceana Marin Unit No. 4". A legal description and boundary map of said lands are appended hereto and made a part of this resolution.

3. Said improvement district proposed to be formed is hereby given the designation "Improvement District No. OM-1 of North Marin County Water District".

4. A brief general description of the project to be undertaken with in such improvement district is to provide for the operation and maintenance of a sewage treatment plant and spray irrigation disposal system, a force main and pumping stations, and a collection system

Marine Files For Release

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI)—An Indiana Marine serving 20 years in jail on a conviction of murdering five South Vietnamese civilians has filed a second petition for release.

Lance Cpl. Denzil Allen, 21, of Lebanon, Ind., said in his petition for a writ of habeas corpus from U.S. District Court yesterday, he had exhausted all military avenues of appeal.

He said that in the interval since his first application for release was denied in May, the Military Appeals Board rejected his appeal.

Judge Edward Gignoux denied the first application on grounds that all military remedies had not been tried.

Allen is serving his term at the Naval prison at Portsmouth Navy Base, Portsmouth, N.H.

Potatoes contain a significant amount of vitamin C. Scurvy was common following shortages of potatoes in Ireland in 1847.

Raid Overplayed, Taipei Claims

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist China's commando raid against a Communist Chinese naval base yesterday was an "overplayed" incident and not intended to increase tension in the Formosa Strait, government sources said today.

"There have been many such raids in the past," the sources said. "As you know, they are not always reported."

The sources indicated they were surprised by the prominent play that the raid received in some countries, adding: "The reports seem to have been overplayed."

New Bible

LONDON (UPI)—A modern translation of the Bible is being printed for sale next spring, the Oxford and Cambridge University Press announced today. The publisher's New English Version of the New Testament has sold seven million copies since it was issued in 1961.

I-J Carrier-of-the-Year

John Taylor of San Rafael

Few boys, anywhere, have a record like this:

- Chosen one of 6 best carriers in state, 1969
- Earned 30 straight I-J achievement awards since he started in 1966
- Now I-J Carrier-of-the-Year, 1968

When you consider that the I-J has 800 newspaperboys you can see that John's achievements were not lightly come by. Month after month since he started carrying the I-J (in 1966) young John has met every test of service and responsibility on the job. He has an "executive" sense of managing each detail on his route: keeping subscribers happy; getting new ones; handling his accounts; keeping his records. Much of his success is due to the I-J newspaperboy training program, but a lot is his own consistent desire to do a good job. MEET THE CHAMP!

People's Pad Plan Being Withdrawn

BERKELEY (UPI) — The People's Pad for youthful summer visitors may follow the People's Park into oblivion before it even sees the first light of day.

The original proponents of the pad have withdrawn their application to convert a vacant housing project into a summer youth hostel and called the whole thing a mistake.

"We didn't talk to the community as we should have," said Berkeley activist Art Goldberg, referring to the objections of neighbors to an influx of hippies. "We didn't explore what their needs were."

Fred Cody, a bookstore owner involved in the proposed project, said there was "no hope of its being worked out in the form submitted. We were honor bound to withdraw our request."

The people who wanted to build the pad were many of the same hippies and students who took over a vacant lot owned by the University of California and turned it into the do-it-yourself People's Park.

The park is now being turned into a parking lot and playing field, the University's original plan for the property, but not before two weeks of violence left one dead, scores injured and hundreds arrested.

Israel Power Lines Damaged

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Saboteurs damaged two towers on an electric power line to the port city of Eilat early today the army announced.

The sabotage apparently was in retaliation for an Israeli commando raid into Egypt's upper Nile June 29. The Israelis claimed knocking out a power line running from the Aswan Dam to Cairo.

The Israelis said their line was cut in the Negev, north of Eilat near the Jordanian border.

RUSHING TO WAIT

The bag may be bulky but the weight is light because the steps, ceremonial and otherwise, after all those months, are finally coming to an end for this American soldier in the 3rd Battalion, 6th Infantry, 9th Division. Scheduled to leave Vietnam shortly as part of troop withdrawal, he is waiting to disembark from a landing craft at Dong Tam Base Camp in Mekon Delta.

Liquor-Sparked Riot Brings Prison Damage

NORCO (AP) It was a rollicking Fourth of July party — with singing, laughing, and plenty of booze.

But the California Rehabilitation Center here doesn't permit its inmates to have liquor—especially the kind they brew themselves from fruit, called "pruno."

Security guards moved into the barracks and confiscated the moonshine.

The 50 to 70 prisoners there grew sullen. One shouted, "It's a holiday, we deserve something special."

Others began ripping up bed sheets, destroying mattresses, and throwing furniture through the windows. Some set small fires.

The violence spread—and soon more than 400 inmates were involved in the brief Friday morning melee, which caused $10,000 damage and left nine prisoners and one staff member slightly injured.

The disturbance was quelled by about 100 guards with tear gas after about an hour and a half.

To prevent any escape, Riverside County sheriff's deputies and California Highway Patrolmen ringed the minimum-security institution, where more than 2,000 drug addicts are undergoing treatment.

The 91-acre center is about 75 miles southeast of Los Angeles.

Thirty-five of the rioters — identified as ringleaders—were taken to the California Reception Guidance Center in Chino, a maximum-security facility.

Officials said most of the 35 would be transferred to other state narcotics centers, and may have criminal charges filed against them.

Guards were still looking for the still which made the illicit drink, officials said.

Laos Reds Claim U.S. Plane Down

TOKYO (AP) — The Communist Pathet Lao claimed today that it shot down two American F105 jets and a U.S. helicopter when it forced government troops out of the city of Muong Soui June 29.

Hanoi's official Vietnam News Agency said in a broadcast that "hundreds of tons of weapons and war material were destroyed or captured" during the assault, "including many tanks and artillery pieces."

The broadcast said Muong Soi, a strategic city 110 miles north of Vientiane, was one of several bases built up by the United States and its allies "as springboards to launch attacks and smuggle bandits and commandos for daily sabotage" against Pathet Lao-controlled areas.

Second Day Camp Registration

The San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department will hold late registration for the second session of day camp at 8:30 a.m. Monday at Albert Field.

The second session of day camp, held at Deer Park in Fairfax, will run Monday through July 18 for children aged 7 to 12.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Outdoor Workers' Skin Ages Faster; Other Changes Told

VAN DELLEN

People whose lives are spent outdoors not only look older than office workers, but they also are more susceptible to skin cancers.

Sunlight has an aging effect, especially when the skin is bombarded by ultraviolet over a long period of time.

Benjamin Franklin, an astute observer, probably was right when he remarked that you cannot tell the age of a group of women if barrels were put over their heads and shoulders.

A GROUP OF dermatologists from Houston proved that the epidermal layers were definitely harmed by daily exposure to old Sol. Damage was noticeable in oldsters but depended more on degree of exposure and extent of natural and artificial protection.

Many tanning faddists do not realize that sun light leads to dry, coarse, leathery skin that is wrinkled and dotted with various pigmented lesions. This is better understood by comparing regions exposed to light with those protected by the clothing.

AGING ALSO ALTERS the functions of the epidermis. The water content decreases and, for no apparent reason, may increase slightly after age 60. Resiliency is greater in the young, but the skin loses its elasticity as the years pass.

There is a decreased output of sweat and the outer layers are consistently drier. Nail growth also decreases.

The oil (sebaceous) glands are controlled by the sex and pituitary glands. Sebaceous glands increase in size during puberty and adolescence. This is partly responsible for the teen-ager's oily skin and acne.

In essence the secretion drops off in women but to a lesser extent in men.

GRAYING OF THE HAIR begins in childhood and continues throughout life. The change is more rapid in males between 30 and 34 and females from 35 to 39. The process is more marked in persons with hypertension and arteriosclerosis.

The cause can be found in the hair follicle where tyrosinase activity slows down and the pigment-producing cells become less and less active. The result is gray hair.

HEBERDEN'S NODES

I. R. writes: One of the joints of my little finger has been swollen and painful for a long time. I would like to know if this is an infection and what can be done about it.

REPLY

I assume that this is a Heberden's node, especially if the swelling involves the joint nearest the nail. The pain subsides within six months, but swelling may persist. Heat is the best remedy. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this disorder.

BURNING NOSE

REPLY

Too much sun, Hungarian goulash, or John Barleycorn. The burning sensation usually is due to dilated capillaries. Burning and itching may be difficult to tell apart. The latter stems from allergy or nervousness.

HIDING PLACES OF DISEASE

A reader writes: Can a person be a diphtheria carrier if his tonsils have been removed?

REPLY

Yes, because the tonsils are not the only organs in which the bacilli hide. The culprits also settle in the adenoids, sinuses, nose, and throat.

FATTYTUM SOR t FATTY TUMORS

D. H. writes: I have one fatty tumor on the back and another on the ankle. Can these be dissolved?

REPLY

No. However, if they are bothersome or in an area subject to irritation, the lesions can be removed surgically.

CONFUSED WHEN ILL

P. N. writes: My wife had a severe sore throat that lasted 14 days. She was given a dozen penicillin injections within four days. During the illness she became confused and saw pictures on the ceiling. Do you think penicillin was responsible for her mental confusion?

REPLY

This is questionable. Infection is a more likely cause. Delirium may stem from toxic products of the bacteria or from a high temperature. Older persons frequently develop psychiatric symptoms when they become ill and inactive.

IODIZED SALT

E. T. writes: Will the use of iodized salt aggravate an overactive thyroid?

REPLY

No. If anything, the chemical may help. Iodine is used in the treatment of hyperthyroidism but it is not recommended for long periods of time. Otherwise, it masks symptoms and delays cure.

Vatican Denies Nixon Report

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A Vatican spokesman denied today reports that diplomatic relations between the United States and the Vatican were discussed when Pope Paul VI met with President Richard M. Nixon's special envoy two days ago.

Nixon's news secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, said the envoy, presidential assistant Peter Flanigan, told the Pope that Nixon had decided against naming a full-time U.S. representative to the Vatican.

But the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Fausto Vallainc, Vatican news spokesman, told newsmen: "Regarding the question of eventual diplomatic relations between the Holy See and the United States, of which the press has been writing in the past few days, it does not result that Mr. Flanigan, special assistant to President Nixon, talked about this with the Holy Father during the audience July 3."

Klansman Jailed In Dixie Fracas

SWAN QUARTER, N.C. (AP) — Seventeen Ku Klux Klansmen were jailed last night after a brief exchange of gunfire with a group of Negroes in Hyde County.

Lt. L. F. Lance of the North Carolina Highway Patrol said gunfire was exchanged during a KKK rally in a building near the small community of Middletown in the coastal county.

Lance said charges were being prepared against the Klansmen.

Lance said one Negro girl was injured slightly during the exchange of shots. The unidentified girl was treated at a hospital in Belhaven and released.

One Klansman was hurt while being arrested by state troopers, Lance said.

Alto-Richardson 5 Pct. Pay Hike

A 5 per cent salary increase for fiscal 1969-70 has been approved for employees of the Alto-Richardson Bay Fire District, according to Chief Carl O. Heynen Jr.

Heynen said the salary hike, approved Thursday night by directors, will cost the district approximately $4,000 in the 1969-70 budget of $135,000.

AT WIMBLEDON

Laver Wins Crown

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Top-seeded Rod Laver retained the men's singles title with a 6-4, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4 triumph over Australian countryman John Newcombe in the Wimbledon Tennis Championships Saturday.

Laver, the 30-year-old southpaw rated the world's No. 1 player, rallied from a 1-4 deficit in the third set to wear down fellow pro Newcombe, 25, and take his third major tournament title this year.

He won the Australian and French championships before successfully defending his 1968 Wimbledon crown and can duplicate his grand slam of seven years ago with a victory in the U.S. Nationals.

Midway in the third set, however, his Wimbledon title hopes appeared to be dimming. Newcombe, the 1967 titlist, had taken the second set to square the match and broke the champion in the third for a 4-1 lead.

Then Laver took seven games in a row, pulling out the set and taking a 2-0 lead in the fourth. Newcombe battled gamely the rest of the way, but could not keep up with the powerful defender.

Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif. failed in her bid for a fourth consecutive women's singles title yesterday. She lost the final to Ann Jones of England 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Mrs. Jones, after trying to win the title for 13 years, became the first Briton to triumph at Wimbledon since Wightman Cup team captain Angela Mortimer won the crown in 1961.

DOUBLE VICTORY

Unlikely Giant Heroes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three unlikely heroes have vaulted the San Francisco Giants back into the thick of the National League's Western Division race, while leaving first-place Atlanta in a precarious position.

Reserve first baseman Bob Burda, light-hitting outfielder Dave Marshall and seldom-used starter Ron Herbel emerged from obscurity to lead the Giants to a 7-6 and 7-3 doubleheader sweep of the Braves yesterday.

Bobby Bonds chipped in with three home runs as the badly crippled Giants pulled to within 4½ games of first place. Atlanta's lead over second-place Los Angeles was trimed to one ta's lead over second-place Los Angeles was trimmed to one game.

TIES GAME

Burda tied the first game with a two-run pinch homer in the ninth inning. He followed with a two-run, game-winning run in the 10th, snapping the Braves' six-game victory streak.

Marshall, who began the day with a .225 average and was hitless in two trips in the first game, cracked a key two-run single to highlight the Giants' five-run, six-inning uprising in the second game.

Herbel, 4-1, who defeated Cincinnati 12-5 last Saturday, went the distance in the nightcap—the first time th bepsetacled right-hander had hurled two complete games in his six-year major league career.

All wasn't cheerful for the Giants, however. Willy McCovey injured his left wrist chasing a foul ball in the opener and Hal Lanier bruised a heel in the nightcap. Both were expected to be out of action at l one day.

LATE SCRATCH

Catcher Jack Hiatt was a late scratch yesterday, being sent to the hospital for bleeding ulcers. Third baseman Bobby Ethridge also was sidelined after splitting an index finger while whipping the ball around the infield Thursday.

"I wasn't going for a homer," admitted Burda, "But my chances were better than Lanier's. The homer was the farthest thing from my mind. With two strikes on me, I just tried to keep from striking out."

JIM MURRAY

He Still Sees Staid England At Wimbledon

LONDON — Listen! You know the L.A. Tennis Club? Bulldoze it.

Forest Hills? Park cars on it. The National Clay Courts? Flood it and iceskate on it.

Get a bag of rocks and throw them at any tennis courts you have ever seen. River Oaks? A dog run.

Wimbledon is to tennis what the Sistine Chapel is to worship, what the Hope Diamond is to jewelry, what Bach is to music. Everything else is Bridgeport. It's not an arena, it's a cathedral.

Think you're a big man in the old home town, do you? Think you're president of Shrapnel Oil with a rug on the floor, two secretaries and your own cable address?

Sell a million dollars worth of insurance last year, did you? Company bought you a new Rolls and you made the cover of Business Week?

only on of your homes, is it?

Look at it this way: Did your father ever wear a crown to dinner? Sober that is?

Maybe they painted your ancestors' pictures. But on stained glass windows?

How Many In Westminister?

How many people in your family are buried in Westminster Abbey? Anybody ever call your Uncle Bertie, "Your Majesty"?

People curtsy to your wife? Anybody trying to arrange a marriage for your daughter with the King of Greece? Anybody play a trumpet when you come down to breakfast?

Maybe your grandfather was a soldier but I'm not talking about the quartermaster corps. The question is, did he lead the troops at Agincourt? Napoleon ever offer a reward for him? Pigeons perched on his statue in Trafalgar Square?

Any of your ancestors make archbishop? People have a fit because you married a commoner?

At Wimbeldon, you'd be lucky if they didn't sic the cops on you. You got to give your regiment, wear your medals and have a page in Burke's Peerage all to yourself or they'll quarantine the chair you sat in. The guy who sold you a ticket will be fired. If your family came from a country where the mean summer temperature rose above 60, he better have been president, or king. At least, prime minister.

Most Exclusive Sports Party

This is the most exclusive party in sports, 29,000 people sitting there in hats a foot high, swallowtail coats, more monocles than the German general staff.

The accents are so stilted, they're incoherent. It's about as emotional as a will-reading.

"Bjore!" murmured one walrus-moustached type with ruddy face at one critical point. "Wad he say?" I asked. "He said good shot!" a companion answered. "Yeah, but in what language?" I asked.

You should be Sir Walter Scott to cover this thing. You should make notes with a quill pen. You feel hopelessly crass writing with anything but a feather. The tapping of a typewriter sounds like a sonic boom. A polite burst of applause is permitted if a player makes a once-in-a-lifetime shot but what is really preferred is a kind of stiff-upper-lip murmuring like a sound of bees in clover. They got so many stiff upper lips over here, they talk only with the bottom half of their mouths you keep looking around for the ventriloquist. I would say there were more cases of constipation per square inch than there is in 10 floors of Bellevue Hospital.

The Tennis Is Only Secondary

The tennis seems secondary. Open tennis has perpetuated the pillage of the game by the Australians who outnumber the world in the final matches, three to one.

A British player hasn't won this thing since the days when airplanes had two wings and ships were wood, but no one seems to mind terribly much.

Who needs to win Wimbledon when he's got a hat at home made out of jewels and "home" is not, repeat not, in the suburbs, but a 200-room, 300-year old pile of marble and stained glass guarded by a bunch of guys in fur hats and swords and dinner is served by guys in knee britches and gold buckles on their shoes? It's well established no gentlemen ever plays a game well enough to win, anyway. Good heavens! Would you want us to be like those awful Americans or any other savages and go about with rings in our noses?

Penn Crew Loses Henley Challenge Cup

HENLEY - ON - THAMES, England (AP) — The Einheit eight-man crew from Dresden, East Germany, defeated the University of Pennsylvania today for the Grand Challenge Cup, premier event in the annual Royal Henley Regatta.

The race was rowed under almost ideal weather conditions.

The East Germans won by three-quarters of a length in 6 minutes, 28 seconds for the 1 mile, 550-yard course. The record time of 6:16 for the race was set by Ratzeburger Rowing Club of West Germany in 1965.

LADIES CUP

The Nereus Rowing Club of Holland won the Ladies Challenge Plate for eights by defeating Trinity College of Hartford, Conn. The winner's time was 6:55.

The Hartford crew was the first American one to reach the final of this event, which was thrown open for the first time in 1967. Nereus won by 1½ lengths.

Washington-Lee High School of Alexandria, Va., led all the way to beat England's Emanuel School and take the Princess Elizabeth cup for schoolboy eights.

The winning margin was two-thirds of a length and the time was 7 minutes flat.

Washington-Lee was half a length in front after the first few strokes and never trailed.

SECOND YEAR

This is the second year in a row that the cup has gone to the United States. Last year Washington-Lee's neighbors, J.E.B. Stuart High School, won. Washington-Lee last won this event in 1964.

"Well, it was tough, as expected," said Joe Burk, Penn's coach, after his team's defeat.

"Maybe three hard races in three days was a bit too much for us. But we are not too disappointed, it was a fine race and this crew is the fastest I ever brought here."

Sharon Walsh Out In National Meet

Sharon Walsh of San Rafael fell by the wayside in girls 18 play of the 22nd annual National Junior Hard Court Tennis Championships at Burlingame yesterday.

Sharon lost to Janet Newberry, 6-3, 6-4, in the quarterfinals but teamed up with Cindy Thomas to down Susan Warfield and Cindy Crosby in the girls 18 doubles, 6-4, 6-3.

Cranston Leads Track Victory

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—His team was running last Friday but then Sen. Alan Cranston came on the scene and put it into a respectable third place.

California's junior senator, 55, is competing in the second annual Masters Track and Field meet for men over 40 this weekend. His team in the 440-relay was losing until Cranston took the baton.

A track man in his days at Stanford, Cranston did the 100-yard dash in 12.4 seconds Thursday, not quite the :9.9 he was clocked at more than 30 years ago.

Girl Jockey Gets Five-Day Suspension

LOS ALAMITOS, Calif. (UPI) —Tomey Jean Wieburg, the first girl jockey to win a race at Los Alamitos, has been suspended at the quarter horse track for five days.

The stewards last night handed her the suspension because of her ride aboard Dickey Bar Joe in the fourth race Thursday. Her mount was disqualified from third place for interference and placed last. The 18-year-old girl, who will begin her suspension next Tuesday night, collected her first win aboard Jo Burress Monday night.

Key Clash In Southern Marin Loop

Some of the confusing dust in the South Marin division of the Joe DiMaggio League will settle tomorrow when the reluctant front-runners knock heads in a 1 p.m. game at Marin Catholic High School.

That's when Toby's Truckers, leading the division with a 5-2 record tangle with the Italian Club, runnersup at 4-2-1. Roger Smith will go for the Italian Club while Bill Kelly will handle pitching chores for the Truckers.

In other games tomorrow the Mill Valley Chiefs, in third by a shade (4-3) meet Holiday Magic at the Presido at 1 p.m. and San Anselmo meets Herb's Pool Service at Drake High School at 1 p.m. and San Anselmo meets Herb's Pool Service at Drake High Schooi at 1 p.m.

Annex Motors, breezing along with a 6-1 record in the North Marin division, takes on Healdsburg at Novato High School at 5:30 p.m.

The Presidio, last in the South, has a bye.

Improved Driving Wins '400'

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Lee Roy Yarbrough says better driving on his part and improved teamwork among his pit crew made the difference between his four major stock car racing victories this year and his string of second place finishes last season.

"I think we've been tying up all the loose ends," Yarbrough said after powering his white and red 1969 Ford through two crashing cars and past runner-up Buddy Baker of Charlotte, N.C., to win the Firecracker 400 stock car race yesterday.

"I think I definitely had the fastest car," the handsome Columbia, S.C., driver said. "This engine runs flawless. It just sings."

"He was a fraction of a second faster than I was," Baker acknowledged. "I was ready to give it an All-American try for the flag, but I just couldn't catch him." Baker drove a 1969 Dodge.

Yarbrough's four wins this year tied the record for the most major speedway wins in a single season. Cale Yarborough, the pole sitter for the Firecracker 400 who had to drop out after the first 50 miles with a broken valve in his 1969 Mercury, set the record last year.

Yarbrough's improved driving came into play at the start of a pileup that eventually involved five cars.

"That wreck happened right in front of me," he said. "I saw two cars come together. I couldn't go around either side. I put on brakes and waited for them to come apart. They did and I went right between them."

Hunter Doesn't Have It

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP)—"You know it's a mystery," one of the Oakland Athletics was saying. "Jim either has it or he doesn't. He's either perfect or gets tagged."

Jim Hunter, now 5-7, didn't have it yesterday as the Minnesota Twins bombed him for eight hits and seven runs in 3 2-3 innings en route to a 10-4 victory.

The loss cut the A's American League West lead over the Twins to four percentage points.

Chuck Dobson, 9-6, of the A's faced Dick Woodson, 5-3, of the Twins today.

Bob Miller, a former Los Angeles Dodger used mostly in relief, scattered eight Oakland hits, including Rick Monday's seventh homer, a three-run blast in the ninth.

Ted Uhlaender doubled, Tony Oliva doubled and Harmon Killebrew hit his 20th homer.

Rod Carew and Oliva, who along with Uhlaender had three hits each, doubled for another run in the third.

Cardenas led off the fourth with his fifth homer. Two outs later, Hunter was chased by Carew's sixth homer, following Uhlaender's single.

Rich Reese singled in a run off A's reliever Jim Roland in the fourth and the Twins added their ninth and 10th runs in the seventh on doubles by Uhlaender and Carew.

The A's, hit by injuries to shortstop Bert Campaneris, left fielder Mike Hershberger and catcher Larry Haney, called up outfielder Jose Tartabull and put Hershberger on the 21-day disabled list. Campaneris and Haney are expected back next week.

Rain-Delayed Buick Open Goes Again

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (UPI) —Front runners R. H. Sikes and Homero Blancas try again today to hang on to their lead in the second round of the rain-delayed $125,000 Buick Open on the 7,001 yard Warwick Hills course.

Both players matched the course record of 65 on the first round to seize a two-stroke lead on the field, and Sikes was even par for the first seven holes of the second round. Then the rains came and almost three hours later, PGA officials canceled play for the day.

It was the fourth time in 12 years that the Buick, often harassed by rain, has had a washout and the fifth time this year that a PGA tournament has been forced into postponement by rain.

The rainout forced officials to order play of the complete second round today and schedule a 36-hole final on Sunday for the players who make the cut, the 70 low scorers and ties. It will be the third tourney this year on the PGA tour on which a 36-hole Sunday finale was necessary.

Bonds Steps Into Mold

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

For the last few years, Bobby Bonds has been touted as the man to replace Willie Mays as the San Francisco Giants' center fielder. He showed why yesterday in a Fourth of July power display.

The 23-year-old outfielder belted three home runs to power San Francisco to 7-6 and 7-3 victories over the Atlanta Braves, the Western Division leaders. He hit his first homer in the third inning of the opener and tied the game with his second in the eighth. Bob Burda, who tied the game at 5-5 with a ninth inning homer, doubled home two runners in the 10th to give the Giants the victory.

In the second game, Bonds connected in the third inning and singled during a five-run sixth inning rally that wiped out a 3-0 Atlanta lead.

Elsewhere, New York swept Pittsburgh, 11-6 and 9-2, Chicago edged St. Louis, 3-1, in 10 innings, Cincinnati beat Los Angeles, 4-1, Montreal swept Philadelphia, 8-5 and 7-3, and Houston shut out San Diego, 4-0.

Al Weis who entered the doubleheader batting .167, lashed five hits and drove in five runs in the Mets' sweep of the Pirates. Weis had a two-run double in the opener to climax a four-run fifth inning and he tripled to climax a five-run first inning in the second game.

Tom Seaver won his 13th game in the opener and Cleon Jones, 4-for-10 in the doubleheader, recaptured the NL batting lead from Matty Alou.

Billy Williams doubled in one run and scored another on Ron Santo's single as the Cubs scored twice in the 10th inning off Bob Gibson to beat the Cardinals. Don Kessinger, who tripled in the third and scored the Cubs' first run on Glenn Beckert's sacrifice fly, singled leading off the 10th and stole second. Beckert beat out an infield hit and Williams doubled to score Kessinger.

Ferguson Jenkins allowed seven hits in recording his 11th victory.

Little-used Pat Corrales broke a 1-1 tie with a two-run double in the fourth inning as the Reds went on to beat the Dodgers. Tony Perez singled and Lee May doubled before Corrales collected the first of his two doubles. Bob Tolan also had two doubles and drove in a run.

Rookie Jerry Robertson hurled a six-hitter for his first major league complete game and also drove in a run as the Expos snapped the Phils' nine-game winning streak in the opener.

Bob Bailey and Coco Oaboy each drove in two runs during a four-run eighth inning rally in the nightcap which gave the Expos a sweep of the doubleheader.

Larry Hisle drove in three runs with his 11th and 12th homers of the season in the opener for Philadelphia.

Larry Dierker won his 11th game in 16 decisions as he held San Diego to seven hits. Doug Rader drove in two runs with a fifth inning double and scored on a sacrifice fly as the Padres lost their sixth straight game.

Spirits May Be Outlawed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—City fathers here may outlaw certain expressions of spirit at professional sporting events. That is, the kind fans bring in brown paper bags and turn to when the home team has caved in before their eyes.

If a law drafted by the city attorney's office is adopted by the Board of Supervisors, fans will be prohibited from bringing their own alcholic beverages into Kezar Stadium, home of the football 49ers, and Candlestick Park, playground of the baseball Giants.

The proposal was requested by the Recreation and Park Commission, whose spokesman said nearly every other major stadium and ballpark in the country had such a law.

Specifically, the plan would outlaw fans from bringing any "malt, spiritous or vinous liquor containing more than one per cent alcohol by volume" into the arenas.

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (UPI)—The 25th Transpacific Yacht Race from Los Angeles Harbor to Diamond Head in Hawaii is under way.

Seventy-two sleek sailing craft left Friday on the first leg of the 2,250-mile event.

Jackson Eyes Twin Sluggers

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Reggie Jackson watched quietly as the Minnesota Twins slugged their way into a first-place tie with the Oakland Athletics in the Western Division.

The Athletics' muscleman, who has slammed 33 homers and is far ahead of the record pace of Babe Ruth and Roger Maris, was limited to a double yesterday by Bob Miller as the Twins clobbered Oakland, 10-4, behind home runs by Harmon Killebrew, Leo Cardenas and Rod Carew. The victory moved Minnesota .004 percentage points behind division-leading Oakland.

In other American League action Detroit defeated Baltimore, 4-1, in a game halted after 4½ innings because of rain, Washington downed Boston, 5-1, before dropping the nightcap, 7-4, New York edged Cleveland, 5-4, before the Indians rebounded, 4-1, Kansas City swept Seattle, 13-2 and 3-2, and California downed Chicago, 7-3, before losing the second game, 3-1.

Norm Cash's three-run homer in the first inning was the key blow in the Tigers rained-shortened victory over the Orioles. Mickey Lolich chalked up his 11th victory against a single loss as he allowed only a solo homer to Frank Robinson in the fifth inning. The game was held up twice, for 68 and 34 minutes.

Ken McMullen batted in three runs and Frank Howard blasted his 28th homer as the Senators topped Boston in the opener but Carl Yastrzemski's two-run homer in the first inning and a three-run double by Tony Conigliaro in the seventh inning rallied the Red Sox in the nightcap. Reggie Smith and Brant Alyea also homered in the second game.

Gene Michael and Bobby Murcer helped Fritz Peterson to his ninth victory as they each drove in two runs in the Yankees' first game triumph over the Indians.

But a two-run homer by Ken Harrelson off the left field foul pole and a two-run double by Tony Horton enabled Cleveland to gain a split of the doubleheader. Juan Pizarro pitched a five-hitter in the second game.

Bob Oliver led the Royals to a sweep over the Pilots by belting the first grand slam of his major league career in the opener and singling home a run in the nightcap. Oliver's slam capped a five-run eighth inning after the Royals had scored six times in the seventh. Roger Nelson pitched a four-hitter in the first game.

Local Drivers Star In Packed Cycle Benefit

Marin County Motorcycle Association's annual Guide Dogs for the Blind benefit Moto-Cross drew some 300 entrants yesterday from as far away as Reno, Eureka, and Los Angeles.

Local riders held their own, however, with Brad Larry, San Rafael motorcycle mechanic, taking first overall in the 250 open amateur-expert event on his American Eagle and then going on to third overall in the 250cc amateur on a Suzuki.

Edmondson Blazed Trail Through Redwood Empire

IN THE FINAL YEARS OF his long service as general manager of the Redwood Empire Assn., Clyde Edmondson would have been a poor bet to win any kind of a popularity contest among the people with whom he worked.

At times he was, as they say, very controversial.

"The man who has no enemies cannot have worked to accomplish much of anything," Abraham Lincoln is said to have observed.

So it was with Clyde Edmondson who devoted every ounce of strength and energy to working for what he believed to be the best interests of all the people in all of the nine counties—including Marin — embraced by the Redwood Empire.

TODAY, THE REDWOOD EMPIRE of northern coastal California (and the portion that spills over into Josephine County, Oregon) is known world-wide as one of this earth's greatest concentrations of natural beauty. It includes unbelievably beautiful beaches, unsurpassed rivers and lakes, and millions of acres of giant redwood trees, the oldest and tallest of all living things.

Half a century ago, the world was unaware of these great attractions.

Had the world been aware, it would have made little difference; it all was largely inaccessible.

There was no Redwood Highway. The first overland trip from Marin through the coastal counties to the Oregon border had been made, but it was a rugged pioneering expedition.

MEN OF VISION AND imagination, like Clyde Edmondson dreamed of a day when a man with an automobile could take his family and drive the length of this scenic area, with ease.

They foresaw the importance of the motor truck as successor to freight train and cargo ship in supplying the needs of communities along this coastal strip.

Nearly 50 years ago, these visionaries formed the Redwood Highway Assn. Young Clyde Edmondson, barely old enough to vote and with a full head of curly red hair, was probably the most visionary and most impatient of that organization's board of directors.

Their efforts during the first decade produced powerful little highway and mostly monumental frustrations.

IN 1930 THEY ORGANIZED on a broader base, calling themselves Redwood Empire Assn., and prepared to move forward on a wider front, with young, energetic and aggressive Clyde Edmondson as general manager.

Today's Redwood Highway which enables the man with a family to drive easily to any of the hundreds of vacation attractions in the nine counties is a monument to the energy and effort that went into those many decades of developmental work.

CLYDE EDMONDSON DIED in San Francisco this week. He was old, tired, worn-out and the tiny fringe of hair bordering his bald pate had long since grown nearly white.

Friends who knew him intimately say it was his wish that whatever estate he might leave would go toward the preservation of more redwood trees for public enjoyment, alongside the Redwood Highway.

CLYDE EDMONDSON HAD A REPUTATION for being tough and uncompromising. So he was.

But he also had a soft side which almost none of those associated with him ever had occasion to know.

HE NEVER, NEVER, NEVER spoke personally of his own great tragedy—the loss of his wife and newborn son more than four decades ago. For many of those decades, his late wife's effects were maintained in the room where she left them, just as she left them.

It was obvious to those who knew his secret that he had plunged himself into his work, driven himself without res- as to leave no time to brood over his own great tragedy.

At the same time, in a strangely old-fashioned, formalized way, he always conveyed his concern for the wives and families of those with whom he worked.

IN 1960, AFTER HE HAD served the Redwood Empire for nearly four decades, he felt himself "running out of gas." He did what he thought best for the area he loved. He quit to make way for someone younger and more energetic, more equal to the task yet to be performed. They called it retirement.

In "retirement" he never missed a Redwood Empire Assn. meeting; he never failed to speak out on matters of concern to him.

He "kept in touch" almost daily with his successor as Redwood Empire Assn. general manager.

IT COULD BE SAID THAT the world-wide recognition of Redwood Empire scenic attractions and the Redwood Highway itself stand as monuments to Clyde Edmondson's life and work.

Those who knew Clyde Edmondson best are sure he would prefer to think of every moment of human enjoyment of a redwood tree or a Redwood Empire beach or river or trail or blossom or view as the monument he worked to provide.

BOUQUETS & BRICKBATS

BRICKBATS to youngsters who climb on firetrucks and interfere with the work of firemen who are trying to protect the community.

BOUQUETS to Kathleen Hodge, 19, and Rolanda Osmon, 18, who were chosen Miss Marin and Miss Sonoma, respectively, at the Sonoma-Marin Fair beauty pageant in Petaluma.

A BOUQUET to Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, for pushing through a joint resolution asking federal authorities to include recreation and beautification on channel improvement projects.

A BOUQUET to Edna R. Bovett, who retired after 41 years of service with the Petaluma City Library.

BRICKBATS to the irresponsible who jeopardize lives and property by illegal shooting of fireworks.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

AN AGENT CALLED a night club impresario to enthuse, "I'm sending over a new singer you simply gotta audition. He's another Frank Sinatra." "What's his name?" inquired the impresario. "That's it," said the agent. "Another Frank Sinatra."

A murderer in Taipei was about to pay the penalty and grumbled to his guard that his last meal was not the traditional sumptuous one. "You're the only poor fish being hung tomorrow morning," apologized the guard. "When they are two or more, we add egg rolls and barbecued ribs."

Relative importance of 'structures'

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Are Feds Immune To Planning Rules?

The account of the controversy at Inverness over a proposed Coast Guard barracks and apartment project omitted a most important consideration — the proposed density of the project is about three times that permitted under the West Marin Master Plan.

The Coast Guard, a federal agency, thus negates and ignores the federally financed plan that was to protect the Point Reyes National Seashore from overcrowding.

The Coast Guard proposes to put 81 dwelling units — 180 people — on 23 acres, of which eight are to be used for spraying their treated sewage effluent.

A private developer could not have done as the Coast Guard has done — prepared this project in secret, keeping both the National Park Service and the Marin County Planning Department in ignorance of its plans. The first news that Mr. Zucker received of the plan came from myself, who had received it by word of mouth, although I am downstream of the project and am vitally affected.

A private developer would have had to go through planning, health, and public works staff, conforming to the California subdivision acts; would have had to have several publicly noticed hearings before the Planning Commission and Board of Supervisors. Of course, his approval would have a set of mandatory conditions.

Most important, a private developer could not have received the award of density of 3.5 dwelling units per acre on this type of land. The general average density for the West Marin Plan area, 1.15 units per acre, represented an excessive award to the importunate land owners, and is not by any means appropriate as a norm, yet it is to be exceeded threefold by the feds, calmly immune to planning standards that another federal department is trying to encourage!

Unilateral Pullout Is Irresponsible

Your editorial of June 25, "Action, Not Tokenism, Needed in Vietnam," gives the erroneous impression that the only U.S. troops presently scheduled to be withdrawn are "25,000 medical and supply troops." To cite an authoritative source (I-J June 23 and 24), three battalions of the 9th Infantry Division as well as 5,200 Army and Navy personnel patrolling the Mekong Delta are among those units being returned. One Marine regimental landing team is also being called back.

North Vietnam, on the other hand, can hardly be accused of tokenism as it continues to occupy portions of neutral Laos and Cambodia, to carry on offensive operations in South Vietnam, and to fire rockets at Saigon and other cities.

Certain other words besides tokenism are more appropriate in the present situation. We expect Communist delegates to bargain for peace in Paris, yet we have nothing to bargain with — we occupy no section of North Vietnam, have ended bombing of the North, and have begun unilateral withdrawals. The words for this are wishful thinking.

Clark Clifford and Cyrus Vance (now that they are no longer responsible for Defense Department policies), Senator Fulbright, and others propose wholesale unilaterial withdrawals and a unilateral cease-fire while at the same time professing to oppose the communization of Southeast Asia which such policies might well bring about. The word for this is irresponsibility.

LINES ON LIVING

It Is Never Too Late To Create Joy In Life

By RABBI HAIM KEMELMAN

For those tossed in a boisterous sea of troubles, there is apparently little room for optimism and good cheer. They may reject out of hand the precept of "Enjoy yourself," with an inverted pessimism of resignation: "It's later than you think."

It's too late, some will say. There is too little in their own life to cheer them. They are spending all their time and overtime to deal with the heartaches and hard pressing problems of the day. How can you find time for joy in life when there is so little in your life that you really like?

CREATE IT! Every person is still master of his own soul. And what he is alone, in himself and by himself, what no one else can give him or take away from him — is still the most precious element in one's destiny. No one will deny that physical poverty, agonizing loneliness and shattering disease can make life miserable and joyless. But morbid self-absorption is of little help. On the contrary, it will accentuate the problem at hand by making it a festering and spreading sore.

There is really very little choice for us. We can focus our attention and our life energies on ourselves by filling our minds with mirrors reflecting only our own little world of petty ambitions and fleeting pleasures; or we can merge ourselves with the mainstream of life by opening up our minds with windows that will extend into the great world of outgoing joy and enduring involvement.

A MATURE person is one who has learned to break out of himself — not away from himself — in order to bring a greater measure of meaning and richness into his individual life; who has mastered the art of integrating his personality by finding those satisfactions and joys in himself and in his work that will bring enjoyment and service to others; who can come to think of others before he considers his own comfort and pleasure. A mature person, in a word, is a self-extended individual.

People who are self-centered and self-obsessed always live in a glaring world of the blinding mirrors of their own dazzling self-indulgence and super-sensitivity. They are imprisoned to an awkward and self-conscious existence by "taking their own pulse," imagining exaggerated problems, hurts and humiliation. The mental hypochondriac who can't get off his own hands imagines the whole world to focus on him, against him. He sees insult where there isn't; malice where there is none.

He is in the way of himself, blocked in the dead-end of his own deadweight. So vain is he in his egocentricity that he causes his personality to be arrested in development, always to remain an immature infantile wrapped up in a bundle of his own sensations and clamoring needs.

AT ALL TIMES and circumstances, in our happy moods as well as in our anguished moments, we can find relief by releasing ourselves from the narrow world of our "mirror mind" which can turn into a torture chamber of mental anguish for us. "Anxiety," one psychiatrist remarked, has the same root as the Latin word "angina," which means narrowness, a narrow pass. The egocentric, being hemmed in by some neurotic narrowness of personality and outlook, finds himself hopelessly caught in a squeeze of his own making until he can hear Balaam's proverbial ass speaking for his better self in chastisement: "What have I done unto thee that you have struck me these three times?"

Men and women who feel inadequate, unfulfilled and troubled by some weakness, handicap or unsmiling fortune, can always find some compensating interests and stimulation outside themselves that will bring them a measure of joy and warmth in life. Instead of treading their own narrow path of crushing pressure and repeated remorse of resounding regret: "What have I done . . . ?" they might better face the greater arena of a world larger than themselves and by affirming it, find enough love and grace, laughter and joy to make living challenging and worthwhile.

Congress Steers Clear Of Sex Education Issue

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Some members of the House and Senate are being fervently urged to act, but it looks as if Congress will steer carefully clear of the burgeoning public controversy over sex education in schools.

The door is open for action. Rep. Henry C. Schadeberg, R-Wis., has introduced a bill on the subject. The bill would forbid federal assistance for teaching, teacher training or research in public school programs of sex education.

Senators and congressmen are well aware of the noisy controversy. Mail is quite heavy in some congressional offices, and a couple of Washington's bedroom suburbs, where congressmen raise their own children, are already involved in sex education battles.

There has been some talk of public hearings on Schadeberg's bill. For the present, however, it seems unlikely that Congress will provide a national forum for the violent protests which are being loudly pressed in many localities across the nation.

FOR ONE thing, congressional leaders are suspicious of the right wing origins of much of the mail which demands an end to sex education courses. They are convinced that such organizations as the John Birch Society and the Christian Crusade have inspired many of the protests.

In that regard, House and Senate education experts, who have guided federal education programs through racial and religious mazes, are not anxious to involve them in a sex education battle with right wing overtones. They are quite willing to leave that to the local agencies which run the public schools.

Finally, knowledgeable lawmakers, aware that many school systems have long conducted a sort of sex education in the guise of "health" and "hygiene," believe the question is not whether to have a sex education program but what kind of program to have.

MANY OF the complaints reaching congressional offices are aimed at the independent, non-government Sex Information and Education Council of the United States, a clearing house which, under the acronym SIECUS, has become a full fledged villain of the ultra-right. The group is headed by Dr. Mary S. Calderone, a long-time birth-control crusader.

SIECUS, a non-profit organization, does not control programs but seeks to promote local sex education campaigns through speeches, publications and films. The programs which it fosters, sometimes under the heading "Sensitivity Training" or "Family Life Education," are designed to eliminate sexual fears among young people and promote a normal healthy sexuality.

Courses fostered by SIECUS usually involve the force-feeding of very explicit biological and sociological information from kindergarten through high school. That is where the criticism comes in, and some of it is not from the John Birch Society or its supporters.

"These people are sinking their own ship," says Dr. Gerald Sandson of the National Institute of Mental Health, who feels that misdirected SIECUS promotions are alienating parents and provoking local and state legislation which could hamper useful school programs.

HE IS CONCERNED that the teachers who wind up using the volatile materials promoted by SIECUS will not be professionally or psychologically suited to that difficult teaching chore.

Similar views have been expressed by New Yrok City child psychologist Rhoda L. Lorand. She is the author of a book, "Love, Sex and the Teen-Ager," which has been well received by child guidance experts.

Friends here say Dr. Lorand's book was warmly praised by Dr. Calderone when it first appeared, as a contribution to the child rearing cause. Since Dr. Lorand blasted SIECUS, they say, her book has been ignored by the organization in its promotional efforts.

ART BUCHWALD

Don't Feel Smug With MIRV; They Can Counter With IVAN

WASHINGTON — I know he doesn't mean to do it intentionally, but every time Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird opens his mouth.

We're told that if we don't build an ABM system to protect our Minutemen, the Soviets will be able to wipe them out with their MRVs (multiple re-entry vehicles), which they have developed as a first-strike weapons capability in answer to out MIRV — a multiple independently guided re-entry vehicle. Our MIRV carries clusters of nuclear warheads as compared to the old-fashioned nuclear missiles, which could only be shot off one at a time.

YOU WOULD think that MIRV would be the ultimate doomsday weapon in our arsenal, but this is not the case.

I have a friend at the Pentagon who said:

"What is IRVING?"

"IRVING is the intercontinental re-entry vehicle injector nuclear group. It not only has clusters of missiles, but each cluster reproduces a new generation of missiles while in flight."

"MY GOD," I said, "that should certainly give us more than parity with the Soviets."

"It would, except that we know they're working on IVAN."

"What is IVAN?"

"An independent vehicle anti-IRVING Nike, which has clusters of hydrogen warheads set in nitrogen bombs, which can explode within 200 miles of an IRVING."

"I'm sure we've got an answer to it."

"We have it in BERNIE."

"BERNIE?"

"BERNIE stands for ballistic engineered re-entry nuclear evaporator. It has 10,000 rockets which, when ignited by a cluster of IRVINGS, can hit every major capital in the world."

"Good for BERNIE," I said. "I'm sure the Russians wouldn't start anything once they knew we had BERNIE."

"They know it, and we know that by 1987 their answer to it will be MISHA. As you know, MISHA stands for multiple intercontinental supersonic atomizer. It is fired down instead of up, and when it hits the earth's core it explodes and blows up the entire world."

"THEN THEY have the doomsday machine?"

"They will have unless we immediately start work on MORTY."

"I know it stands for multiple something," I said.

"Wrong. It stands for megaton oscillating re-entry thick yield. You fire this weapon through a hidden garbage disposal unit and in 20 seconds it produces a mushroom cloud, not only around the earth but over the entire universe."

"Oh," I cried, "if we can only develop MORTY in time."

"Even if we did," my friend said sadly, "we'd still have to go on. You see, while we're talking, the Soviets are doing their preliminary work on SASCHA. Would you like to know about SASCHA?"

"Could it wait until tomorrow?"

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

'Starving In Midst Of Plenty' Is Fate Of This Working Girl

DEAR HELEN:

I'm single, have a good job, a plush apartment, a wonderful boy friend. We've known each other for 10 years. He has a very successful business, has completed his military service—nothing stands in the way of his marriage: Except that he likes his life the way it is.

He is kind, considerate, attentive — when we're alone, but at other times he barely speaks. We were childhood friends, and when we started dating, he pressured me for "a meaningful relationship." I put up all the old arguments against today's new morality — about waiting for marriage, guilt feelings, the whole route. But after a year of constant bickering, he won. I was tired of all the arguments, the shattered nerves, and I decided waiting wasn't worth it. You see, I love him very much. I couldn't bear to lose him.

Jim has never said he loves me or offered hopes for a future together. He abhors planning ahead, though he comes over steadily, we go out, come back to my apartment, go to bed. Then he leaves, and I'm left again, with only my dreams of happiness and my reality of loneliness.

Helen, all I want is to please him, to be with him always, as his wife. I know all Jim needs is to realize how much he really needs me, but how can I make him see that? — EX-BELIEVER IN THE NEW MORALITY.

DEAR EX:

Jim won't realize how much he needs you until he stops having you — and perhaps not even then.

Tell him you're tired of being "always a bed-mate, never a bride," and your apartment is off limits to anyone who doesn't have a ring in his voice . . . wedding ring, that is.

Then look for a man who doesn't take you for granted, among other things.—H.

Parents' Anniversary Is Daughter's Day Too

Married on her parents' 27th wedding anniversary was Jeanette M. Gilbert of Larkspur who was wed to Peter Biegh on Saturday, June 28. The ceremony was performed at Stewart Chapel in San Anselmo. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley J. Gilbert of Larkspur and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Beigh of Deerfield Park, Ill., and were present.

Gail Egan of Greenbrae was maid of honor for Jeanette and the bride's three sisters were among her bridesmaids. They were Mrs. Erik Andersson of San Mateo, Mrs. Martin Langsam of Sausalito and Valerie Gilbert of Larkspur. Brenda Sloan of Chicago was a bridesmaid also.

Attending the bridegroom were Jack Riesche of Deerfield Park, Ill., as best man and ushers Michael Rockwood and George Knackstedt of Schiller Park, Ill., Martin Langsam of Sausalito and Erik Andersson of San Mateo.

A reception at Peacock Gap Country Club preceded a wedding trip to Hawaii. The new Mr. and Mrs. Beigh will live in San Francisco.

Jeanette was graduated from Redwood High School and Bay City College. She is employed as a United Airlines stewardess in Chicago. Her grandmother, Mrs. J. Leo Wright of Newark, N.J., was among the wedding guests.

Peter is a graduate of Deerfield High School and attended the University of Wisconsin prior to employment with Northwest Orient Airlines in Chicago. His brothers and sisters, Annette., Eilene, Phillip and Mark, came for the wdding.

Others coming to Marin for the nuptial and anniversity celebrations were Mr. and Mrs. Prime Wright who returned from four and one-half years in Vietnam to be present, Mrs. John Edward Gill of Stanford, Conn., Marguerite Clare of Darien, Conn. and V. Zimmerman of Newark, N.J.

Tan—Don't Burn

To get that tan without suffering through a painful sunburn this summer, medical authorities suggest you begin your first day with about 15 to 20 minutes of exposure each on your face and back and then extend the period in the sun each day. Increase exposure by one third the second day, another third the third day, and so on. Remember that painful burns can be caused by wind as well as sun, and that even on a cloudy day it is possible to get a severe burn.

Peace Corps Duo Marry And Couple Notes Fifty Years

CHATTING WITH Sengalese friends after their wedding in Dakar, Senegal, West Africa are Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Donaldson. She is the former Patricia Browning of Mill Valley and the couple will soon visit in Marin with her parents. They have served with the Peace Corps in Senegal the past two years.

By MOLLY MARIN

After their marriage in Dakar, Senegal, West Africa the Douglas Clyde Donaldsons are on their way across the United States to visit Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Forest Browning of Mill Valley, parents of the bride, who is the former Patricia Thomas Browning.

The couple, who have been Peace Corps volunteers the past two years in Senegal, were married in a French civil ceremony, with Fred Davis of New York, a Peace Corps volunteer, and Mamadou N'Diaye, director of the school for girls in Foundiougne, Senegal, as the witnesses. A large reception followed at Peace Corps headquarters in Dakar, attended by the American Ambassador, Peace Corps friends and Senegalese friends of the couple. The villagers of N'diedieng honored the bridegroom with a farewell dance the last night of his stay. Douglas had been in charge of community development for the village under the Sengalese ministry of Rurale Animation, and Patricia was director of the social center at Foundiougne, where she taught kindergarten, child care, health and nutrition and she also taught art at the school for girls.

After a wedding trip through the Canary Islands, Rome, Paris and London the couple are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Donaldson of Hopkins, Minn., and plan to arrive in Marin the first part of August. Douglas will then enter Hastings College of the Law and the bride will continue graduate work at the University of California school of education.

A GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY celebration, hosted by their children, honored Mr. and Mrs. Erich Burkhardt of San Rafael Thursday evening. A reception and banquet at the Franciscan room of the Holiday Inn was attended by 33 family members and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Burkhardt came to the United States from Germany in 1949 and made their home in New Brownsville, Tex. In 1965 they moved to San Rafael. Erich Burkhardt retired from his post as a mechanical engineer in 1959 and Meta Burkhardt has been active with the practical nurses group in Marin County.

The Burkhardt family includes their son J. E. Burkhardt, his wife and four daughters of Terra Linda; and Mrs. Ursula Mohler, her husband, two sons and a daughter of Washington, D.C. giving the elder Burkhardts seven grandchildren. J. E. Burkhardt is a real estate executive dealing in special properties and Mrs. Mohler was a research scientist prior to her marriage. Mr. Mohler is the chief medical officer for the FAA in the nation's capitol.

Old Church Is Setting For Nuptials

Old St. Hilary's Landmark in Tiburon was the locale of the wedding of Elaine Lyons and William K. Halnan yesterday. The Episcopal ceremony was the first marriage service performed at the former Roman Catholic Church since 1954. The old church, replaced by the present St. Hilary's Church for Tiburon Peninsula parishioners, was purchased by the Belvedere-Tiburon Landmarks Society in 1959.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. Harold M. Lyons of Ross and Mrs. Wilson Lyons of Winton. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Watson Lyons of Diamond Bar, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Asmussen of Atwater. Her sister, Jennie Lyons, lives in Granada, Spain.

William is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Halnan of Oakland.

Suzanne Lyons of San Francisco was maid of honor for her sister. Jane Halnan, of Oakland, the bridegroom's sister, was the bridesmaid.

Best man was Gary Gebhard of Oakland. Malcolm Dunlap of Rohnert Park, Robert Strom of San Francisco, and Charles Newcomb of La Jolla, escorted wedding guests to their places. The reception was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Watkin in Kent Woodlands.

Elaine attended Sir Francis Drake High School and was graduated from Redwood High School. She is a graduate of Willamette University in Salem, Ore., and is employed as a secretary to Henry S. Dakin in San Francisco.

The bridgegroom is a graduate of Fremont High School in Oakland and of the University of California. An engineering graduate, he is employed at Airco Temescal in Berkeley.

After a wedding trip to Southern California, the newlyweds will live in San Francisco.

MR. AND MRS. MONTE FITTS

Karen Gull Wed Yesterday To Monte David Fitts

Zephyr Cove, near Lake Tahoe, was the setting yesterday for the marriage of Karen Gull and Monte David Fitts. Attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Pete Peterson.

Karen is the daughter of Mrs. Opal McCann and the late Glenn Dunham. Mr. and Mrs. John Fitts of San Rafael are the bridegroom's parents.

The bride, a graduate of Tamalpais High School, is employed as a real estate salesman by Bay Area Real Estate in San Rafael.

Monte was graduated from San Rafael High School, College of Marin and the University of California. He is also a real estate salesman, employed by William Timmer Realtor in San Rafael. The bridegroom is the brother of Douglas and Gayleen Fitts.

The couple will live in Loma Verde, following a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe.

Douglas Davis, Barbara Bennett Wed At St. John's Church In Ross

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Hallett Davis are on a tour of the northern United States and Canada, following their marriage last Saturday at St. John's Episcopal Church in Ross.

The bride is the former Barbara Jane Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon G. Bennett of Kentfield.

Nancy Louise Bennett was her sister's maid of honor. Another sister of the bride, Alison Noel Bennett; Crystal Baker, a student at the University of California; and Janet Stock of Mill Valley were bridesmaids.

A garden reception at the hone of Mrs. Gail Apperson in Ross followed the ceremony.

Barbara is a graduate of Redwood High School and is a student at College of Marin. She has another brother, Clifford Bennett. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford O. Morse and Mrs. Leon G. Bennett, all of Kentfield, are the bride's grandparents.

Douglas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Davis of Mill Valley. He is a graduate of Tamalpais High School and is employed by Stark-Rath Printing and Publishing Company in San Francisco. Mrs. Rudolph Kasik of Mill Valley and Chicago is his grandmother, and he is the brother of Mrs. Antone Caccamo of Santa Rosa.

The couple will live in Fairfax.

Hem Markers Are A Boon

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR MRS. FARMER,

When I make my daughter's clothes, I measure the hem so carefully and when the dress is finished, the hem is exactly the same width all around. My problem is that when she puts the dress on it seems to be much shorter in the back. Should I cut the back slightly longer when I cut the dress out?

MRS. J.K.E.

DEAR MRS. J.K.E.:

The only accurate method of making a hem even when the garment is worn is to actually mark the hem while it is on with a hem marker. If you have someone to mark your hem for you, the markers that have an attachment that permits pinning the correct length are the greatest. However if you must take your own skirt length, you will have to use the kind that sprays white chalk at the correct spot. By using a hem marker, your hem will always be the same distance from the floor. You can always change the width of the hem itself if it isn't exactly even.

MRS. G. H. CREECY JR., Portsmouth, Va., is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her suggestion:

"New idea for nylon net! Wanting to finish a dress and finding myself out of either woven or non-woven interfacing, I came across some nylon net and decided to give it a try. I used a single layer in my collar and found it does a beautiful job, perhaps better than the woven kind. It launders better and doesn't lose its stiffness and is much less expensive. I have used a double layer where I needed more body and it, too, works beautifully."

DEAR EUNICE,

I just finished making a dress out of a sheer knit fabric. I wore it a few times and discovered that the machine stitching where I top stitched the zipper has caused the fabric to tear. How can I keep this from happening again? — MRS. R. B. T.

DEAR MRS. R.B.T.:

The only explanation I have is that perhaps you had a blunt needle in your sewing machine. Since the fabric is a sheer knit, it is possible that it could have cut the fabric.

Most women only replace a sewing machine needle when the one they are using breaks. Actually, you should replace needles with almost every garment. Since most machine stitching is over pins, the machine needles become blunt much quicker.

When you replace the zipper, you might use one of the new invisible zippers that are available. If you still prefer the lapped closing, try handpicking the zipper instead of machine stitching. Keep the stitches fairly loose so that they will have the same elasticity that your fabric has.

DEAR EUNICE,

I would love to make a fur muff for my daughter out of the fabulous fake furs but can't find a pattern for one. Have you any suggestions?

MRS. R.S.G.

DEAR MRS. R.S.G.:

Sorry, but I don't have a pattern available for fur muffs either, but your question is certainly opportune. If any of our readers know how to make a fur muff or know where a pattern can be purchased, please write to me, Eunice Farmer in care of the Independent-Journal, so that I may pass this information on.

Today is Saturday, July 5, the 186th day of 1969 with 179 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1935 President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the Wagner-Connery Bill, offically known as the National Labor Relations Act. It guaranteed labor's right to collective bargaining.

In 1945 Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced the liberation of the Philippines.

In 1965 President De Gaulle of France boycotted the European Common Market, creating a danger to Europe's ever-increasing prosperity through trade.

A thought for the day: Mark Twain once said: "To promise not to do a thing is the surest way in the world to make a body want to go and do that very thing."

Crowds Cheer Burglars' Sentence

HAVANA (AP) — When six members of a burglary ring were sentenced recently to prison terms ranging from three to 30 years, the trial drew a large crowd and there was vigorous applause when the convictions were announced.

Thus reported the Communist Party newspaper, "Granma," commenting that the applause showed "an unmistakable sign that the people are in a state of alert in this fight to the death against delinquency."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

East Uses Deceptive Diamond Play To Steal Away A Victory

If you get too close to the nest of a certain bird, she will pretend to fall to the ground with a broken wing and will try to lure you away from her nestlings. You might practice that broken-wing routine for use at the bridge table. Any diversion is worth a try if you see that declarer is sure to make his contract by normal play.

SPADE LEAD

West opened the jack of spades, and declarer won with the ace. He returned the ten of diamonds for a finesse, and East won with the ace.

South was very pleased, for a time. He won the spade return with dummy's king, got to his hand with a heart and led the nine of diamonds to repeat his "proven" finesse.

This time East produced the queen of diamonds, to South's dismay. The rest of the spades then defeated the contract.

East timed his deceptive play of the ace of diamonds very cleverly. If he had won the first diamond trick with the queen he would have pushed declarer into the winning line of play.

NORMAL PLAY

Imagine that you are South and that you lose the first diamond trick to the queen. Now your remaining spade stopper is removed, and you must make your contract on the run or not at all. What would you do?

Naturally you would lead a club from dummy and try a finesse with the queen. You would hope to win all five club tricks, which is possible if East has the doubleton king. This line of play would work, and you would make your contract.

DEFEATS HAND

East could see that his king of clubs was just where a finesse could pick it up. Instead of folding his arms and accepting loss of the rubber, East produced the deceptive diamond play to steer declarer away from the winning line of play.

ANSWER: Bid one spade.

Most experts consider the anemic four-card heart suit too weak for a bid, but some will bid any four-card suit in this position. Unless partner insists on spades, you will make your next bid in notrump.

BAPTISTS, CATHOLICS

Ecumenical Talks On Informal Basis

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — Southern Baptists and Roman Catholics, for years the two main holdouts from the ecumenical movement in America, finally are getting together to share their approaches to faith—on an informal basis.

"At least we are making a start," says Brooks Hays, former president of the Southern Baptist Convention.

What brought about the new steps, says Catholic Auxiliary Bishop John S. Spence, of Washington, D.C., is an "awakened consciousness of our spiritual kinship."

Making those first conciliatory moves took some delicate diplomatic footwork, and involved a long history of mutual aloofness from cross-Christian activities, a situation altered in recent times on the Catholic side.

The common past position of both groups on the matter served to ease the strain.

As noted by a Catholic theologian, Rev. Kilian McDonnell, of St. John's College, Collegeville, Minn., Catholics understand the Baptist hesitancy toward ecumenical contacts because Catholics also are latecomers to the movement.

For centuries, up until the 1960s, Catholicism had shunned any official recognition of other church bodies or relationships with them, until the second Vatican Council plunged the Roman Catholic Church into vigorous association with other denominations around the world.

Southern Baptists continued to avoid any involvement. Its 11-milllion-member communion remained the largest Protestant body not taking part in interchurch councils or other cooperative enterprises.

25 MILLION

Furthermore, Baptists, as an international alliance of 25 million, were the only major Christian group that refused to send observers to the Vatican Council. Some individual Baptists, defying the policy, went unofficially anyhow.

Over-all, the record had marked a stiff barrier between the two bodies—a condition which, paradoxically, stemmed from their longtime similar attitudes on the subject.

But a beginning was made toward bridging that gap this month at a meeting at Wake Forest University's Ecumenical Institute in Winston Salem, N.C.

It was the first jointly organized Baptist-Catholic dialogue, and it was regarded as the prelude to other future sessions.

"The principal focus of our interest is the unchallenged and overwhelming fact that we are brothers in Christ," said a resolution adopted by the 58 participants—39 Southern Baptists and 19 Catholics, including two bishops.

NO DISGUISE

"We did not attempt to disguise our theological differences, but were made aware of the mutual enrichment under the guidance of the Holy Spirit."

Previously, in the past three years, regular, periodic consultations have developed between Catholics and every other major Christian tradition, but until the sessions this month, there had been no talks with Baptists.

Much of the initiative in arranging the meeting with Catholics came from Hays, the one-time Arkansas congressman and prominent Baptist layman who now heads the recently established Ecumenical Institute at Wake Forest, a Baptist university.

Hays says the conference, for which the institute served as sponsor, was a first step in "establishing the basis for a reconciliation between two important religious communities."

Because of special Baptist concepts, which hold that each congregation is an autonomous church unit for which the denomination as a whole cannot make commitments, the meeting was described as not officially representative. The Bishops' Commission is an official arm of the Catholic Church, but agreed to the modified role to satisfy the Baptist reservations.

GUEST SPEAKER—Joseph D. Gargiulo, Novato city councilman and principal of North Marin High School, will be guest speaker at the 8:30 and 10:55 a.m. services at the Novato United Methodist Church, 1473 South Novato Boulevard. His topic will be "The Daily Challenges of Christianity in 1969."

Funds Voted For National Crisis Issues

MINNEAPOLIS (LC) — Appropriations totaling $3,415,000 for programs and projects aimed at alleviating national crisis conditions are included in the American Lutheran Church's budget of $23,461,061 for 1970.

Budget approval for the next fiscal year was voted recently by the ALC's joint council in the wake of a pressure campaign by a "Conference on Inner City Ministries," an ALC subsidiary group known as CICM, which made demands echoing the rhetoric of the James Forman authored "Black Manifesto."

No funds were appropriated for the Forman organization, the National Black Economic Development Conference.

National publicity which attended the demands from the CICM meetings held at Augsburg College, Minn., a few days prior to the meetings of the ALC's church council and joint council, resulted in a flood of mail and telephone calls from various parts of the country objecting to any concessions by the ALC to the program of the militants.

The CICM group had repudiated the "Black Manifesto" admonitions to "violence in all its forms," but had urged the ALC to approve the principle of reparations demanded by the Forman document in the amount of $500 million.

Initial response by the Church Council, which met prior to the budget meeting, was to repudiate "strong, coarse, inflammatory language" of the "Black Manifesto," but to pledge an aggressive program of "help to solve the American problems of racism and poverty."

Following the budget approval, the ALC's president, Dr. Fredrik A. Schiotz, said the CICM action in pressing the "Black Manifesto" demands had served as an "alarm clock to awaken the ALC leadership.

SITS IN ON SESSION—Rev. Richard Christensen, associate pastor of the University Lutheran Church in Seattle, may be a "strhip" to some narcotic takers because he is straight—not on drugs—but yet is hip on the teen scene and its problems. Here he sits in one of his group discussions. (AP Wirephoto)

THEY CALL HIM 'STRHIP'

Lutheran Minister Working To Solve Fears Of Young People

By NEIL BIBLER

SEATTLE (AP) — The dopeheads call him a "strhip." He calls himself a "muver." His basic pitch: There's grass growing on Bikini again.

If that seems like double talk, that's because you're not with it yet. You still haven't heard of Teendrunar, for instance. But read on.

The man is Rev. Richard Christensen, associate pastor of University Lutheran Church in Seattle. He's a "strhip" because he's straight—not on dope—and yet he's hip, he knows what the teen scene is and a lot about its problems and has something to offer as help.

That help is two things: "muve" and Teendrunar. "Muve" is a new way to use written language, to meld it with contemporary problems and today's music. It takes what the Beatles did to and through music one step farther into the words, the lyrics, the thought.

It's a way to be cool by showing "your warm," your feeling for others and for yourself, your love of man and your hope.

A ROUGH WAY

And Teendrunar is a rough way to help teen-age dope addicts—the kids who have lost themselves in "speed," LSD and other drugs. It stands for Teen-age Drug and Narcotic Rehabilitation. In psychological jargon, it's peer group corrective therapy.

Whatever you call it, it's spreading; spreading in part because Reverend Christensen has spoken recently to about 40,000 high school and junior high students. And there's his just-released Capitol record," "Muve," his first.

The idea spreads by word of mouth, from one troubled teenager to another.

The teen-age dope addicts, or former addicts, meet with a candidate for their group. The members already know every rationaization for taking drugs. And they lay into the newcomer hard and fast. They tear at him verbally; they break down his defenses; they browbeat him into emotional disruption.

EXPRESSES LOVE

Then one says to him, "You know why we're doing this? It's because we love you, man."

There were others for whom the idea came too late. That's when "muve" came forth.

"When I'd run into a case that I couldn't do anything about," Christensen said, "I'd go home at night and start writing to that person. I wanted to reach him, to tell him what a beautiful life he was throwing away."

This kind of story, backed by today's throbbing combination of jazz, rock, blues and folk music, make up the new record.

"It's using music as a sledgehammer to drive the point into the heart," the minister says. "And the message is there's hope, not dope."

The message is: "There's grass growing on Bikini again; not even the bomb can conquer life." Bikini, an atoll in the Pacific, was blasted bare by atomic bomb tests.

And "muve" is a way to present the idea. "It's existence in words that are strung together in smooth, polished fashion so that you and I can run our fingers over them and feel the softness of each other's being," he explains.

"A 'muver' is someone who moves along in life and meets someone and touches him and makes things a little better."

And he does it in part through Reverend Christensen's concept of combining "the write fight" and music, "a new way to use our language, an extension of the hip vocabulary born out of an attitude of the young."

Christensen is 39 and the father of five children.

About two and one-half years ago, he joined Rev. Alfred Stone, pastor at University Lutheran, to develop a ministry relevant to young people plagued by trouble and narcotics.

And now, he say, "I sense a real feeling of doubt that dope is the way out.

"I look for more promise and creativity to come out of kids," he says. "I think the era of doom is past."

Seven Congregations To Share Same Plant

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

In Columbia, Md., the new city which is rising midway between Baltimore and Washington, ground was broken last week for a building that has revolutionary significance in America.

The 25,000-square-foot building will house under one roof congregations of the Roman Catholic, Jewish, Methodist, Presbyterian, Lutheran, Baptist and Unitarian faiths.

Each congregation will have its own clergy, conduct its own worship services and carry on its own pastoral ministry, just as if it were operating in a building of its own.

By sharing one physical plant, however, the seven religious bodies will be able to save an enormous amount of money which otherwise would be spent on mortgage payments, utilities, insurance and maintenance.

This money will be available for community service projects, religious education, youth activities and counseling programs.

America's Christians and Jews now have an estimated $80 billion tied up in buildings, most of which are used only a few hours a week. And they are adding to this massive investment in bricks and mortar at a rate of $1 billion a year.

Because it costs upwards of $200,000 to build even a modest church, many congregations find themselves struggling with heavy burdens of debt. Energy and concern which ought to be channeled into the service of humanity are diverted instead into building fund drives.

The interfaith venture in Columbia shows how wasteful and unnecessary it is for every congregation to erect its own building.

The Columbia structure — known simply as a "religious facilities center" — will be constructed and maintained by a jointly owned non-profit corporation.

The pioneering design by Boston architect A. Anthony Tappe provides four multi-use worship spaces, with seating capacities ranging from 70 to 600. Thus four services can be held simultaneously. With cooperative scheduling, the center should be able to accommodate 20 or more services over a weekend.

The center also will provide office space for all of the participating congregations, and joint-use facilities for suppers, social events, education, drama and community functions.

The shared facilities concept obviously is easier to apply in an area such as Columbia where a brand new community is being built. But with imagination and daring, it also could be applied in established communities, particularly downtown areas where land values are high enough to enable churches entering a joint facility arrangement to dispose of their surplus real estate at a good price.

More than money is at stake. Indeed, the greatest value of the Columbia precedent may be to remind Americans that church is NOT a place, but a body of people with a common mission.

The Piety Kick Disturbing To Noted Church Layman

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The piety of millions of American Catholics is being exploited cynically by pitchmen who infuse religious themes into hard-selling advertising.

So says an angry Catholic layman, Bruce Hutchinson of San Diego. Hutchinson documents his charge in a new book, "The Gospel According to Madison Avenue" (Bruce).

He is perturbed especially about what he calls "the pilgrimage racket." Pilgrimages and "Catholic tours" are extensively advertised in Catholic publications, he says, and the ads which promote them are "profoundly hypocritical" because "they are in fact selling a secular product a vacation trip by presenting it to us as a religious act a pilgrimage."

Each pilgrimage must have a "spiritual director." Usually, he's a priest who's getting a free trip in a package deal offered by airline and travel agencies, under which one no-fare passage is provided for every batch of paying tourists.

Hutchinson quotes from pilgrimage ads which suggest that the presence of a priest somehow imparts an aura of holiness to the entire trip.

"It is deceiving and exploiting us, stamping a secular pursuit with the seal of the Church and persuading countless good camera-toting American Catholics that their trip to Fatima or Glacier National Park is a response to Christ's call for penance," he says.

Hutchinson's ire also is aroused by ads in Catholic publications which suggest that certain products make "perfect gifts" for nuns. He cites, as a horrible example, a soap peddled for $1 a bar with the claim that it is "on the approved list" for use by nuns.

This is a hoax on gullible laymen who are led to believe that "the Church has some sort of 'Good Housekeeping' seal of approval" when in fact there is no such thing as an "approved list" of products that may be used by nuns.

Perhaps the worst exploitation of Catholic piety, Hutchinson says, is that which takes place in direct mail fund-raising appeals. He estimates that "hundreds of millions" of begging letters are mailed out to American Catholics each year.

A Gift Of Love From Betsy Chapman

Marinite Sings Her Messages Of Love

Now They Are Heard On Record

By DON KEOWN

"Hopefully," says Betsy Chapman, "my songs will encourage people to become aware of and sensitive to all aspects of love — love as we find it in our daily lives, as we nurture it in our hearts and minds, as we learn to use it to shape the future of our world."

Religious and youth groups in Marin County and surrounding areas have been listening to this message of and about love from the attractive young San Anselmo wife and mother now for a number of years.

Henceforth, however, she will have a wider audience, for her first record album, bearing the prestigious Capitol label, has just been issued.

NATURALLY, IT is called "A Gift of Love."

She recalls that her daughter "was always singing" during her grammar school days at the Larkspur-Corte Madera School, often with the encouragement of friends and faculty members, particularly from music teacher Marjorie Whittlesey.

THEN, REMEMBERS Mrs. Belcher, Betsy went on to Sir Francis Drake High School as a member of that school's first freshman class, and began singing at rallies in the newly constructed girls' gymnasium, accompanying herself on a borrowed guitar with but two strings.

Her three remaining years at Drake were crowded with participation in the school's music and drama programs.

As a Drake sophomore, she met Len Chapman, then a Marin Catholic High School senior. They were married a year after Betsy's graduation.

"I THINK THE decision on marrying young has to be an individual one," says Betsy Chapman today. "One can't recommend for or against it for all couples in general.

"In our case, we feel that we gained from being able to grow together, and that as we grew, our love grew, and so did our friendship. I think that has counted for much in the happiness we have found together."

After Len Chapman finished a two-year stint in the U.S. Army, he and his wife settled down to community life in San Anselmo. By then, daughter Terry, now 9, had been born.

FOR THE Chapmans, "community life" meant involvement in a number of activities, particularly with the youth group of their parish, St. Anselm's, and those of neighboring communities.

The Chapmans opened their home once a week for meetings of a teen-age discussion group, and then began attending and contributing to weekend programs entitled "Search for Christian Maturity" that were sponsored by the Catholic Youth Organization of San Francisco.

Little Terry accompanied her parents to these functions, and her mother says: "She seemed to gain so much from seeing these older kids interested in their faith and in each other — in seeing real brotherly love happening to these young people. The experience was invaluable to her."

THE PARENTS, too, were deeply impressed, and in an effort to express those feelings, Betsy Chapman began two years ago to write songs of her own. To date she has written

BETSY CHAPMAN of San Anselmo holds the cover of her newly released album, "A Gift of Love," from Capitol Records. It is her first recording, but Capitol executives are confident that there will be many more from the young Marin guitarist and singer who has long been popular with Bay Area youth, church and music groups.

Tips on Purchase and Home Care of Your Wardrobe

"What Can Be Done With My Puckered Sports Coat?"

Your complaint is natural. The lining of your sports coat shrunk and the seams puckered in dry-cleaning. Examination shows that the puckering was caused by the sewing threads relaxing during mechanical action. The thread had not been pre-shrunk properly before manufacturing. The shrunken lining is due to the use of rayon which was not pre-shrunk before manufacture. Heat and mechanical action again caused the shrinkage.

This is not the fault of your cleaner. The sports coat should be returned to the store from which it was purchased for return to the manufacturer for adjustment.

about 50, and she says of them: "They are all 'love songs,' love being synonymous with concern, risk, vulnerability, joy, sorrow, pain, hope, salvation, sensitivity, community, understanding, patience, discovery and action. In short, love is 'being.'"

Inspired by their experiences with the "Search" program, the Chapmans began to take an even more active part in youth and church affairs, with Betsy taking the lead in bringing guitar music and singing into St. Anselm's.

The choir with guitar accompaniment she organized has been performing at the San Anselmo Catholic church's 9:15 a.m. mass now for two years, and it is not coincidental that the service has become one of the best attended in the county.

BETSY CHAPMAN says of this music: "It has a lot more to it than just the guitars. There is such a joy — a communal joy — to these songs. The people find them a pleasure to sing, finding the words meaningful in a real, contemporary way.

"The guitars would be nothing by themselves. It's the wonderful combination of the meaning of the mass, the community of voices all raised together, the spirit that is present, along with the instruments, that keeps people coming so eagerly and expectantly, week after week. They are all giving, and they are all receiving. In this day and age, people want and need a positive love to grow with, and a means of expressing it."

Turning over the guitar-and-voice music program at St. Anselm's to the young people who made up her group — "and what a wonderful job they have done of carrying it on" —, Betsy began visiting other parishes to help them organize their music, and to demonstrate the joys of song at various interfaith programs.

ONE OF THE proudest moments in her life came when she took part in last year's Western Washington Catholic Youth Organization teen convention, which was dedicated to the memory of Robert Kennedy who had been scheduled to speak there, but whose voice had been stilled so tragically.

Deeply moved by the presidential candidate's death, Betsy had written a song entitled "What Will the Morning Bring?" describing the beauty of Kennedy's values, the sadness of the people's loss in his sudden passing and the challenge for society to pick up and carry on his banners by keeping alive the struggle for human rights and freedom.

Her convention performance brought her many letters from both the young and older persons attending the convention who were enthusiastic about her music, her voice and the thoughts that she conveyed.

THEN BETSY and Len Chapman began to be asked repeatedly by those who had heard her sing: "Why hasn't she made any records?" And the Chapmans decided to see what they could do about that.

At first, they planned to make their own record. But as enthusiasm grew among listeners, the Chapmans decided to seek to interest an established company. A simple "home" tape was made and sent through a friend to Capitol Recording Inc. in Los Angeles. A second tape was mailed to another company that produces both religious and general commercial records.

The second company responded immediately, and negotiations began. But before a deal could be made, the Chapmans heard from Capitol as well. That firm had received the tape months earlier, but it had been shuttled to an outlying department. Belatedly, it reached the desk of the producer who listened to it and liked it, but set it aside for two weeks before giving it a second hearing. His reaction was still affirmative, and the Chapmans were invited to Southern California to make a demonstration tape there with Capitol equipment.

IN LOS ANGELES, Betsy sang some 20 songs, 15 of them her own, and she and her husband then returned to their Marin home, not yet knowing Capitol's final decision. Ten days passed before they received a call informing them that everyone at Capitol was enthusiastic over the "demo tape" — would they consider signing a contract and making an album in the near future? Indeed, they would.

All this took place this past spring. Of an industry sometimes described as a "dog-eat-dog" business, Betsy Chapman says: "We are most grateful for the quality of people we were privileged to work with at Capitol. From the producer and musical director to the lyricist, the musicians and the engineers, they were all pulling together, offering help and encouragement. There was always such a good spirit present."

"A Gift of Love" contains 11 songs, three of them Betsy's own. Perhaps her favorite is "Wednesday's Child," one of her own compositions, based upon the familiar "Wednesday's Child is full of woe. . . ."

BUT PREDICTABLY, Betsy has given it a happy ending: ". . . but with love and faith her heart will show a wisdom, gained from time, to grow; Wednesday's child will come and go."

Betsy is especially pleased, too, that the album includes two Erik Satie songs, for which lyrics, written by Elaine Simone, have been provided for the first time.

Released simultaneously with the album was a "single" containing two of its songs, Satie's "The River" and Buzz Clifford's "Children Are Crying Out Loud."

BETSY CHAPMAN sings with a clear, bell-like tone, and with a warm feeling for her lyrics and the human relationships those words reflect.

Husband Len is supervisor of employment for the Southern Pacific Co. in San Francisco, but he now wears a second hat as manager for his singing wife. The Chapmans have always shared — a warm home life, a keen interest in their church and in youth, a devotion to the principles of love and brotherhood. It is natural that they should now also share what could be a dawning bright new career for Betsy Chapman.

Nightclub singing will be no part of it. "It is not that we are opposed to nightclubs," Betsy explains. "It is just that our child and our family life mean too much to us to jeopardize them through the travel and irregular hours that would be required for that kind of a career."

BUT IT IS apparent that the Chapmans also feel that the smoky, noisy atmosphere of the nightclub is just not the proper setting for the expression of concern for the future of the world, and particularly its youth, that Betsy Chapman wants her songs and her singing to convey.

Betsy Chapman wants no haze or clatter between her and the audience when she delivers her message as her gift of love.

THE THREE members of the Chapman family pose for a picture with the ever present guitars in the foreground. They are Elizabeth or Betsy Chapman, just beginning a career as a recording artist; her husband, Len Chapman, a Southern Pacific Co. supervisor and now also his singing wife's manager; and their 9-year-old daughter Terry.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER, Betsy and Terry Chapman, enjoy the fresh air and an informal songfest, accompanying themselves on their guitars. The scene is the San Domenico School for Girls campus in Sleepy Hollow.

WHAT impressed Betsy Chapman most when she visited the Capitol Records Inc. studios in Los Angeles, first to make a demonstration tape and then to cut her first record album, was the friendliness and helpfulness of the personnel and the other artists there. At top, she confers with John Palladino, Capitol producer. And at left, she is shown with Laurindo Almeida, a famous name in the music world. "There was always such a good spirit present," says Betsy of her working stay in Los Angeles. (Capitol Records Inc. photos)

A Career In Carving

Wheat Allen Finds Brisk Demand For Realistic Birds

By FRAN CREBASSA

Howard Wheatley Allen carved his first bird, a robin, from wood as a 9-year-old, using a shiny new Swiss army stainless steel pocketknife his father had just given him.

Today Allen is still carving birds from wood, using that same knife, now not quite so shiny. But it is no longer a hobby. It has become his livelihood, the means by which he supports his wife Rosemary, their baby daughter Lisa and himself.

He gave up architecture which he studied at Dartmouth College to devote his full time to the craft of carving.

RECALLING that first project, he says the miniature red robin "was about two inches long, and I whittled it while we were camping near Lake Tahoe. It took me a day or so to carve and paint it."

That same robin now roosts in San Rafael, in the possession of his grandmother, Mrs. Frank Howard Allen.

Since that time, "Wheat" Allen's sharp knife and nimble fingers have created some 100 sets of miniature creatures comprised of more than 300 pieces.

HIS INFORMAL education in birdlife and nature began with his observations of waterfowl when, as a boy, he accompanied his father, real estate man Charles Howard Allen, on fishing and hunting trips to favorite Marin County spots. He supplemented this by devouring written texts and illustrations by such naturalists as John James Audubon.

As he grew older, his urge for hunting waned, but his interest in birdlife and in carving grew.

His childhood home was in Kent Woodlands where he shared a very comfortable house with his parents, his younger brother Pete and his two still younger sisters Joelle and Susie. His father had grown up in San Anselmo, while his mother, the former Ann Bullard, had lived in San Francisco before moving to Mill Valley in 1937.

AFTER GRADUATING from Redwood High in June of 1959 as a member of that school's first senior class, young Allen went on to Dartmouth, finishing his four years there in June of 1963.

He served as an officer on board the Seventh Fleet flagship Providence CLG-6 from 1963 to 1965 and was stationed in Japan, traveling widely throughout the East.

He met Rosemary Hexberg in San Francisco in 1965 and they were married in October 1966.

SHE IS A talented portrait artist, working in both oils and watercolors, and has studied at the San Francisco Art Institute and the California College of Arts and Crafts in Berkeley.

Ahead of Wheat Allen, after his Navy service, still lay a career in architecture. His abrupt change in plans, he say, came almost by accident.

"I went to Fort Bragg for a summer job with the Union Lumber Co.," he relates, "and while I was waiting for that position to open up, I began doing some bird carvings. I began receiving commissions, and they just kept coming in. I never did start that job with Union Lumber."

WHEAT, ROSEMARY and Lisa (who will be 1-year-old on Aug. 30) live in a four-bedroom white farmhouse with ocean view that they rent in Little River, a quiet town with the air of New England, on the Mendocino coastline, but commute often to Marin County to visit his family who now reside in Stinson Beach.

In Mendocino County and at Stinson Beach, Wheat finds plenty of bird subjects for his carvings, and he likes to work outdoors.

The old pocketknife is still his principal carving instrument, although he has acquired other more professional tools for special jobs — "I keep coming back to my old standby."

WHEAT SAYS HE has not regretted his defection from architecture to the craft of carving, declaring: "I love the life we are leading. But I'm a little surprised at the degree of success I have found so quickly."

Sharing the Mendocino farm with the Allens is Wheat's pet raven Spartacus.

Spartacus and Wheat Allen found each other last spring near Stinson Beach when the raven was an awkward fledgling, sparsely covered with stubby black pinfeathers, his most prominent feature an always wide open mouth that squawked raucously every two or three hours until Wheat came running to feed him a pasty mixture of mash through a meat-basting tube.

THE RAVENOUS raven suffered a malady similar to club-

IN THE STUDIO of his Mendocino County farm home, Howard Wheatley Allen carves away on a piece of sugar pine wood that ultimately will become a precise and realistic quail. He is using the pocketknife with which he has been carving birds from wood since he was a Marin 9-year-old.

foot, and is still somewhat handicapped.

"But Spartacus is doing fine," Wheat reports. "He has his full set of adult feathers now. I have built him a nice roomy cage in our lathhouse in the garden which he loves.

"He says 'hello' quite distinctly, and comes at a whistle and hops on my arm. Our small dog, Micah, and our cat, Pussycat, sleep, curled up together in the lathhouse with the cranky Spartacus at night."

NO, WHEAT HASN'T as yet carved a wooden raven, but he plans to do so, now that Spartacus is a full-grown model.

What he has carved include sculptured pieces depicting quail, egrets, owls, geese, ducks, herons, various other waterbirds and songbirds, and fish. Many can be placed on a mantel or a small table. Some are mounted on driftwood, while others, sets of birds in flight, are hanging mobiles. A few of the larger carvings warrant their own pedestals.

Most of Wheat's fish or fowl have sprung to life from hunks of sugar pine, although redwood is another favored material. A large owl, so thoughtfully contemplating — maybe dinner — from a one-legged yoga stance, was chipped carefully from redwood.

WHEAT PREFERS sugar pine for its clear smooth grain and redwood for its color and rich grain gradations. He plans to try his hand with cherry and such hardwoods as teak and mahogany in the future.

"My idea for carving," he says, "usually comes before the shape of the wood might suggest it, although often the wood does suggest changes and new directions."

His work sells rapidly, and the carvings have been on display at Abercrombie & Fitch Co., Bullock & Jones, and other Northern California shops. Allen-carved birds can currently be seen by Marinites at Tweeds and Weeds in Kentfield.

MOST OF HIS work is done by private commission, and inquiries come by cards and letter to Howard Wheatley Allen, Box 483, Little River, alif., 95456.

Twice he has assembled collections of his carved pieces for shows, the first in November of 1967, in conjunction with wife Rosemary's drawings and paintings, and the second in Mill Valley in December, 1968.

There will be a third such show this December when the wood carvings and some of Rosemary's nature drawings will be exhibited at an Audubon Society benefit in San Francisco.

THE CONNECTION is apt, for in his carvings Wheat Allen demonstrates the same meticulous concern for authenticity in depicting a wild creature in its native habitat that Audubon showed in his timeless paintings.

In his work, Allen is craftsman and artist. But he is also very much the naturalist as well. And his love for and empathy with all things outdoors are reflected in the tensed muscles of a majestic hawk, poised in flight and about to strike, and in the peaceful, drowsy countenance of an owl perched in solitude on its branch.

A Garden With A Tropical Lagoon And Pl

The island character of the Tiburon home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Babcock provided landscape architects Katy and Paul Steinmetz with a ready-made theme when they set out to design the garden.

The theme was reinforced by an entrance garden in which lies a serene lagoon, fed by a cascading waterfall and crossed by a walkway of free-standing stepping stones.

The Steinmetzes' waterfall thus serves a double purpose, adding a cool, ornamental note, and also functioning in the very practical role of returning the filtered water to the lagoon.

For the plantings, the Steinmetzes chose growing things thato ne might well expect to encounter around an island lagoon, principally exotic tropicals. But they also made certain that all the selected specimens met the test of thriving in Tiburon's climate.

Thus growing in the Babcocks' lagoon garden one sees such plantings as philodendron selloum and a tree fern that frame the front door, Japanese cut-leaf maples, ferns, a wisteria tree, Monterey pines, Hinoki cypress, creeping strawberry, mundo grass, mugo pines, bird of paradise, a weeping blue cedar, etc.

Statuary such as a carved Hawaiian god and a Japanese stone lantern add a further touch of the exotic. The delicate, curving redwood fence is perfect for the setting.

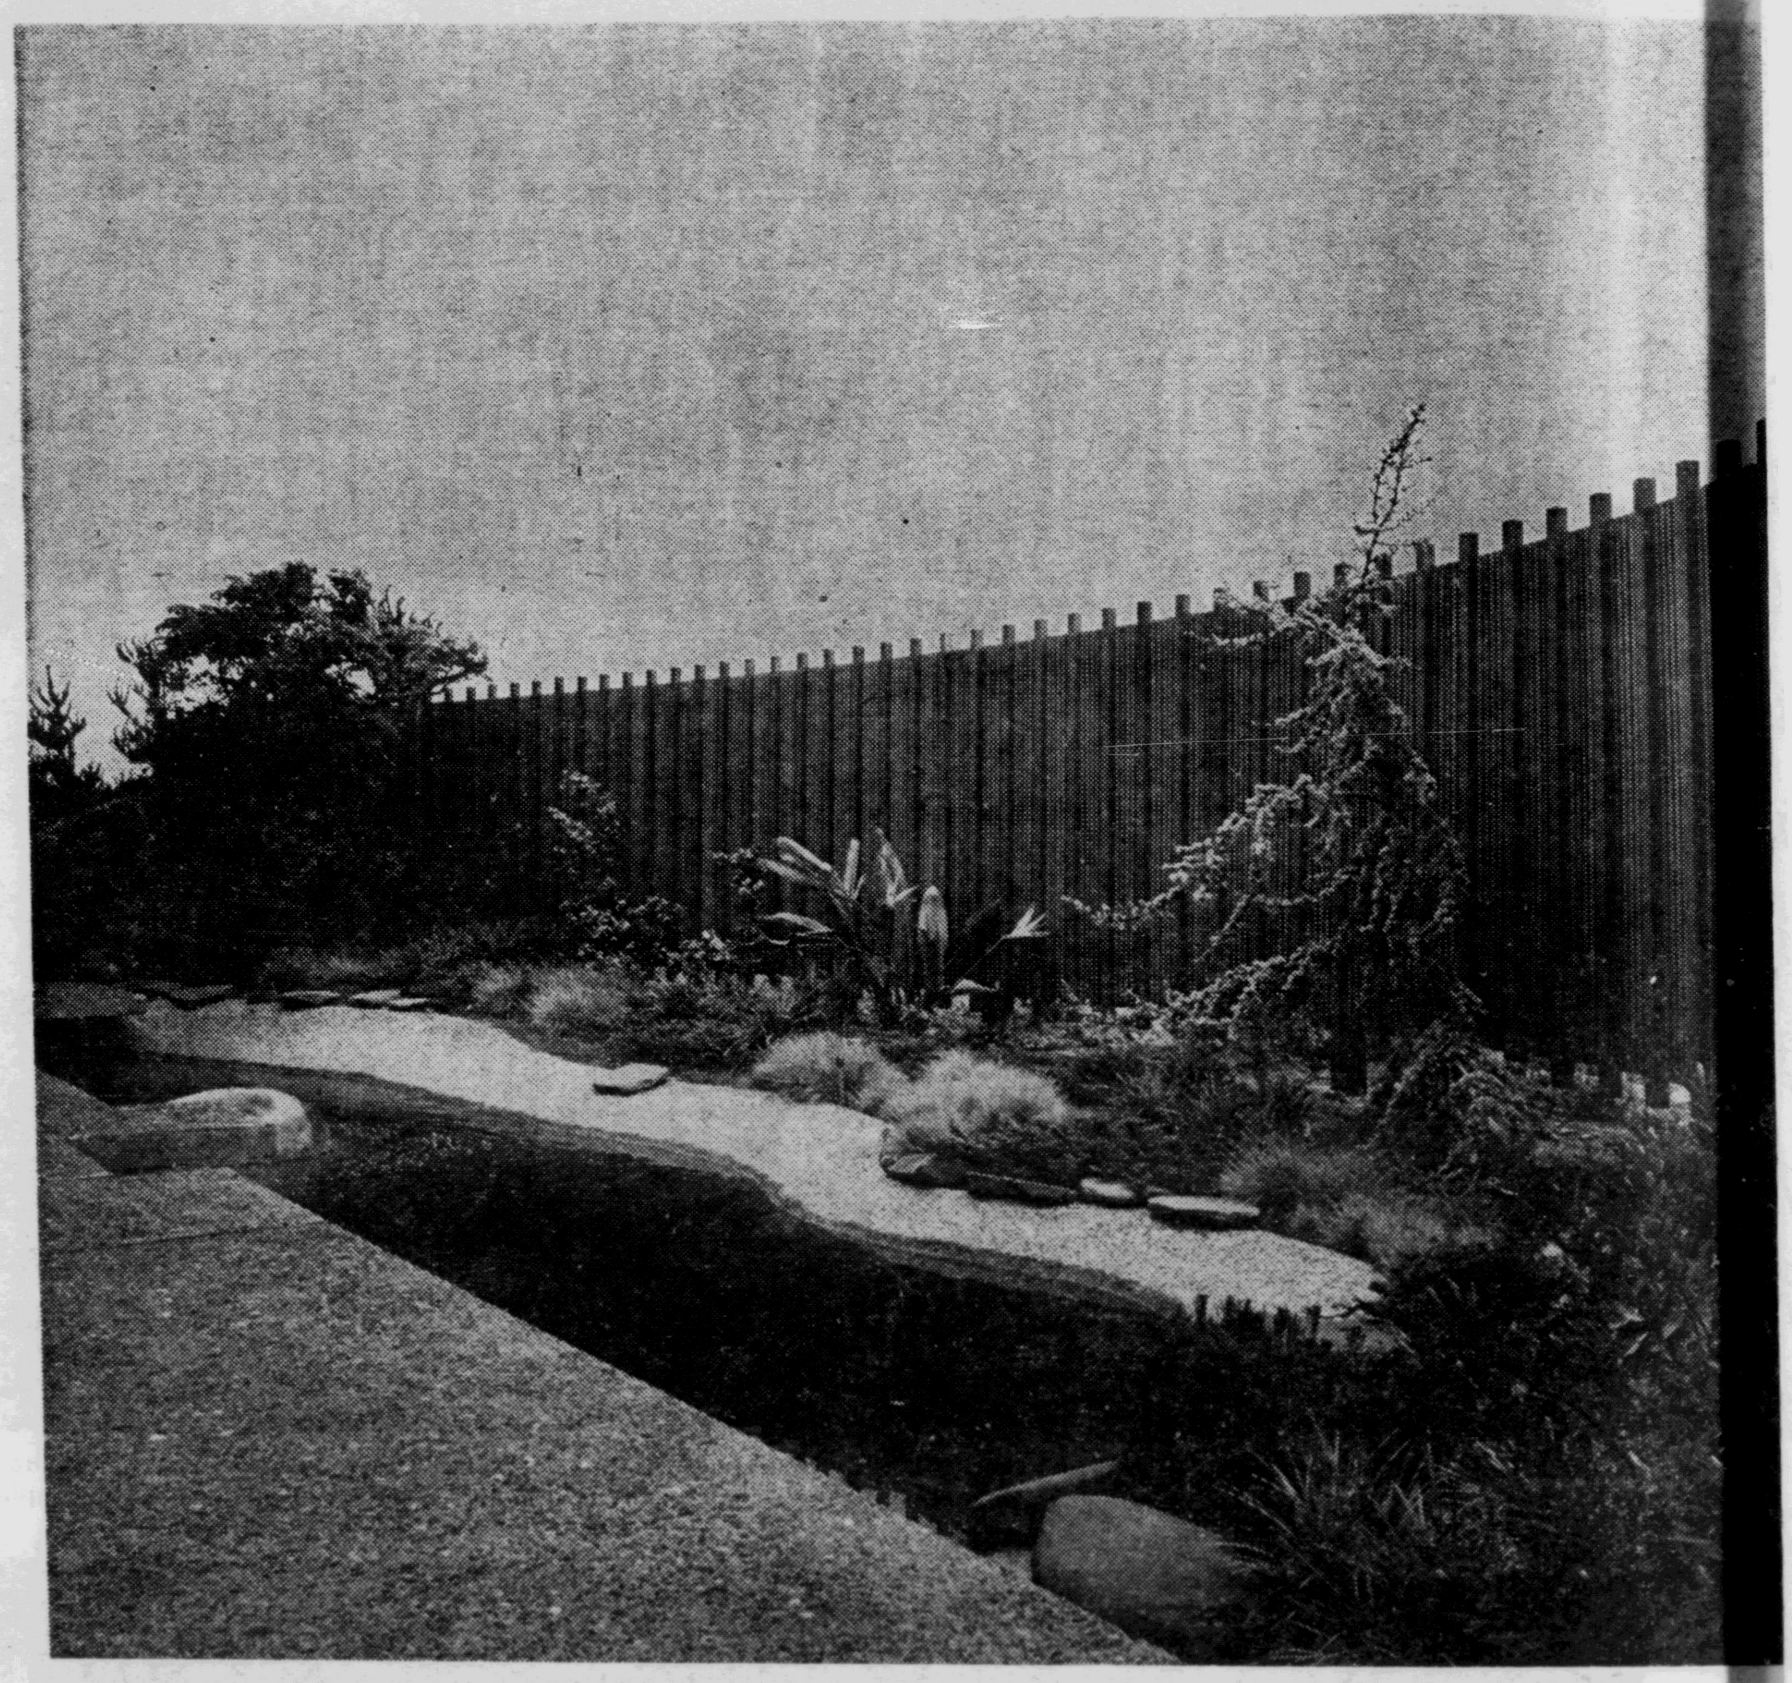
Thus the imaginative design of the Steinmetzes and its skillful execution have provided the Babcocks with what any home owner would cherish—a tropical lagoon all his own.



LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTS Katy and Paul Steinmetz selected plantings for the Tiburon garden of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Babcock that were especially suited to carry out the island character of the design theme. At the same time, they exercised care in choosing only thos Tiburon's special climate. Veronica, mugo pines, of paradise, blue grass and mundo grass were s

ALONG THE EDGE of the waterfall, where it plunges into the lagoon, Japanese cut-leaf maple and ferns grow. And a Hawaiian god welcomes visitors to the front door of the Tiburon home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Babcock.

Our Neighbor To The North Beckons California Tourists

There's Much To Do And A Lot To See In Oregon In Summer

By GRACE HENDERSON

It's big. It's wild. It's beautiful. It's Oregon Country.

The first impression, to Californians, is one of space: more freeways than automobiles, more homes than apartments, and space in which to just stop and look at the scenery. And green hills covered by tall Ponderosa and Lodge Pole pines, Douglas firs (state tree) and pungent junipers.

Relaxation permeates the atmosphere.

There is snow-chapeaued Mount Hood dominating fruit-laden Hood River County along the Columbia River; there is the Three Sisters mountain range strung through Central Oregon like a set of polished pearls, forming a white background to the lush mint and alfalfa fields of Jefferson County; and 400 miles of power-producing Columbia River.

EVERYHERE one looks, there are campgrounds, picnic spots and rest stations to entice the traveler to "stay and play" in cool, green Oregon. With some 200 state parks and wayside areas covering 70,348 acres, the vacationer has a choice of scenery and location (more than 50 of the parks include overnight camping facilities).

Driving north from San Rafael on Interstate Five to Redding, then branching off via U.S. 97 one enters Klamath Falls, Ore., a lumber town nestled in the southeast corner of the state. Although far from being a metropolis the area nevertheless bustles with activity. There are interstate freight carriers, mud-covered log trucks with their smell of Oregon pine, farm vehicles loaded with supplies and produce, and the tourists.

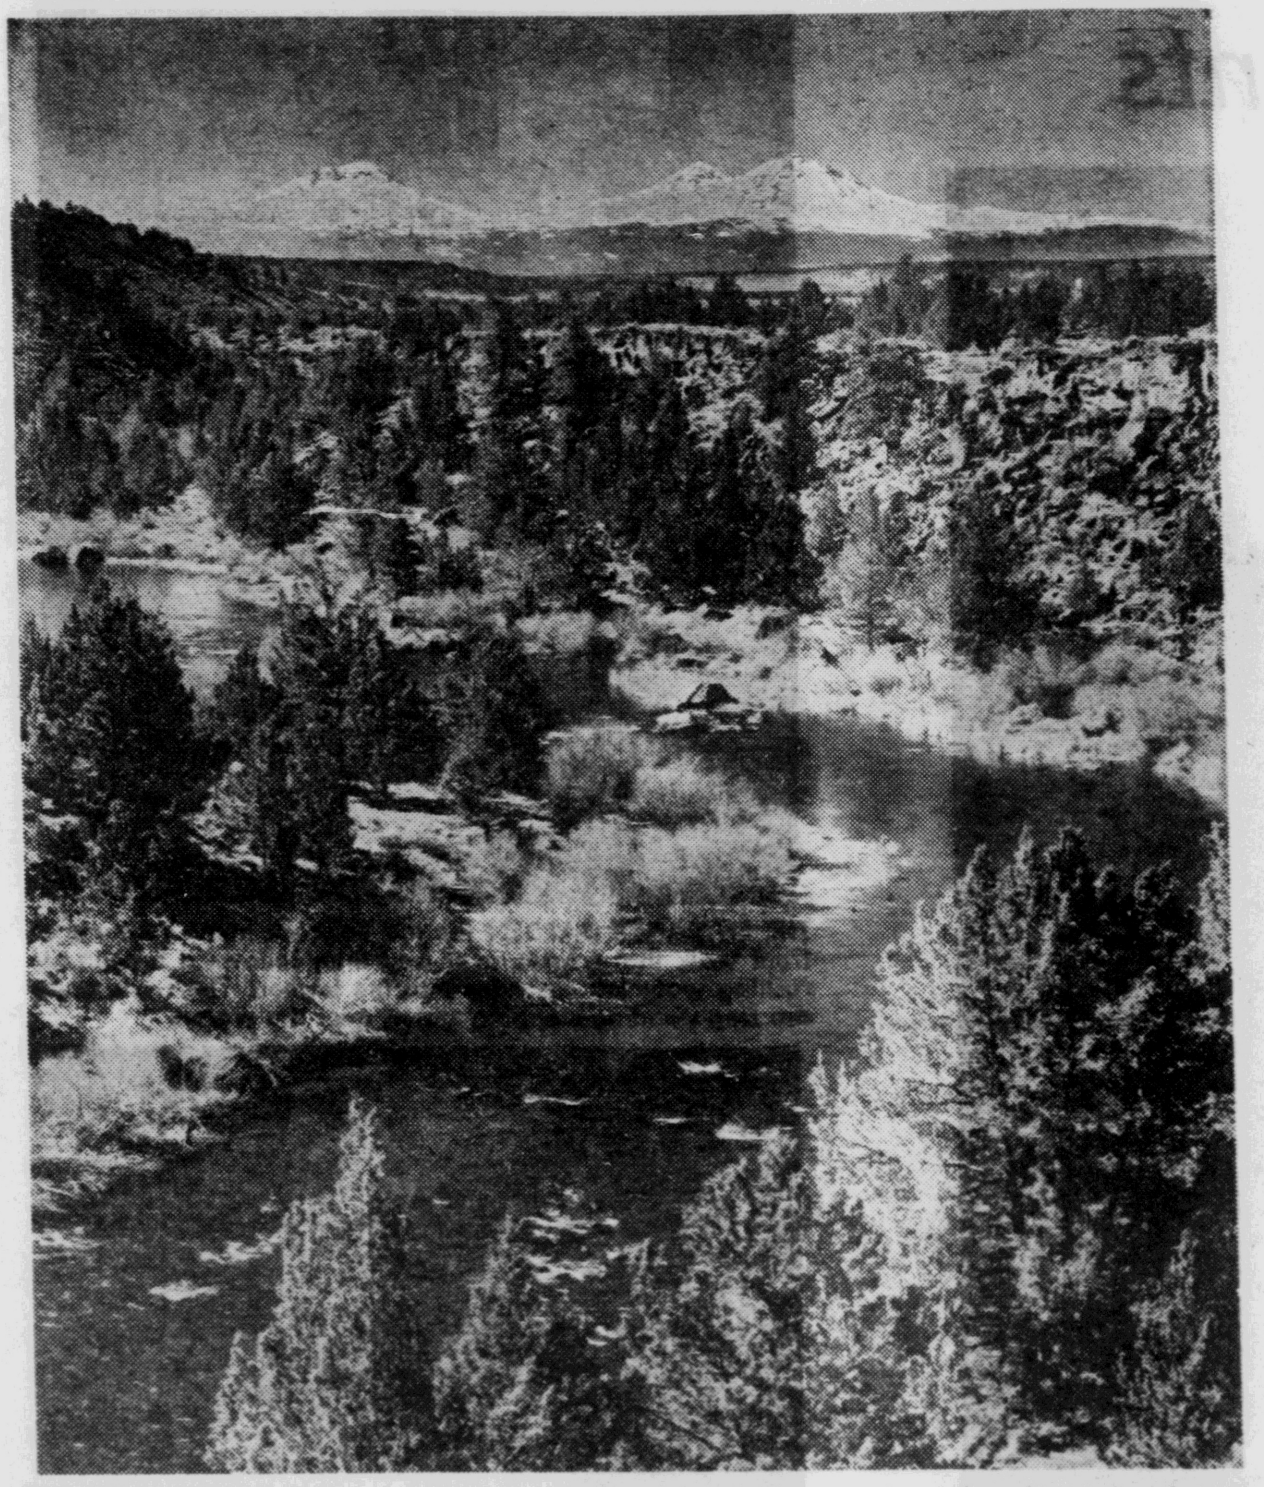
Back on the freeway, it's 100 miles to Bend, reached on a ride over one of the smoothest roads ever constructed, framed by swaying trees and within easy reach of renowned Crater Lake, a few miles to the west.

BEFORE COMING to the Bend city limits the tourist is suddenly detained by an unusual sight, but something he will become accustomed to while in the Beaver State.

A cyclinder butte cone, more than 5,000 feet high, of now-cooled red lava rock seemingly comes from nowhere to dominate a rare piece of flat ground. A drive up a narrow winding road offers the first real panoramic view of the Cascade Range, the mountains that divide the state in half. Here children feed the squirrels and chipmunks while mother and dad record the scene on film.

It has taken about eight hours driving time from Marin County, just right for a long break and there is no better place for strolling than in scenic Bend with restful Mirror Lake and its ducks and swan in the center of town. Or a side trip over Century Drive takes one through restful "stay awhile" scenery.

A FIRST-TRIPPER should allow at least two days for looking, and a must is Peterson's Rock Garden where, among the rocks and juniper, miniature buildings and displays have been constructed of colorful native rock. Here there is information about the obsidian deposits 65 miles east of Bend and about the John Day country where such rocks as thunder eggs (state rock) are found.



THE THREE SISTERS mountain range forms a backdrop for the Deschutes River in the Lower Bridge area near Redmond in Central Oregon. The Deschutes, which parallels the Cascade Range for 150 miles to the Columbia River, is one of the northwest's best-known trout fishing streams. (Oregon State Highway Commission photos)

It is here the California tourists begin to comprehend the vacation land claims of their northern neighbors. Beginning with Elk Mountain, a mere 5,911 feet high, the elevation climbs to Bachelor Butte at 9,060; Broken Top, 9,152; and South, Middle and Northern Sister, all over 10,000 feet. When compared to Mount Tamalpais at 2,511 they are huge.

There is a feeling here of being on top of the world. North of Bend, scrub trees and junipers dot flat lands backdropped by mountains.

HAVING PAUSED at a roadside turnout one has a knowledge of the colorful names along the way. The Oregon State Highway Department has thoughtfully provided this informational stop. Placed in permanent bases forming a half-circle, arrows point to such peaks as Broken Top, Three-Finger Jack, Elk Mountain and the Three Sisters.

Sixteen more miles and there is the junction with U. S. Highway 126 at Redmond, home of a famous reindeer herd and access to the summer time only passable McKenzie Pass. The reindeer are the only domesticated reindeer to be found outside of their native Lapland. They graze in natural surroundings, except during the Christmas season when they are in great demand.

Here it is that the freeway becomes a two-way state highway with little traffic.

IT'S UP AND over Ochoco Summit, a cool drive along alfalfa fields and grazing cattle to the village of Mitchell. Fishing streams abound and it is rural America at your call. West of the John Day River, northwest of Mitchell, are found the most spectacular hills in Oregon. Nature has painted the landscape with multicolored hues and natives have dubbed them the Painted Hills of Oregon.

At Ukiah it is either ahead on 395 to Pendleton or east on State Highway 244 into La Grande, the two being a mere 45 miles apart. The area is made up primarily of the Umatilla Indian Reservation (Cayuse tribe), intersected by U.S. Highway 80 North. This is also Deadman's Pass country, comparable to California's Donner Pass.

Cool, Green Oregon Welcomes The Vacationers Of California

THE LA GRANDE route includes the Umatilla and Wallowa national forests and our destination. The big trees help to emphasize the fact that Oregon has one-fifth of the nation's standing timber crop. There are over 400 tree farms and more being added yearly.

Two state parks later and twice passing over the winding Grande Ronde River, La Grande pops into view. Located in the northeast corner of the state and the hub of the northeastern Oregon Vacation Land, the town is watched over by 6,064 foot Mount Emily on one side and 5,372 foot Mount Harris on the other. To the east is Ladd Canyon over which pioneers traveled and from where an early-day Frenchman declared the valley to be Le Grande — beautiful.

It is here the Old Oregon Trail brought travelers, and Oregon, in time, became the only state in the union to have its name affixed to a transcontinental highway — the Old Oregon Trail.

AFTER A SHORT visit in the mountain valley, side trips are mapped. A 70-mile half-circle takes the sightseer to the Switzerland of America, the Wallowas. It is here one may enter the Eagle Cap Wilderness area (on foot or by horseback) to wander and just look, or to fish.

Snow covers the trails until July and lakes are crystal clear. No motor vehicles are allowed and the loudest noise is of the steady tinkle of horse bridles as they plod along Forest Service-maintained paths, or the baaing of sheep in mountain passes.

For those seeking quieter, less strenuous activity, there is Wallowa Lake State Park cradled at the head of the deep and ice-cold Wallowa Lake. This is where Chief Joseph of the Nez Perce Indian tribe fought, with such dedication, for his freedom. Men match the mountains and local Saturday night dances in the town of Joseph are pages from the past, dominated by jeans, cowboy boots and western music.

BUT THERE ARE other points of interest. Eagle Creek to the east of La Grande gurgles through granite peaks that surely must scratch low-floating clouds. And again cool lakes are reached by easy-to-hike forest trails. Deer, elk, coyote, bear and small animals are common.

A few extra miles and it's the famous Hell's Canyon, the grand canyon of the Snake River. Local chambers of commerce gladly give information on roads, tours, etc.

Or a 50-mile drive over the Tollgate Highway (pioneer wagon drivers paid to use this one) and it's Walla Walla, Wash. From here it is a short distance to one of a number of routes to the Columbia River, discovered in 1775, which escorts tourists to the ocean at Astoria, more than 400 miles downstream.

The Travel Pages

THIS ONCE wild, untamed torrent has been harnessed by power-producing dams beginning with the Grande Coulee Dam in Washington and including McNary, John Day, The Dalles and Bonneville dams in Oregon.

Over the years rushing water has cut into the gorge leaving many-colored palisades along the shores. Numerous wayside parks are available. The scenery is magnificent with 11 waterfalls within 11 miles; Multnomah Falls at 620 feet is the second largest fall in the United States.

Markers along the freeway note "Lewis and Clark Trail" and informational plaques are located at most stops. Holiday weekends bring members of the Columbia Basin Search and Rescue Club to Memaloose Wayside rest area to serve free coffee and friendly conversation to drivers, promoting breaks from the road while viewing the Columbia River and Memaloose Island. The island is an old Indian burial ground above Celilo Falls.

THE BRIDGE OF the Gods, with a myriad of stories and legends, spans the mighty river at Cascade Locks, a small town almost deserted by the by-passing freeway. But a quick turn through town gives the tourist a view long remembered. It is here that the Columbia River virtually turns on its side to rush through the narrow passage between Oregon and Washington states.

From here to Portland, past the Lewis and Clark State Park and others, the traveler combines the scenic surroundings with the anticipation of the upcoming city. Much has been written about the "City of Roses" where the annual festival coupled with the arriving of the fleet converts the peaceful Pacific oast city into a Mardi Gras.

From here highways thread out like fingers on the Jolly Green Giant, some large and others small. We chose to continue on Interstate Five with Albany the destination. But from Portland through Eugene is a myriad of smaller cities with alternating urban, rural and metropolitan atmosphere.

THIS IS THE fastest growing area in Oregon and where lumber and agriculture mingle with the state's third largest industry — tourism.

Forty-seven miles from the nation's 32nd largest city is the state capital, Salem, where legislators convene biennially during the winter months. The capitol building is said to be one of the most beautiful in the United States.

A golden pioneer stands erect above the white Vermont marble, guarding the modern Greek structure completed in 1938 after fire destroyed the earlier capitol. On clear days Mounts Jefferson, Hood, Adams and St. Helens of the Cascade Range are visible from the visitors' viewpoint.

MARBLE IS used throughout the small, but impressive, capitol building. Rose travertine marble quarried in Montana has been used in the walls of the rotunda and the halls. Baseboards and ramps of the great stairways are Vermont gray marble from Missouri. Carrying our Oregon's rural atmosphere are murals on the walls and symbols of trees and fish in the carpets of the House of Representatives and the Senate.

Traveling south one can choose his road to the coast and highway 101 or remain on straight, fast-driving freeway, Interstate Five. Following the latter, lumber mills again come onto the scene and mountains figure in the landscape. It's a fisherman's paradise and a camper's dream. The Lebanon Strawberry Festival draws huge crowds in June and Albany holds its annual Timber Carnival in July. This is where men vie for titles such as "log rolling champ," "champion wood-cutter," etc.

And just before reaching the California line once again, there is little Ashland, home of the Shakespearean Festival that draws hundreds to its outdoor theater every August. Or as you pass through Grants Pass the "cave men" from the local chamber of commerce might choose to welcome you (they've been known to appear at wayside rest areas and public gatherings, dressed in animal skins and carrying cavemen clubs).

FOR THE TOURIST preferring the coastal route, there are the usual scenic spots, campgrounds, etc. But in Oregon there are also the cranberry bogs near Coos Bay, which at first glance do not resemble anything great, but on a Thanksgiving table provide a tasty accent to turkey.

And above Coos County is Tillamook, with the world's largest cheese factory (be sure the kids wear shoes on this tour. It's cold). The Tillamook County Pioneer Museum, no admission charge, is located at Second Street and Pacific Avenue. It houses more than 8,000 pioneer and Indian relics.

North Bend is famed for its myrtlewood trees and souvenir items are for sale, hand-crafted by localites. A "rockhounds' paradise" is located at Bandon with its ideal spots for river and ocean fishing. It is the home of the State Fish Hatchery, huge fields of Croft (Easter) lilies and other sights.

WHATEVER THE summer 1969 tourist wishes in the way of entertainment, scenery or interest, it is available in Oregon. It is up to the individual or family to ascertain the number of days to spend, funds available and fields of interest. From a Potato Festival in Redmond to a Salmon Bake in Depoe Bay; from the Pendleton Round-Up to the DeLake Agate Show; from the Astoria Regatta and Oregon Fish Festival to the La Grande Indian Festival of Arts; and from the Portland National Orchid Society Show to the McNary Aqua Capers near Umatilla, the tourist can absorb the feel of our northern neighbor.

He can participate as much or as little as he likes and can travel for the price of the gasoline, groceries and camp fees or travel in luxury.

A SUMMER SUNRISE finds quiet Eagle Cap casting long reflections into Moccasin Lake, held in the rocky embrace of the Wallowa Mountains in northeastern Oregon. Eagle Cap rears its stony crest nearly 10,000 feet into the blue skies and nearby China Cap Peak is the exact center, north-south, east-west, of the United States.

Just How Safe Are The Jet Airliners?

IT DOESN'T MATTER WHERE YOU SIT by Fred McClement; Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 238 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Mid-air collisions and near collisions are increasing at an alarming rate, to the point where air traffic in these United States is apparently in chaos.

So claims Fred McClement, for 20 years aviation editor of the Toronto Daily Star, in his muckraking book, "It Doesn't Matter Where You Sit," and he distributes the blame among "government regulatory agencies, airport operators, the airlines themselves, and metropolitan planning boards."

He might well have also listed the general public, which should be taken to task for its apathy and acceptance of such conditions as National Aviation and Space Administration policy which, McClement charges, "has permitted aviation progress to lapse in order to launch the space effort, because of recurring propaganda that 'the Russians are ahead of us.' No wonder the American public is bewildered."

There is, however, no great evidence that the general public is bewildered or even concerned, except when personally affected or during one of those periodic flashes of morbid interest fanned by one of the big airliners crashing to the ground and exploding with terrifying force and loss of life.

It is but one more example of the country's confusion in its priorities. But how much commonsense can be expected of people who drive their cars like maniacs or imbeciles, sacrificing their lives and the lives of others, for minutes saved that are promptly wasted? Or from a people that go on steadily sucking foul cigarette smoke into their lungs in the face of warnings they are courting painful early death and encouraging by example their children to do the same?

From those who build elaborate athletic complexes while allowing schools and hovel and slum housing to rot, you might expect the very kind of conditions that expert McClement cites in his scorching analysis of the state of our commercial aviation:

"In 1964, the U.S. talked about travel to the moon and atmosphere probes of Mars and Jupiter, but the country's technology was so far behind times that on our own planet little was known of the great storms that created lightning and other natural hazards." Belatedly it was proven and reluctantly it was admitted that a lightning strike could, indeed, cause a jet to explode in mid-air.

"There is no such thing as 'all-weather' flying, and there never will be," McClement says bluntly. "Severe storms are lethal to both jets and supersonics . . . Some 90 per cent of U.S. commercial air disasters happen in bad weather associated with thunderstorms." And he points to a Department of Transportation Safety Board finding that "many jets are not built strong enough to withstand wind forces associated with thunderstorms." Still, he tells us, they are flown into the teeth of such turbulence.

The airport situation he labels "a disgraceful mess which only federal intervention can remedy, and that is unlikely no matter what the toll in time or life." He quotes an Air Operators' Council survey as showing that five billion dollars would be required to bring our airports up to "adequacy," and declares that more than 600 new airports are needed to siphon off the overflow in air traffic.

Many pilots, we are told, refer to Air Traffic Control as Air Traffic Chaos — "It is bad today, and it will be worse tomorrow."

McClement's attack is a blistering one, particularly against jet airliners, accused of such fatal flaws as insufficient fire extinguishers, dangerous location of hydraulic fluids and fuels, poor anchorage for seats, shortage of exits, ineffectively marked emergency doors and windows, untrustworthy instruments, toxic-forming interior furnishings and much more.

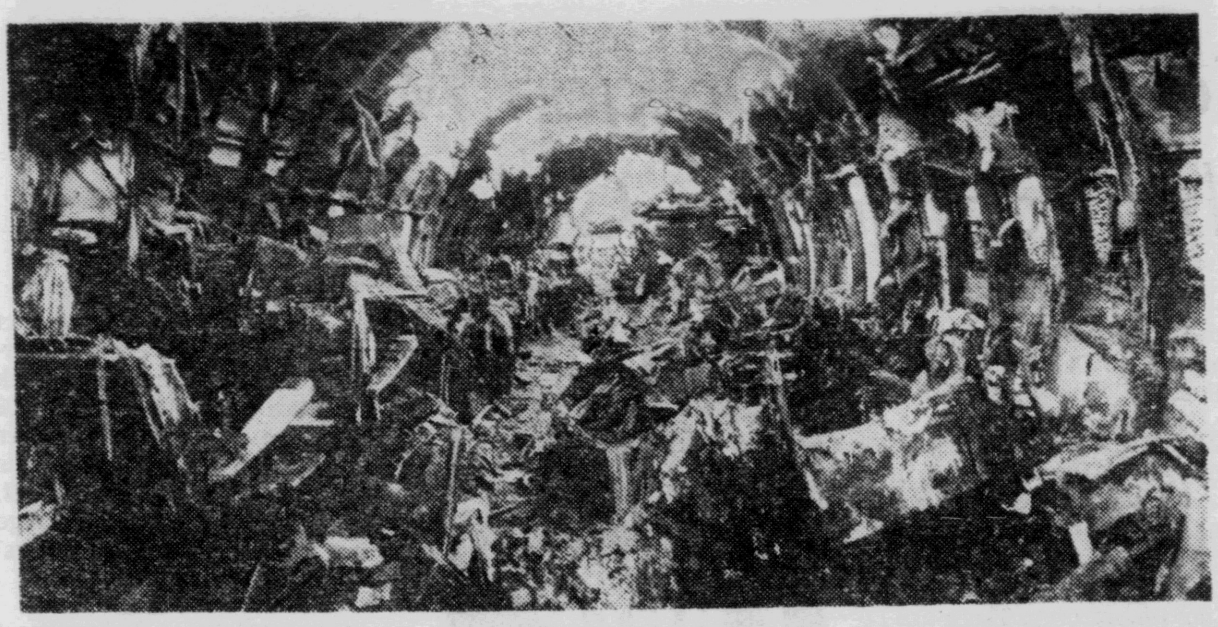
The airlines, the manufacturers and their defenders are certain to accuse McClement of sensationalism and of a one-sided, slanted, alarmist presentation.

McClement has already made his retort: "Too many experts (are) concerned with protecting the image of manufacturers and airlines."

Certainly, the commercial aviation industry will have some difficulty picturing itself as the target of a prejudiced critic, for McClement was in 1966 the recipient of a trophy for "excellence in public relations activity in the aviation space industry."

Nevertheless, it is true that from reading McClement's gruesome list of aviation disasters, which after all were spaced over a number of years, one emerges shaken and with an unquestionably out-of-proportion, exaggerated picture of the dangers of air travel. Still, even a jittery public and an awakened industry would appear preferable to an overly complacent industry and apathetic public. Furthermore, if McClement succeeds in stirring a new concern for safety in commercial flying, the impact of his book will be much less alarming and less prolonged than the recurring newspaper headlines that would accompany crashes that might now be prevented.

The public would be better served if the companies that make and operate the airliners and airports, and the government agencies that supposedly regulate them, would concentrate less on frills, such as movies, gourmet meals and pretty stewardesses, and more upon the life-or-death factors illuminated by McClement. And quite likely, if they would also forego such monsters as the jumbo jets and supersonics until they first learn to fly with consistent safety the aircraft they now have in the air.



THIS SALT LAKE CITY Deseret News photograph shows the charred interior of a jet airliner after it bursts into flames on an airport runway, and, says Fred McClement, underscores the plea for improved safety and fire-fighting measures he makes in his "It Doesn't Matter Where You Sit."

How Crisis Came In Middle East

COUNTDOWN IN THE HOLY LAND by Lester Velie; Funk & Wagnalls, 224 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Bob Raab.

"Get the Israelis out of Egypt, or we will!"

Alexi Kosygin's hotline message to Lyndon Johnson on the morning of June 6, 1967, put us on the edge of war with Russia. The Soviet premier's ultimatum butted directly against our adamant resolution to support Israel.

The events that led to this crisis in history are set forth in tidy, trenchant fashion by author Lester Velie, a senior editor for Reader's Digest.

Velie's account begins with irony — Russian assistance to 100,000 European Jews fleeing to Palestine at the end of World War II.

The Kremlin wanted Great Britain out of the Middle East so it could take control. Russian war weapons and political support were vital to the Zionist drive for a Jewish national homeland.

Another irony — our state department blocked United Nation's efforts to partition Palestine, in spite of Harry Truman's pro-partition stance.

Bloody, bitter success in combat reversed 2,000 years without a homeland for the Jews when, in 1949, they took over a tiny section of Arab world.

Arab hatred of Israel's existence has fomented two wars, in 1956 and 1967. Velie comes down hard on the Arab nations — Egypt and Nasser in particular — for persisting in their effort to destroy Israel.

Nasser is pictured as xenophobic, devoid of morals and a pathological liar. Velie apparently has no plans to vacation on the Nile. Velie claims Nasser used nerve gas to kill hundreds of villagers in remote Yemen in his attempt to get oil wells and revenue there. Nasser, he alleges, supports terrorist groups who murder Arab and Israeli leaders and civilians.

The 1967 Egypt-Israel war started as a fluke, the author states. Nasser was broke and began sabre-rattling to blackmail American financial aid. He bluffed at U.N. troops in the Sinai Desert, and the U.N. folded, hastily withdrawing all troops.

"Like a gambler who bets hundreds and makes millions," Nasser pushed his luck further by closing the Strait of Tiran. Cut off from its oil, Israel was forced to fight. Frantic backstage maneuvers went on in Washington D.C. and Moscow. The Israelis quickly smashed Egyptian troops and Communist-supplied jets, tanks, artillery, trucks and arms.

Russia's desperate effort to save its stake in the Middle East was to threaten war with the U.S. if we did not force Israel to withdraw troops from the Suez. President Johnson ordered the Sixth Fleet into action with combat-ready Marines. Fortunately, the Russians backed off. We did not hear about the confrontation for more than a year, when Velie broke the story in Reader's Digest.

Much of "Countdown in the Holy Land" is devoted to close looks at Israeli military operations and leaders. It is fascinating reading. For example, Israel feels it must win wars quickly, within four days, or it will collapse. Virtually all adult males, many women, and most vehicles and supplies go to the battlefront. The economy would become paralyzed quickly if war were prolonged.

Velie's admiration and support of the Israeli cause is total. He makes no attempt at objectivity and thinly covers his contempt for Arab nations. At times his view is myopic. He admires Israeli's spy system, which includes mailing bombs to German scientists who worked for Nasser.

There is little attempt to look beneath Arab hatred for motives or to shed light on Arab character in terms of Mohammedanism. Yet Velie makes a convincing case for supporting Israel both for idealistic reasons and for our own national self-interest.

An Encyclopedia On Hit Plays With Song And Dance

Anyone who has even the slightest interest in or contact with musical comedy, whether it be through actually witnessing one on the stage or through films or records, will find this encyclopedic volume a delight.

Laufe covers his subject thoroughly. He has filled his book with a wealth of information that traces the musical comedy from its beginnings (1884) through the present, covering each play that became a hit by the 500-plus performance standards.

He traces the changing trends and prevailing moods in each time period, rightly pointing to "Oklahoma" as the revolutionary musical comedy of its day, and pointing out what made it a milestone, even though it seems merely pleasant today.

The success ingredients of each hit are exhaustingly covered with "Oklahoma," "South Pacific" and "My Fair Lady" receiving single chapter treatments, and rightly so. Everyone, I'm sure, has his favorites and may find fault with Laufe's handling of any particular favorite. There seems to be a somewhat snobbish attitude toward "West Side Story," mainly because of the serious and grim nature of the play, dealing as it did with street gangs in New York.

Laufe writes in a dry, matter-of-fact way that will excite few people in terms of style. But that really shouldn't be the strength of this kind of book, which is an exhaustive review of the musical comedy, its appeal and its place in the American theater.

One serious omission, which is no fault of the author, due to deadline, is the absence of any mention of "Hair," surely a ground-breaker and trend-setter and, by any definition of the word, a hit. It would be interesting to see what Laufe had to say about it. There is also very little mention of Off-Broadway hits, some of which ("The Fantasticks" and "Your Own Thing") deserve a place somewhere for sheer longevity and style.

A New Militancy From The Ranks Of Black Moderates

By DON KEOWN

BEYOND RACISM by Whitney M. Young Jr.; McGraw-Hill, 257 pages, $6.95.

"Today, I don't know of a single 'moderate' organization or leader. We are all angry."

The reference is to America's black minority, and the writer is not Rap Brown, Stokely Carmichael, Eldridge Cleaver or some other young firebrand, but Whitney M. Young Jr., executive director of the National Urban League, newspaper columnist, and himself long regarded as a moderate in the civil rights spectrum.

The quote, taken from Young's new book, "Beyond Racism," is therefore indicative of black reaction to the continuing denial of the equality promised them by the American dream.

Much is being said these days about a white backlash, a hardening of white opposition to black demands. Less attention is being paid to a corresponding firming up among Negroes of their intention to attain that equality by one means or another. If white racism is an immovable object, Negro militancy might well be the irresistible force hurtling toward it. The collision, if not averted, could be a fearful one.

In his book, Young still holds that violence will not work and counsels his fellow blacks: "We must pursue excellence . . . the special responsibility to excel: to outthink, outperform and outdo those who would deny to black people freedom." That is the kind of advice one has come to expect from a Whitney Young or a Roy Wilkins.

But Young also declares: "Integration is no longer the issue; the issue today is equality. . . . Any and all strategies that will bring it about must be used." That broad statement is indicative of the impatience even men like Young are feeling today as white America continues to drag its feet.

"It is," he charges, "as if white America has been waging all-out war on black people for the past 350 years."

Young lashes out at critics of Black Power: "Commitment to black solidarity is not reverse racism or mere chauvinism. It's a survival technique. . . . In the fight for survival in which the black community is now engaged, every rational weapon must be used, and the strongest of these are group consciousness, group solidarity and group pride."

He defends the younger generation against accusations of excesses: "I prefer the errors of enthusiasm to the indifference of wisdom."

But he still disparages the more vocal extremists, seeing them as opportunists and labeling them leaders without followers.

There, one wonders if Young, a professional, middle-aged and middle-class black man working with an organization best known for its ability to cooperate with the white establishment (and particularly effective in the employment field), has not himself suffered a kind of segregation — a separation from the angrier young blacks who do constitute a following for the more militant activists. Nor does he seem to recognize the influence these young "loudmouths" have exerted in pressuring him and other moderates into adopting a more militant stance if they are to maintain their roles of leadership.

Anyway, when Young says things like "any child who has managed to survive to the age of 5 in the hell of the urban ghetto has learned more about life than many whites learn in a lifetime . . . ," he is repeating what the Cleavers and the Carmichaels have been saying in earthier language.

And Young slugs away at the white American institutions he blames for creating and maintaining that hell.

Of the church, he says: "Perhaps the most hypocritical and immoral institution in American life. . . ."

Of the "record of failure" of the press: "It has failed to present an accurate picture of the American racial crisis: It has alienated its Negro readers, it has excluded Negroes from its ranks; and it has accepted the racism that so distorts our national life."

Of the schools: They are "vehicles of destruction for black children . . ." run by an educational bureaucracy that "doesn't believe they (black children) are able to, or even that they ought to, learn."

Young still stands apart from the more radical black spokesmen in that he believes in working with white society and in that he clings to hope for success through cooperation. "American democracy has proven time and time again that its apparent rigidity can be cast off; that it is flexible enough to change in the face of pressures." But now there is a new emphasis upon that word "pressures."

His book is not all anger and criticism, but contains a number of specific proposals to move us toward "an open society . . . that can be shared by all decent people of whatever color."

Among his ideas are tuition-free urban grant universities in our cities similar to the old land grant colleges; a deliberate assignment of the best teachers to ghetto classrooms; a speed-up of school integration including inter-district busing; the educational park plan for new schools; community councils to give ghetto inhabitants greater control over their own destinies; ombudsmen to protect the citizen against public official and police abuse; a $2.60 an hour minimum wage; the negative income tax; subsidized rents for low income families; mass construction of houses in factories; active involvement of top corporate officials in fair hiring practices; tax benefits for housing improvements in the ghetto; integration in the suburbs; a universal health plan. His list is much longer, and he also points to sources for financing.

Young sees America as "poised at the brink of disaster." There are ominous indications he is not overstating our predicament — in Los Angeles, in Minneapolis, in New York and elsewhere.

Sober, serious discussions of how we might yet pull back from that dreadful abyss, such as is offered by Whitney Young in "Beyond Racism," merit our fullest attention, before the angry become yet angrier and dialogue ceases altogether.

WHITNEY M. YOUNG Jr., author of "Beyond Racism," has served as executive director of the National Urban League since 1961, and writes a syndicated column on racial and urban problems that is carried by more than 80 newspapers across the United States.

TUMBLEWEEDS, terror of Grimy Gulch and hero of the fast-growing comic strip carried regularly in the Independent-Journal, has invaded the paperback book field with the publication by Fawcett Gold Medal Books of "Let 'er Rip, Tumbleweeds," a 50-cent collection of the adventures and misadventures of the Tom K. Ryan-created cowboy character.

Sleuths & Suspense

STRANGER TO TOWN by L. P. Davies, Doubleday, 189 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Donald G. Davis.

Comparing this one with two others of L. P. Davies ("The Lampton Dreamers" and "Who Is Lewis Pinder?"), it's a little short of the mark.

Davies is a good storyteller and builder of suspense, but he lets down in "Stranger to Town." Julian Midwinter, who leaps into a dead man's shoes to play a dubious role of mouse in "cat and mouse" in a strange town, seems to be a bit of a paper figure. Perhaps this is because Davies is somewhat misleading in opening his story.

There's slow pace, too, in this tale of uncanny accidents, a clinging and rather mysterious widow and a missing heavy statue. There's a flashy fire chapter near the end, but when the smoke clears there's not much surprise or suspense left to unravel.

Suzanne Blanc further cements her reputation as a consistent producer of first-rate suspense novels with this, her fourth.

Her story takes place on board a Norwegian freighter carrying cargo and passengers in the South China Sea. Her principal characters are Arne Haugen, the handsome but somewhat brutish captain, and Corinne Reynolds, the pretty but brooding widow who is among his passengers. Both have pasts that are factors in the new relationship they achieve on ship and shore. And there is a merciless quality in the manner by which Miss Blanc moves her cast relentlessly toward a final confrontation and climax.

It is more a character study than it is a mystery or crime novel. But the absence of a real element of mystery is more than compensated for by the fascination one feels as he awaits for the inevitable eruption of the violence within Captain Haugen, and wonders if Mrs. Reynolds will be its victim.

DOROTHY

There once was a girl in the land of Oz
With pigtails and a freckely face—
She dreamed of a land
Where troubles were made of lemon drops
And where she could hop on chimney tops
While teardrops turned to lace.
It beckoned to her from beyond the rainbow
After the rains had washed the earth;
Her childish innocence caused her to look,
Not for the pot of gold,
For a place to rest—
Where things were their best—
And where dreams were never too old.

Thus she embarked on a 30-year journey
Following the path down a yellow brick road;
She encountered many people,
Strange creatures and things
While passing through woods, fields and streams,
And sung of her wishes, her hopes and her dreams,
Touching our ears and our hearts.

But Dorothy had looked in all the wrong places,
And into the eyes of not the right faces;
Her days turned to night,
And she weakened from fright,
As all small children will do.
Past the point of return,
Dorothy had lost her way,
And so Judy passed on
The other sad day.

RUNNING BOY

Running boy of mine, you never change your beat—
Your busy, rushing, dancing feet
Staccato everywhere!

Across the greening meadow you ply your carefree way
Scooping up wild flowers as gently as you may.
As you rush by puddles left by heavy rains
You toss a tiny pebble scooped up from the ground
But wait not for its widening water rings to make a single round.
No time to lose—a distant frog is calling from a pond nearby;
A meadowlark is teasing in the tall, dry grass on high.
Over on the sward a hoofprint on the turf
A flash of white tailed deer are charging through the trees
You must leap your hardest and catch up with all of these.
A drop of rain, then a gentle patter on the grass and in the leaves
A million scintillating diamonds in a crown upon your head—
Yet you gladly lost your treasure as quickly you were led
By a rainbow ribbon wrapping half the earth
And you had to run and seek from whence its sudden birth.

You came home dripping wet, with eyes of laughing blue,
A bunch of wilted flowers held in outstretched, muddied hands—
Now how can I be cross with you?

Low-Growing Annual Is Perfect Planting For A Colorful Border

Marin gardeners find a multitude of uses for the low-growing annuals that can be planted now, but perhaps their most frequent and most effective role is as a border or as an outline for a walkway.

These garden gems come in a variety of sizes to fit the height of the background plantings.

Especially useful are those that measure no more than eight inches tall.

IN THAT LIST, of course, belongs the alyssum, long a summer-time border favorite. These heavy bloomers now come in not only the popular white, but in appealing violet and pink shades as well.

Ageratum is another Marin favorite among the summer blooming annuals. This low-growing plant, highlighted by mink-blue flowers in profusion, is an especially effective companion for golden marigolds or any of the many shades of petunias.

Among the marigolds, there are many dwarf varieties, ideal for borders and walks with colors ranging from cream to orange to gold to mahogany, often in variegations. These are heavy bloomers that give you an awful lot, inch for inch, for the space they require.

THE ZINNIA, TOO, has its dwarfs that are perfect for border duty. The Thumbelina was their forerunner, and later arrivals include the Red Buttons, Cherry Buttons and the Mini-Pink, all standing from six to eight inches high. The Thumbelina gives you a mixture of colors, the Red Buttons and Cherry Buttons provide a solid show, and the Mini-Pink features blooms whose flower form is double.

A couple of other splendid selections for borders or to outline a walk or path are the lobelia and the fibrous begonia.

These small but prolific growers are all to be found in bloom in the nurseries now, ready to give you instant color when transplanted to your yard.

A NEW DWARF plant among the zinnias is the Mini-Pink, a Thumbelina-type beauty that grows uniformly six inches high, making it ideal as a low border planting. Its blooms may measure up to two inches across, and the flower form is more double than that of other dwarf zinnias. The color is a salmon pink. (Photo courtesy of the California Association of Nurserymen)

Some Plants Look Best When Paired

However beautiful an individual flowering plant is, it can often be enhanced by planting it next to another flower of contrasting color.

There are exceptions to this, such as the stand-offish Transvaal daisy, but generally we can find combinations of color which are more pleasing than any one member of the combinations planted alone.

DELPHINIUMS are an excellent example.

Few flowers are more beautiful than these extravagant perennials, yet how much more appealing they are when grouped with the orange or yellow of Red Hot Pokers, the warm tones of gaillardia or the clear pink of a giant snapdragon.

The crisp blue of Lily of the Nile is never more beautiful than when interplanted with pink amaryllis or with clumps of yellow day lily. And if you garden on a deck, tub plantings of this combination will do very nicely.

REMEMBER your combinations, too, when you plant spring bulbs next fall. Nurserymen have long known that they can be made even more lovely by covering them with a blanket of low growing annuals or perennials of contrasting colors.

A simple and most pleasing combination is yellow Marguerites with blue Felicia, the so-called blue Marguerite. White Marguerites fit into this combination, also, and for a foreground try Blue Bedder Sage. All of these do well in a sunny border and none of them requires more than casual attention. A little water goes a long way with all of them.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- If you haven't already done so, visit the Marin Art and Garden Fair in Ross tonight or tomorrow, for a treasury of landscaping and gardening ideas.
- Watch your junipers for the appearance of the twig girdler, and fight back by spraying with Lindane.
- Keep a watch, too, on your grass for lawn moths. There are a number of chemicals that are effective against this pest. In using them, follow directions carefully.
- If you have not done so in the last five or six weeks pinch back your chrysanthemums.
- Cut back spring and early summer blooming plantings after they have completed their show of color.
- Regular and deep watering is all-important in Marin during the summer months.
- Maintain a regular clean-up program for your garden. It will pay off, now only in appearance, but in plant disease prevention as well.

They stain and wax floors, tolerating them as supports.

An 86-year-old Louisville, Ky., floor company hopes to dispel this notion by working through decorators all over the country to encourage homeowners to discover new ideas in floor designs and patterns.

THE COMPANY, Wood Mosaics, makes varied hardwood floors, ranging from simple herringbone and laminated plank designs to more intricate 39-inch squares of solid wood. The company has custom crafted floors for the White House, as well as for galleries, embassies and private libraries.

In a series of room settings, four well-known New York interior designers showed how various floors can be used to enhance rooms and furnishings.

In a library setting, Michael Greer chose a reproduction of a floor originally used by Thomas Jefferson for his home at Monticello. The original was rosewood and ash, but, walnut and other woods are used today for more durability.

THE PATTERN is set in 10-inch squares.

"Wood is the richest material for floors and my preference is for dark-stained wood to bring out the beauty of the design," Greer explains. He doesn't like rugs to hide beautiful floors. He used the interesting walnut parquetry design with its burl center, to enhance a background of black shiny vinyl walls, a steel fireplace and his favorite steel furniture.

BARRETT LIKES to combine see-through furniture with a white background and dark accessories.

Colonial planking need not be limited to early American houses, says Leona Kahn. In an entrance hall she used random-width planking with pegs, in golden brown Gothic oak. The walls were green damask. The elegant carved doors were gold and buff. Regence chairs with white damask upholstery and a pair of pedestals at doors provided grandeur.

Coloring floors can be a tremendous answer to a contemporary decorating scheme, says Leif Petersen, an interior designer well-known for moving picture sets. Painted floors, he says, need less care than other floors.

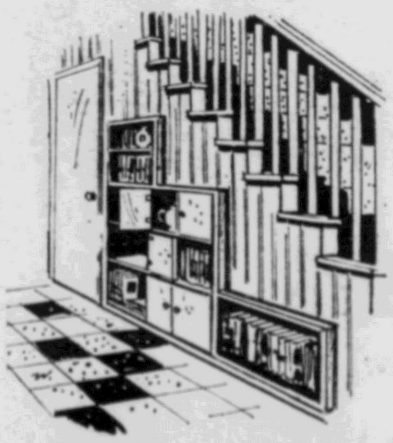
Petersen used a chrome and glass etagere and a blue-topped Parson's table desk in the den-like room. He believes colored floors may be used in any room of the house, particularly in dining rooms.

Petersen's floor was stained so that its grain would show. Sometimes he does all white floors coating them with polyurethane to make a hard, shiny bowling-alley floor surface.

SOME PEOPLE think they would like to do something different to floors, but fear how will it look, says Donald Bell, vice-president of Wood-Mosaics. Now answers may be provided because dealers in major cities will begin to work with decorators so that more interesting floors may be seen on an area-to-area basis, he says.

"If a decorator has an idea, but doesn't understand how to progress in altering the appearance of the flooring, we will tell him how. We consider this plan one of the best ways to reach the consumer."

Storage Space



A STAIRCASE can provide a lot of storage space under its treads, if you will only use it. This example shows a closet built at the high end, with the remaining area devoted to book shelving and closed cabinets in a step-down design. Panel boards of red cedar make a picture frame around the installation.

New TV Cartoons For Children To Reflect Anti-Violence Trend

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The anti-violence drive, including an edict from the Federal Communications Commission, has affected televisions cartoons to a greater degree than it has prime-time horse operas, spy thrillers and cops and robbers.

The largest, most successful source of animated shows for children, Hanna-Barbera, will reflect the trend away from violence this fall.

President Joe Barbera, an animated man himself with a keen sense of humor, is more than pleased to go along with straight humor which after all, is his bag to begin with.

"THE RETURN to comedy is perfect for us," he said, preparing four new shows for the coming video season. "It's what we do best.

"For a while the 'James Bond' and 'Man From UNCLE' type shows were the most popular things around. Nobody wants them anymore. We followed the trend that adult viewers set. After all, youngsters stay up long enough to watch the prime-time shows, too."

Hanna-Barbera's 1969-70 production includes newcomers "Scooby Doo, Where Are You!," "Dick Dastardly and Muttley in Their Flying Machines," "The Cattanooga Cats" and "Perils of Penelope Pitstop."

THEY ARE scheduled for the kiddy prime time hours — Saturday morning.

"You have to make a distinction in violence," Barbera said. "Comedy slapstick isn't violence. It's historical buffoonery going all the way back to Punch and Judy. A pie in the face isn't violent.

"Then again, we were raised on the adventures of Tarzan and Tom Swift — and with adventure you encounter a certain amount of violence.

"LIKE ANY one else providing shows for television, we have been producing shows the viewers want. Now they're asking for less violence, and I don't think you'll find any violence this season.

"Animated comedy shows run into trouble when the cartoon animals take on realistic human qualities — and start carrying weapons. You simply can't endow cartoon characters with a realistic human image."

Hanna-Barbera, however, won widespread adult audiences with its runaway hits "The Flintstones" and "The Jetsons."

"You can run a steam roller over a cat and flatten him," Barbera said, "and he jumps right up without a scratch.

"But we've learned you can't do that with human beings. And that is one of the principal differences between slapstick comedy and violence.

"The other is having an animal — say, a dog — chasing a cat only to step on a launch pad and find himself in space. That's all right. But you can't have the cat whip out a revolver and shoot the dog.

"That's violence. What's more, it isn't funny."

The only medication that

Gets to a Major Cause of Hemorrhoids

Now! Most complete 3-way relief!

Important development: unlike every other hemorrhoid product, Counternoid™ works in 3 ways:
1. Lessens pain fast.
2. Coats, soothes and protects injured tissue.
3. Gets to a major cause of hemorrhoids: painful hard constipation.

In hospital X-ray tests, doctors have demonstrated that the exclusive Counternoid formulation with DSS₁₈™ penetrates in minutes to the top of the rectal area to soften the stool and ease the bowel movement, to make natural healing possible.

Remember: Counternoid. For temporary relief of minor hemorrhoid troubles. The most complete 3-way relief you can get without a prescription or without surgery. At all drug counters.

REFLECTIONS OF THE FOURTH — Central Marin was the scene last night of a colorful fireworks display set off in Larkspur which was visible for miles on the clear night air. Independent-Journal photographer Jim Kean had this view from the Greenbrae Marina looking north toward the Tamalpais retirement home silhouetted against the skyline.

Nine Die As Storm Rips Northern Ohio

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard said today that perhaps as many as 200 persons were still unaccounted for in the wake of howling thunderstorms that swept into northern Ohio from Lake Erie last night, killing at least nine persons and injuring more than 300.

The Coast Guard said, however, that no drownings had been reported, that communication was poor, and that "it was only a matter of time" before any survivors of the storm-related boating mishaps were found.

Forty Coast Guard boats and 12 planes were combing Lake Erie for persons from the 200 small boats the Coast Guard estimated capsized during the storms.

The Coast Guard said it hoped to have later in the day a complete list of all those unaccounted for.

RIPS TOLEDO

The storm smashed into the Toledo area at 8:15 p.m. yesterday, cutting off half the city's power and producing a tornado which damages some 10 homes in the city's Point Place area.

Speeding eastward with winds clocked at 60 and 100 miles an hour, the storms produced other funnel clouds in Hancock, Huron, Cuyahoga, Geauga, and Lake counties.

Extensive damage to trees and power lines was reported all along the storm paths which extended more than 50 miles into the state from Lake Erie.

A Toledo man was killed by a falling tree at Cedar Point amusement park near Sandusky. At least three other persons were killed in the Cleveland area by trees, and two Cleveland men were electrocuted by downed power lines.

National Guardsmen were ordered into Ottawa County and the Cleveland suburb of Lakewood to help clean up storm damage. Toledo officials plan to discuss possible use of guardsmen later today.

Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes flew from Columbus to Cleveland to begin a tour of the lakeshore area. In Cleveland, he called damage "the worst since the 1937-1941 floods in the Ohio Valley."

HUNDREDS STRANDED

Several hundred persons were stranded temporarily on an island in the Cedar Point amusement park near Sandusky by hight waters.

"I've never seen anything come up so fast and throw down so much water in so little time," said Robert Cullins of Dresden, Ohio, who was with his family at the Cedar Point amusement park when the storms hit.

ALL AT ONCE

"It was real funny at first, but then the storm came up all at once and everyone went into a panic," said Carol Harwell of Mansfield, one of the persons trapped on a small island in the park by rising waters.

"It just rained and rained," she said. "People were just running everywhere and there were lost children. Water was up to your knees in places."

"You saw it sweeping across the lake from the west, a real

Marin Celebrates Glorious Fourth

Marin residents celebrated the Glorious Fourth yesterday under balmy skies with the thousands of "straights" attending traditional parades and fireworks displays and about 75 hippies setting fire to debris at Muir Beach.

The day's activities in Corte Madera and Larkspur which featured a parade and fireworks as well as many other events were attended by thousands, according to Louis N. Malvino, president of the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce.

"Many more people attended the parade than last year," he said, adding that moving to the fireworks display to Larkspur's Piper Park from Corte Madera gave a better view for more residents of central Marin. (See story of parade winners on page 4.)

The hour's display of fireworks drew about 1,000 persons to the scene with no estimate made of the number watching from their own homes or other vantage points.

Many thousands also toured the annual Marin Art and Garden Fair in Ross.

Hardest working people in the county yesterday, however, were probably firemen, who were called to put out a rash of grass fires as well as blazes started by illegal fireworks.

At Muir Beach where hippies set fire to the remains of the old tavern, firemen had to enlist the help of law officers to "quiet the hippies" before putting out the fire.

Hayakawa Hopes He's Selected

"I'm surprised they didn't nominate Eldredge Cleaver," was the reaction today of Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, acting president of San Francisco State college, to the recommendations of the school's presidential selection committee.

The committee is expected to submit three names, Assemblyman Willie Brown, D-San Francisco; Franklin Williams, former ambassador to Ghana, and one other unidentified person.

Hayakawa of Mill Valley indicated, however, that he hopes the appointment will be his and that it will be a permanent selection, and not for just one year.

"A permanent appointment will help stabilize the relationship between the administration and the professors," the semanticist said.

The appointment of Hayakawa would bypass the campus' presidential selection committee which, according to the acting-president consists "mostly of members of the American Federation of Teachers who struck last year and are my avowed enemies."

Dr. Hayakawa, named as acting president last fall, brought the five-month student strike to a close with a hard-line policy toward demonstrators.

The California State College trustees will meet Tuesday and Wednesday and one of the items on the agenda is the selection of a president for San Francisco State.

Nixon Picks Leaders Of Arms Curb Team

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Richard M. Nixon announced today senior members of the U.S. delegation for proposed arms curb talks with the Soviet Union will include retired Ambassador Lewellyn Thompson and two men who were high defense officials in the Johnson administration.

Gerard C. Smith, director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, will head the delegation. In addition to Thompson, former ambassador to Moscow, senior members of the group will include former Deputy Secretary of Defense Paul Nitze and former Secretary of the Air Force Harold Brown, who served in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

Others in the delegation will include Philip J. Farley, deputy Assistant Secretary of State for political-military affairs, and Air Force Maj. Gen. Royal B. Allison, deputy chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff's special studies group.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the Soviet Union has not yet responded to a Nixon suggestion that talks on strategic arms limitations begin during the July 1-Aug. 15 period, perhaps in Geneva or Vienna.

Nixon, through Ziegler, also announced he will nominate Leonard C. Meeker, legal adviser of the State Department since May 1965 as U.S. ambassador to Romania. A 53-year-old career diplomat, Meeker would succeed Richard H. Davis, a longtime acquaintance of the President, who is expected to remain as envoy in Bucharest until after Nixon's Aug. 2-3 visit to Romania.

Ziegler announced a tentative schedule for Nixon's globe-circling trip.

On July 24, if the Apollo 11 mission proceeds on schedule, the President will board the carrier Hornet in mid-Pacific to witness the splashdown and recovery of the spaceship and its crew. He then will fly by helicopter to Johnston Island for a jet flight to Guam, where he will spend the night of July 25.

Hanoi Envoy Back In Paris; Attacks U.S.

PARIS (AP) — Hanoi's chief delegate at the Vietnam peace talks returned to Paris today after a month of consultations in Hanoi, Peking and Moscow and accused the United States of not really working to negotiate peace.

Ambassador Xuan Thuy was welcomed back by Soviet, Chinese and East European diplomats and by Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, Foreign Minister of the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government.

On his way back to Paris, Thuy conferred with Chinese Premier Chou En-lai in Peking and Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin in Moscow.

In an arrival statement he said he was returning to the talks "with goodwill and a serious attitude."

Asked whether he thought the U.S. delegation also had such an attitude, he replied:

"In my view there is not yet any serious effort on their part.

"For example, President Nixon's eight points are completely different from the 10 points of the PRG. The withdrawal of 25,000 American troops is aimed only at soothing public opinion which is demanding an end to the American involvement.

"By comparison with the total number of U.S. troops in South Vietnam—540,000 men—the withdrawal of 25,000 of them is meaningless."

Thuy was asked to comment

THE ART, GARDEN FAIR TO CLOSE TOMORROW

Attendance yesterday at the fair was 8,260 compared to 8,464 last year on the Fourth of July and 6,646 on last year's third day of the fair.

Bob Mielke's Bear Cats will play Dixieland jazz between 6 and 7 p.m. and 8 and 9 p.m. today, and Friendly Clyde and the Big Time Operators will take over between 7 and 8 p.m.

The Marin Dance Council will present a folk dancing display in the amphitheatre at the fair grounds between 7:30 and 10 p.m.

Novato Man Is Shot; Wife Unconscious In Hospital

A 56-year-old Novato man was shot in the back early this morning, apparently by his wife, who then took an overdose of pills, according to police.

Robert Abercrombie of 5 Harding Drive, was reported in poor condition at Letterman General Hospital at the Presidio of San Francisco, where he was transferred from Novato General Hospital.

His wife, Connie, 55, was also reported in poor condition at Novato hospital. Officials said that she was unconscious.

Police said that the shooting occurred in the bedroom of the couple's home but did not know what led up to the assault. Mrs. Abercrombie, who called an ambulance for her husband at 5:45 a.m., was unconscious when it arrived, officers said.

A .38-caliber revolver was found by police.

Detective Sgt. Perry J. Haley said that Mrs. Abercrombie has been arrested on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder.

CHRISTMAS

California Highway patrolmen, sheriff's deputies and park rangers were required last night to control 50 to 75 hippies who were interfering with Marin county firemen fighting a fire at the remains of Muir Beach Tavern, according to Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom.

The fire was deliberately set by the hippies who tried to prevent the firemen from putting it out, Bloom said.

After the hippies were shoed away from the fire in the piled remains of the tavern, they went down on the beach and set several other fires, Bloom said.

When the firemen received a call at 9:45 p.m., the blaze was burning quite furiously, he said.

The firemen first kept it from spreading through the dry grass and brush to the houses higher up on the hill, Bloom said.

Then when they turned their attention to the main fires, the hippies booed them and pulled at their hoses.

Firemen finally used a bulldozed to scatter the piled debris so they could extinguish the fire. It was well after daylight before they finished the job, he said.

A grass fire hit the Tiburon peninsula yesterday. It started at 2:15 p.m. at the home of Byron W. Leydecker, 170 Avenida Mira Floers, according to the Tiburon Fire Department.

The fire burned approximately 40 acres before 12 units from Tiburon, Belvedere, Alto, Sausalito, Kentfield and Marin county fire departments brought it under control.

The cause of the fire is still under investigation.

Holiday Traffic Deaths Mount

The traffic death count mounted to 281 today as the three-day Independence Day weekend passed the midway point, the Associated Press reported.

Torrential rains that swamped the nation's midsection created hazardous driving conditions for motorists in Michigan and Ohio.

Texas, with 26 deaths, reported the most fatalities of any state. California was second with a count of 24.

Architect Gropius Is Dead At 86

BOSTON (AP) — Walter Adolf Gropius, 86, who founded the Bauhaus School of Design and Architecture that helped wrest art into the 20th Century, died today.

Gropius, prior to becoming a professor of architecture of Harvard University, established the Bauhaus School in Weimar, Germany, in 1918 by uniting two art schools.

Belgium Burial For Tshombe

BRUSSELS (UPI)—Former Premier Moise Tshombe of the Congo was buried today in a suburban Brussels cemetery. His sobbing sons tried to leap into his grave when the coffin was lowered. Tshombe, 49, died Sunday of a heart attack in Algiers, where he had been held for the past two years after being kidnaped during a flight over the Mediterranean.

The Katangese politician, one of the Congo's main political leaders following independence from Belgium, could not be buried in his native country where he had been branded a traitor.

Today's interment in Etterbeek Cemetery outside Brussels was provisional in hopes a later burial in the Congo will be possible, a family spokesman said.

War Operation Level Maintained By U.S

SAIGON (AP) — Despite the sharp decrease in North Vietnamese and Viet Cong military actions, U.S. troops are maintaining the same level of operations the U.S. Command said today.

"It's the same as it has been for the past several months," a spokesman said when asked about American operations. "We're continuing to operate in our areas, to search out the enemy, to look for caches. We are at a full level of operations."

Battlefield communiques did not list any significant ground fight during the past 24 hours. The level of activity across South Vietnam dropped to its lowest in more than a year.

The U.S. Command said it had 12 operations of battalion size or larger currently under way, about the same number it has been conducting for the past six months.

U.S. officials have said they do not know whether the decrease in attacks and the withdrawal of enemy troops to border areas is a signal that Hanoi wants to deescalate or just a pause to regroup and resupply.

Only one significant rocket or mortar attack was reported in morning communiques.

Ten mortar shells hit a base camp of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division in the central highlands 245 miles northeast of Saigon. Some Americans were wounded but none was killed, headquarters said. No damage was reported.

B52 bombers made four strikes against enemy troops maneuvering near the Cambodian border and 97 miles northeast of Saigon.

Rocky's Visit To Guyana Turns Out To Be Peaceful

Prime Minister Forbes Burnham told a midnight news conference that expected demonstrations by his Communist-led opposition, the People's Progressive party, failed because "they got cold feet."

Burnham's government tightened security measures for the Rockefeller visit and detained or kept out of Georgetown persons police said were troublemakers.

At joint meetings, Rockefeller heard Burnham discuss a territory dispute between Guyana and Venezuela, plans for settlement of Guyana's interior and plans for regional integration based on agreements with English-speaking countries in the Caribbean.

The most serious problem Rockefeller will take back to President Richard M. Nixon for consultation from this nation of 700,000 is its dispute with Venezuela.

Venezuela's government claims two-thirds of Guyana's territory and Burnham hinted strongly that he believes Venezuela might use arms to enforce its claim.

Rockefeller also will take back requests for aid to build a $150,000 dam to produce cheap electricity and a road linking Guyana with Brazil.

The New York governor will leave Barbados tomorrow after a "listen and learn" tour that took him to 20 nations in Latin America.

Peru, Chile and Venezuela asked him to postpone his visit and Cuba was not included on the schedule.

Rockefeller and his aides will prepare a report on the trip that will serve as one of the guidelines for the Nixon administration's Latin America policy.

Another Ann Arbor Co-ed Shot

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A University of Michigan coed was found shot in the head and critically wounded today in her apartment in Ann Arbor, near where six young women have been found murdered in the past two years.

Police said Margaret Phillips, 25, of Coopersville, was found in her Ann arbor apartment lying on a bed, fully clothed and unmolested. Police Chief Walter Krasny said the apartment apparently had not been burglarized.

Miss Phillips was a student in the School of Social Work, as was the last victim in a string of six murders of young women during the past two years in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area.

Miss Phillips underwent surgery early today. Doctors said she still had one slug imbedded in her head. They added the next 24 hours will be critical for her.

Police said Miss Phillips was found by a neighbor about 15 minutes after she was shot. Police said a preliminary examination indicated the victim admitted someone to her apartment about midnight and talked about 10 minutes. Neighbors reported they then heard loud reports.

The neighbor who found Miss Phillips said she came to use the phone, and entered the victim's apartment through the unlocked door.

Borman Honors Moscow Tombs

MOSCOW (AP) — In an unusual gesture toward closer U.S.-Soviet ties, astronaut Frank Borman placed wreaths today on the tombs of a Communist leader and a Red army soldier, as well as on those of cosmonauts.

On the fourth day of his goodwill visit, the first to Russia by a U.S. spaceman, Borman solemnly laid a wreath at the Red Square mausoleum of Vladimir Lenin, leader of the 1917 Bolshevik Revolution.

The inscription with the flowers said: "To V. I. Lenin, founder of the Soviet state."

Won't Give Up Gaza Strip—Israel

Information Minister Israel Galilee said yesterday in an interview over the army radio station: "I believe it can be said definitely that the Gaza Strip region will not again be separated from the state of Israel."

Peacefulness Marks Berkeley Gathering

BERKELEY (AP) — More than 5,000 young people celebrated a "July 4th Festival of Liberation" on Telegraph Avenue in events marked by peacefulness, ear-splitting music and several girls going topless.

American flags flapped everywhere and the event was all legay because the city council had granted permission for blocking off streets yesterday in the area south of the University of California campus.

Police, guarding the controversial People's Park two blocks from the festival, moved in only to turn off gushing water mains.

A dozen persons were arrested in isolated incidents.

The revelers, who police said were not as numerous as they had been at last year's festival, drank wine, finger painted, carved on wood, listened to loud music, and milled about.

As is becoming customary in Berkeley demonstrations, several young girls went topless.

Kites and balloons flew aloft. The balloons carried a message: "Create."

"They do seem to be having a good time," said Edwin Tiemann, a graying revivialist preacher who watched from his "salvation" truck.

Fireworks Kills Girl, 4, Injures Several Others

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Shelley Adams died an hour after she was hit in the back by exploding fireworks, apparently homemade, Kansas City police said.

A 7-year-old boy was critically injured yesterday during a fireworks display in Goodale Park in West Boylston, Mass. Gerard N. Gaudette Jr. was hospitalized with face and head burns after an aerial bomb exploded in a crowd. Five other persons suffered minor injuries.

A 6-year-old boy from Wickliffe, Ohio, was in fair condition in a Cleveland hospital with severe burns. Police said John Coxwell threw a firecracker into the family garage and it hit some gasoline, setting off an explosion.

James Spahn, 19, of Niles, Ohio, lost his left hand when someone threw a firecracker into his car, police said. The explosive landed in Spahn's lap, police said, and went off as he picked it up to throw out the window.

In Russellville, Ark., a country club manager and a Little Rock fireman were injured when a box of fireworks was ignited by sparks from an aerial bomb, during a display at the Russellville Country Club. Both men were reported in good condition.

Three persons were injured in New York City and about 100 windows shattered when a box of firecrackers exploded a block from police headquarters in lower Manhattan. Police said they found hundreds of unexploded firecrackers in the same building.

In Wallace, Idaho, Thursday, a woman gave her children some fireworks left over from last year. One child dropped a lit firecracker in the family car's gas tank. The car was destroyed, but the family escaped unharmed.

OAS Is Working To Mediate In Border Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — A plan for Costa Rica, Guatemala and Nicaragua to mediate the border dispute between Honduras and El Salvador has been unanimously endorsed by the council of the Organization of American States.

The OAS resolution approved yesterday urged Honduras and El Salvador to avoid any action that might further endanger the situation in Central America. The council will meet July 10 to review mediation efforts.

The United States supported the plan and John Ford, the U.S. representative on the council said he hoped an early settlement could be reached.

Honduras, claiming there was an armed attack by El Salvador Thursday, asked the council for an immediate meeting of Western Hemisphere foreign ministers. The two nations broke diplomatic relations with each other a week ago following a series of border incidents.

Elysee Palace Being Remodeled

PARIS (AP) — Mrs. Georges Pompidou, wife of the new French president, is sprucing up Elysee Palace to give the official residence a little more warmth and intimacy.

She says some of the bathrooms that are being done over were so Spartan "you think you were in an English hotel." The private apartment of former president Charles de Gaulle is being painted in warm pastels. It had been white.

Mamie Has Cold

LAKENHEATH, England (AP) — Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower, widow of Dwight D. Eisenhower, was taken to the U.S. Air Force hospital here today after developing a cold. The hospital said her condition was good.

'Negligence' Charged In Sinking Of Sub

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shipyard workers at California's Mare Island Naval Shipyard are accused of "culpable negligence" in the dockside sinking of the $50 million nuclear submarine Guitarro.

Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., chairman of the House armed services subcommittee, yesterday called the sinking a "comedy of errors."

The subcommittee charged:

Crews fore and aft filled and emptied ballast tanks, unaware of each other's presence.

Workers ignored two warnings that seawater was leaking in as much as two hours prior to the sinking.

—The cover to the hatch through which water poured had been lying on the dock for months.

The foreman in charge admitted he did not know how to operate submarine ballast tanks to keep a submarine level.

FINAL REPORT

The charges were made in the subcommittee's final report, prepared after a visit to Mare Island.

The 292-foot, 4,100-ton vessel mysteriously sank in 35 feet of water at dockside last May 15 where the attack submarine was being outfitted.

The report said emptying of aft ballast tanks while forward tanks were filled caused the submarine to dive. There were no injuries in the incident.

Costs of stripping down and replacing the vessel's interior will run $15.2 million to $21.85 million, the report said.

Stratton, however, said later estimates have moved the cost closer to the $30 million mark—more than half the cost of the completed vessel.

Stratton said his subcommittee is not interested in disciplining workers involved but he said some had been warned during testimony before the Naval Board of Inquiry that they faced such action.

COVER REMOVED

The report emphasized that a hatch cover and protective cofferdam had been removed in March to make it easier to place sonar equipment in the forward section. The cover was not replaced.

A security watch twice within a half hour advised the forward group that the sub was so low wakes from passing boats were causing water to enter the open hatch, the report said, but the warnings were ignored.

To prevent similar incidents in the future, the subcommittee recommended that Navy shipyards appoint a "strong-man" supervisor to coordinate crews working in various locations aboard ships.

It also recommended that cables and lines connected to vessels be designed so they could be immediately connected. Cables running through watertight compartments prevented closing hatch covers that might have prevented the sinking, the report said.

Dealer In Art Dies In Pool

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Martha Jackson, 62, who had been described as the nation's best known woman art dealer, drowned yesterday while swimming in the family pool at her Brentwood home.

A neighbor looking over a fence saw her body in the pool and called police.

Police said she had telephoned a friend at 2:20 p.m. and in the course of conversation mentioned that she was going swimming. Police recovered the body at 3:10 p.m.

An autopsy was scheduled to determine whether death came from drowning or some other cause.

Mutiny Lawyer Order Revoked

WARWICK, R.I. (UPI) — A U. S. Army attoreny who gained national prominence defending soldiers charged with mutiny at the San Francisco Presidio will not be sent to Vietnam as previously ordered, it was learned yesterday.

Orders for Capt. Bredan V. Sullivan Jr., 27, of Warwick, were revoked Wednesday by Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Kenya Leader Mboya Slain

NAROBI (UPI)—A gunman killed Kenya political leader Tom Mboya in a drug store doorway today, the government said. The assassin escaped in an automobile.

Mboya

Police said the unknown killer fired a bullet in Mboya's chest the moment the minister for economic planning and development stepped from Channi's Pharmacy, near the Hilton Hotel.

A doctor tried artificial respiration without success.

Mboya, 39, who was expected to be the next president of Kenya, did not utter a word after being shot.

The killer struck as Mboya was ending a brief shopping tour. He had returned to Nairobi yesterday after attending a U.N. sponsored meeting in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

Hundreds of persons were within a few hundred yards of the killing. At the sound of the single shot, they froze and then rushed to the scene — as the killer's car sped away.

Officers Killed

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Two Camden police officers, one a rookie, were shot to death today as they answered an apparently routine call in South Camden.

Medical Examiner Blair Murphy said the dead officers were Charles Sutman, the rookie, 23, and George Shultze, 27.

Both men had embarked on the midnight to 8 a.m. patrol in the same car. The shootings occurred less than one-half hour after they started their patrol.

The two officers reportedly exchanged shots with a gunman firing from the second story of a frame house at Third and Sycamore streets.

Monkey Lazy?

MOUNTAIN VIEW (AP) — Space scientists were wondering today whether anstronout Bonny was getting a bit lazy as he orbited the earth for a seventh day.

Officials at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Ames Research Center said the 14-pound male monkey was not as active as he was earlier.

Leopard Death

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A black leopard killed his spotted mate of three years in a fight in their Los Angeles Zoo compound before a dozen Fourth of July visitors.

At first the spectators thought the cats were just playing, but as the pawing and screaming increased, one ran for a zoo keeper.

When the keeper arrived, the female leopard was dead of broken neck.

A zoo spokesman said no reason for the fight was apparent, but added it was not unusual for leopards to fight in captivity.

Trouble In Aspen

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — A curfew was clamped on this year-round resort community early today after at least five separate dynamite blasts and a night of restlessness by an estimated 500 hippies.

Sheriff Carrol Whitmire of Pitkin County issued a plea for help late last night after explosions had damaged a city trash collection truck and three buildings.

He estimated the number of roving "hippie types" at 300 but Dick Ritchey, acting Aspen police chief, later placed the number at 500.

The four-man Aspen police force and the Pitkin County sheriff's force were bolstered by a 17-member posse from nearby Garfield County, four members of the Glenwood Springs police force, and six highway patrolmen. Six more patrolmen were standing by in Glenwood Springs.

Speaks In Romania

Harry G. Barnes Jr., U.S. charge d'affaires and ranking diplomat in the absence of Ambassador Richard H. Davis, who is in the United States, was the first American envoy to appear on Romanian television. He spoke for 10 minutes in Romanian, hailing President Richard M. Nixon's forthcoming visit here Aug. 2 as an expression of good will between the two nations.

Chutist Cited

NEW YORK (AP) — A skydiver was issued two summonses yesterday for parachuting into Van Cortlandt Park flying an American flag from a cord of his parachute in honor of a friend slain in Vietnam.

James Mullarkey, 28, a Bronx construction worker and former paratrooper, said he made the jump to honor Sgt. Gerald J. Dunne, 21, of Brooklyn, who was killed in action in Quang Ngai Province last Aug. 25, and to commemorate Independence Day.

The flag had draped Dunne's coffin.

Backs Officer

SUBIC BAY, Philippines (AP) — The captain of the U.S. destroyer Frank E. Evans said today the young officer on duty at the time the American destroyer collided with the Australian carrier Melbourne was one of his "more experienced officers of the deck."

Cmdr. Albert S. McLemore, skipper of the Evans, made the statement before a joint U.S.-Australian navy board as open hearings into the June 3 South China Sea tragedy were convened briefly after a week-long break and then were recessed indefinitely.

The officer in question was Lt. J. G. Ronald C. Ramsey, 24, of Long Beach, Calif., who was on watch when the Melbourne sliced the destroyer in two, killing 74 Evans crewmen.

Racial Brawl

Twenty-five prisioners were injured. Ten were treated at a city hospital, and the others at the reformatory infirmary.

At the close of the evening's movie, "Bonnie and Clyde," some inmates tossed firecrackers into the Negro section of the cellblock, said Supt. Joseph Noble, who went into the block to help calm the inmates.

The disturbance was "purely racial in nature," Noble said. "We can't say it is all settled, but at least it has quieted down."

Eight Arrested

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Eight Americans, four of whom identified themselves as U.S. deserters, were arrested yesterday for disturbing Fourth of July ceremonies at the U.S. Embassy in Stockholm. Police said the youths shouted anti-American slogans and refused to leave the embassy lawns.

Flag Burned

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI)—Students protesting U.S. involvement in Vietnam broke into the grounds of the U.S. Consulate and burned an American flag last night. Then they surged toward a downtown hotel where an American Independence Day ball was underway, but police stopped the march.

Divorce Granted

LONDON (UPI)—The wife of one of the great train robbers was granted a divorce yesterday on grounds that her husband's crime constituted legal cruelty. The judge made the award to Mrs. Helen Mary Welch, whose husband, Robert, was sentenced to 30 years in prison in 1964 for his part in the $7.3 million robbery of a mail train.

bad storm," said Clevelander Robert Coatman, who was in his 16-foot boat awaiting a fireworks display at Cleveland's Edgewater Park.

"We headed for shore fast and ran right through the barrier the city had just put up to protect swimmers. Twenty boats must have hit it at the same time."

Few of the persons injured in the storms were reported seriously hurt. More than 300 injuries were reported in Cleveland alone.

At least 30 persons were hospitalized in Toledo for injuries suffered in the storms. Most Toledo hospitals operated on emergency power systems after the storm and one was isolated by water.

Five of the storms dead were identified. Ernest Paszczytowski, 20, of Toledo; Greta D. Schwatz, 16, of Lakewood; and Joann Geneva, 23, of Cleveland, were all reported killed by falling trees.

Samuel Butler, 44, and Elmer Wacchhaus, 50, both of Cleveland, were reported electrocuted by downed power lines.

Damage and injury reports from several portions of the state's shoreline were delayed because of telephone line damage.

NIXON

The balance of Nixon's schedule:

July 26—Depart Guam for Manila. July 27—Fly trom Manila to Makarta. July 28—Fly from Jakarta to Bangkok, remaining in the Thai capital until July 31, when he will go on to New Delhi. Aug. 1—Fly from New Delhi to Lajore, West Pakistan. Aug. 2— Fly from Lajore to Bucharest. Aug. 3—Fly from Bucharest to Andrews Air Force Base, Md., arriving in the evening.

Ziegler said there was a "slight possibility" of changes in the schedule. He said a longer stay was scheduled for Bangkok because "this will provide an opportunity for some relaxation following the lengthy flight to the Asian area."

Asked if Nixon might visit South Vietnam during that period, he said, "There's no plan whatsoever to do that."

OBITUARIES

Frederick Scheffauer Dies At 90

Frederick Scheffauer, marine engineer, inventor and author who had been a Marin resident since shortly after the 1906 San Francisco earthquake, died early today at a local hospital after a brief illness. He was 90 years old.

Scheffauer was a former chief engineer of the Rivers and Harbors Division of the U. S. Army Engineers Corps guiding operations on the entire Pacific Coast, Hawaii and Alaska.

Before his retirement in 1944, he obtained patents for several inventions put in use on seagoing hopper dredges. In 1954 a book written by Scheffauer, "The Hopper Dredge," was published, the first work in the field.

Scheffauer moved to Marin from his birthplace, San Francisco, about 1907. He joined the Army engineers two years later.

In 1929 he developed the Blithedale Terrace subdivision in Mill Valley, where he lived until entering Marin General Hospital one week ago after suffering a stroke.

In the late 1930s Scheffauer was named to the board of directors of the Old Mill Valley Bank, which since has become part of the Wells Fargo system.

During World War II Scheffauer joined four Army officers on a secret mission to the South Pacific zone to research areas for allied bases.

He continued to serve as a consultant to the Army engineers as well as to private firms following his retirement.

In his later years Scheffauer was active in Seniors In Retirement of Marin. He also held membership in the society of American Military Engineers and the Permanent Association of Navigation Congresses.

Burnham of Mill Valley; one Scheffauer was a graduate of Technichum Breman, Germany, and Durham College of Science, Newcastle on Thames, England.

He is survived by his wife, Inez; three daughters, Mrs. Juanita McMillan of Strawberry; Mrs. Gisela Sawyer of San Francisco, and Mrs. Louise Burnham of MillValley; one brother, Walter Scheffauer of San Francisco; three grandchildren, and four great grandchildren.

Funeral services are pending at Russell and Gooch Funeral

DEE HIRZU

A Mass of Requiem was offered today at Our Lady of Loretto Church in Novato for Dee Anne Carol Hirzu, 8, of Novato, who died at a local hospital Thursday following a long illness.

The child was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll M. Hirzu of 428 Calle de La Mesa. The father is a driver for a bakery.

Dee Anne, a second grader at Loma Verde Elementary School, was born in San Francisco and lived all her life in Marin County. She was a member of Brownie Scout Troop 1626.

In addition to her parents, she is survived by a sister, Valerie Anne, and a brother, James Edward Hirzu, both of the family home, and her grandmothers, Mrs. Sunta Maede of Middletown, Lake County, and Mrs. Nina E. Boyce of Novato.

Burial was private.

LESLIE ARMAGER

Funeral services for Leslie (Nook) Armager, retired Mill at 10 a.m. at the Russell and Gooch Memorial Chapel in Mill Valley fire chief, will be Monday Valley.

Armager died at a local hospital Thursday following a long illness.

Services will be under the auspices of Mill Valley Lodge, Free and Accepted Masons.

GERTRUDE KERN

Funeral services for Mrs. Gertrude Kern, 75, wife of retired M/Sgt. Fritz Kern of 22 Maple Avenue, Kentfield, will be held at 1:30 p.m. Monday at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary in San Rafael.

Mrs. Kern died Thursday at a local hospital following a short illness.

Mrs. Kern was born in Germany and had lived in Marin County 20 years. She and her husband celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary last year.

She is also survived by a son, Walter, of Lawton, Oklahoma, and a grandson.

The family prefers contributions to charity.

ENVOY

on reports from Washington and Saigon that Hanoi was pulling forces out of South Vietnam and had virtually halted infiltration into the south.

"On all questions concerning South Vietnam," Xuan Thuy replied, "I must ask you to address yourselves to the Provisional Revolutionary Government of the Republic of South Vietnam."

Mrs. Binh was standing nearby and grinned when newsmen turned to her for an answer.

"The Americans are intensifying their aggression in South Vietnam," she said. "Therefore, our military pressure against them has not ceased and will not cease. Under these conditions our people must continue their struggle until the American aggressors have withdrawn without posing any conditions whatsoever."

When newsmen pressed her to explain why the United States reported a decrease of pressure against its forces, she replied, "This is a subterfuge by Mr. Nixon who on one hand is intensifying the war and on the other tries to give the impression that his tactics are succeeding and are achieving results however small."

Seven Die As Rains Lash Western Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Torrential rains have lashed western Japan for two days and national police reported today seven persons perished and seven were hurt. In addition, seven houses were destroyed, 11 were badly damaged and more than 1,200 were flooded.

It was the second session of killing rains in western Japan. Fifty-nine persons perished there in heavy downpours at the end of June.

Quentin Inmate Reported Missing

Kenneth Magarell, 25, who had less than six months to serve before he was to be paroled, was reported missing today from the outside dormitory at San Quentin Prison.

Magarell entered the prison in December of 1966 following a burglary conviction in San Diego County. He was to be paroled Nov. 17, said James W. L. Park, associate warden.

Magarell was missed when guards made a routine count of prisoners at about 3:15 a.m. at the dormitory, about 100 yards west of the main prison wall.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Dividing Awards In Property

Back in 1849 our government made a peace treaty with Mexico. As part of this treaty, California adopted the Mexican-Spanish community property system under which husband and wife jointly owned property acquired after marriage.

To most settlers this kind of ownership was strange. They had been used to common law ownership, under which the husband had all the rights of ownership and the wife, almost none. As a rule, she could receive some of the property if she outlived her husband.

So our early settlers tried to apply most of the common law ideas to the new communtiy property system.

In the earliest days the husband could manage and control the community property, much as if he owned it.

About 1890, however, the laws started to change. The law would not let a husband give away community property.

A wife could ask, and the courts would set aside, any gifts of community property and return them to the "community." Under later law the husband had to get his wife's consent to sell the family furnishings.

In 1917, the law further said that no husband could sell any community real property without his wife's consent. If he did, she could have a court set aside the transfer any time within a year.

In 1923 the wife got the right to will her one-half share of the community property to anyone she wished.

In 1927 the law gave the wife a "present and existing" interest in the community property. She had one-half before her husband's death.

In 1951 the law gave the wife a right to control and management of her own earnings, although they were community property. The wife could not give away her earnings without the husband's consent, but she could manage them.

Under a 1957 law, any financial awards a wife got in a damage suit for injuries, let's say in an automobile accident, became her own separate property. However, a recent law says a judge may divide the award from a personal injury suit in divorce proceedings.

Note: California lawyers offer this colmun so you may know about our laws.

Italy Socialists Form Own Party

ROME (AP) — Italy's anti-Communist Socialists broke from the party ranks and formed their own party today. Their action threatened Premier Mariano Rumor's coalition government and confronted Italy with its second major political crisis in seven months.

As the new party was being set up under three breakaway Socialists who quit the Rumor Cabinet, Foreign Minister Pietro Nenni talked with the premier, President Giuseppe Saragat, and top Socialist leaders to decide whether he also should quit the government.

Life Sentences For Stathos, Harnal

The state prison sentence received by two men convicted of the kidnaping and armed robbery of Luciano A. Sabella was life, not five years to life as erroneously reported in a headline in Thursday's Independent-Journal.

A possibility of parole after seven years will exist for Daniel Thomas Stathos, 22, of Pacifica and Kenneth Lee Harnal, also 22, of San Francisco. Stathos also was sentenced to five years to life for the armed robbery of the Greenbrae Lanes in October.

Taps Monument Is Dedicated

They gathered yesterday at Berkeley Plantation, where Union Gen. Daniel Butterfield wrote the haunting melody in 1862, and spoke of sacrifice and dedication.

The monument was donated by the Legion and was built on the site where the general's tent stood on the day he wrote the tune that was later adopted by the military.

Two Women Hurt In Waldo Crashes

Two women were treated at Marin General Hospital last night following two separate accidents on Waldo Grade in Sausalito according to the California Highway Patrol.

Christine Smith, 18, of San Francisco, suffered back injuries in a two-car collision in the southbound lanes on Highway 101 at 10:15 p.m.

Marilyn Pierre, 41, also of San Francisco, suffered a cut chin when her car was involved in a three-car collision approximately 5 minutes later, at 10:30 p.m.

Grenade Blast At Police Station

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A military-type concussion grenade exploded on the steps of the Mission Police Station late last night, blowing out a window but causing no injuries.

"The office shook, the lights dimmed — some of us thought it was a bomb," said Sgt. Jasper Starkie, who suggested the explosion was a July 4th practical joke.

The only evidence was pieces of heavy cardboard from the grenade itself.

Starkie said the force of the grenade went straight up, breaking a window above the steps and loosening a light fixture on an overhead awning.

The grenade was identified as a military-issue practice grenade made of cardboard packed around an explosive center.

Because the grenade contains no metal parts, there is little danger of shrapnel injury, Starkie said.

Hanoi Release Still Expected

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — American officials hope that three American prisoners North Vietnam said it would release will be aboard an International Control Commission flight from Hanoi next week.

The regular weekly ICC flight was refused permission to land in Hanoi yesterday and returned to Vientiane, but officials said it would leave again late Tuesday.

Hanoi authorities reported the weather would not permit the plane to land yesterday, although well informed sources said the weather was unsettled but did not appear too bad to permit a landing.

Hanoi Radio, which announced the prisoner release Thursday as a Fourth of July gesture to the American people, did not say when the three would be released or how they would leave the country.

Check Stolen

Camera equipment and a book of blank checks were stolen from the apartment of Fred H. Howey of Sausalito sometime Thursday by a burglar who entered through a sliding glass door, sheriff's deputies reported today. The burglary occurred at the Eden Roc Apartment, 100 Ross Road.

Some New Albums Out Of The Movie Soundtrack And Original Cast Bags

By JOHN SUNIER

"HAIR" — The American Tribal Love-Rock Musical — Original Broadway Cast — Victor LSO-1150:

Broadway's generally low, low state finds happy exception in this theatrical be-in with music by Galt MacDermot and direction by Tom O'Horgan. It is a fresh and fun hippie musical that hits the mark much better than "Your Own Thing" did prior to it.

Some of the fine tunes are already Top-40 hits — "Aquarius," "Good Morning Starshine" and "Let the Sun Shine In," as well as the title tune. This unexpurgated collection of the songs also features some you will never hear on the radio or TV!

Truly one of the best films of the past year, Franco Zeffirelli's treatment of the star-crossed lovers is beautifully preserved in this recording. Some of the spoken dialogue is included to introduce many of the musical sections. The themes are varied, appropriate, and never descend into soundtrack cliches.

The vocal ballad, "What Is a Youth," as sung at the Capulets' party, is a wonderful recreation of music of that period.

It would be an interesting project to compare Rota's music for the various sections of the drama with that of other composers who have been inspired by the story, such as Berlioz and Prokofieff.

GEORGE HARRISON: "Wonderwall Music" — Apple ST-3350:

This is the soundtrack from a film which has not yet appeared in this area as far as I can determine. There is precious little information with the album except for the titles on the LP label.

Harrison is the sitar-playing Beatle and it follows that at least some of the sitar playing on the LP is by himself.

There are some very agreeable sections featuring the sitar against a background of strings, and other very tasteful commercializations of Indian musical ideas. As a matter of fact, the soundtrack was recorded in India. It has many similarities to the "Chappaqua" soundtrack by Ravi Shankar — who was Harrison's sitar teacher.

The sensuously-spinning-out music will appeal to anyone who enjoyed the collaborations of Shankar and Yehudi Menuhin, "East Meets West."

"REVOLUTION" — Original Soundtrack featuring The Quicksilver Messenger Service, Steve Miller Band and Mother Earth — United Artists UAS 5185:

Three top Bay Area rock bands are heard at their best in this music from a so-so hippie film feature. Mother Earth's title tune is very catchy, and the Steve Miller Band shines on "Superbyrd" and "Your Old Lady." There are several rock "samplers" now available, but few of them feature three such major, fine groups in worthwhile performances.

"AVANT SLANT" — A Twelve Tone Collage — The John Benson Brooks Trio — Decca DL 75018:

This is not a musical, nor is it a soundtrack. It is a sort of LP happening which bears much resemblance to McLuhan's "Medium is the Massage" record on Columbia.

Pianists Brooks plays a series of rather blah excerpts of serialized piano music with sax and drums rounding out the trio. These sort of tie together a wild melange of readings, sound effects, commercials, poetry, and other music.

In the poetry department, for example, there are choice words from John Donne, Lawrence Ferlinghetti, LeRoi Jones and Carl Sandburg. This is something to listen to seriously with one's full attention.

Here again is music that seems as though it should belong to a film or something else rather than an entity on its own. However, this is not to belittle it — it is an honest and often rather moving excursion into that no-man's land between serious concert music and outright pop music.

Axelrod is a Hollywood arranger know for his instrumental composition for the Electric Prunes rock group, "Mass in F Minor."

LIGHTHOUSE TIME

The Newport Jazz Festival yesterday at Newport, R.I., drew about 5,000 persons in the afternoon, and one of the performers was Skip Prekep, drummer with The Lighthouse. But yesterday evening more than 23,000 persons crowded the entertainment grounds for a concert of jazz rock.

Truman Watches Parade From Porch

The 85-year-old Truman stood with his hand over his heart each time a color guard passed his white frame Victorian home. He occasionally waved and smiled as political colleagues marched by.

Witnesses Will Attend Big Meeting

Nearly all members of the local group will join thousands of other delegates who are coming from all 50 states and 17 countries, according to Francis Paulson, presiding minister. Local services will be suspended for the next two weeks.

Paulson also reported that 8,000 volunteers in the Los Angeles area have spend thousands of hours searching for rooming accommodations in private homes for the visiting delegates. Other volunteers are staffing information booths to provide conventioneers with travel data, freeway routes and locations of accommodations in relation to the convention site.

Greek gods had monthyly birthdays. Artemis, goddess of the moon and hunt, was honored on the sixth of every month. Moonshape honey cakes lit with tapers were placed on altars in her temples — the first birthday candles.

Youth Critical In Cycle Crash

A Mill Valley youth was reported in critical condition today in the intensive care unit at Marin Genral Hospital following a motorcycle accident on Fort Barry military reservation last night.

John M. Linberg, 20, of 206 Scott Street, Mill Valley, suffered severe head injuries, and cuts and bruises over most of his body, according to a spokesman for the hospital.

According to the military police at the Presidio of San Francisco, Linberg was driving east through the tunnel under Highway 101 at 9:45 p.m. when his motorcycle struck a curb and he was thrown off.

Aussie Students Battle Over War

Ten persons were injured and 30 arrested in Melbourne as more than 3,000 demonstrators battled police for three hours outside the U.S. consulate. The protesters threw stones, smoke bombs and firecrackers.

Students in Sydney burned an American flag outside the U.S. consulate, and 17 were arrested in a skirmish with police. Two hundred protesters sat down in the street and chanted: "Victory for the Viet Cong."

Beautifully renovated 3-bedroom, 2-bath home in excellent location. 4th bedroom could be made of large family room. 3rd bath and sauna bath not completely finished. Dining room is large with built-in broiler. Enormous view deck overlooks north and East Bay. 3-car garage. $54,500. Eves. 435-1590.

FOR THE SAILING BUFF! — TIBURON

Immaculate Paradise Cove home with 20' easement to water, 400' into bay for boat dock. Ideal for the yachting enthusiast. This custom-built home has 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, formal dining room, family room — all designed for gracious living. Sweeping view of Bay. Grounds are completely landscaped and there's a good pool site. $59,950. Eves. 435-1590.

UNIQUE DESIGN — MILL VALLEY

This extraordinary 2,300-sq.-ft. home is supported entirely on Baxter poles — startling and spectacular. All the rooms are unusually large with beamed ceilings. It has a roomy den or family room with circular fireplace opening to one of three spacious decks. There is dining space and a breakfast area, 3 bedrooms and 3 baths, and this splendid home is not yet a year old. Woodsy atmosphere but convenient to town with easy San Francisco commute. $79,500. Eves. 435-1590.

CUSTOM-BUILT — KENTFIELD

Ideal location. Custom-built home of Master Builder gives privacy and seclusion but on the level and walking distance to schools and bus. 3 bedrooms, 3 baths, paneled living room, huge family room, large free-form POOL. $89,500. Eves. 453-5983.

FIT FOR A KING! — KENT WOODLANDS

This is very definitely a luxury home, exhibiting quality and impeccable taste throughout. For the super-executive, it is designed for entertaining on the grand scale. The living room, with cathedral ceiling, is truly magnificent — fully 38 feet long, and this superlative home offers a splendid view to the East Bay and Mount Tamalpais. There is a library for true privacy, and a large formal dining room for elegant dinner parties. Beautifully landscaped, of course. A truly fine offering at $115,000. Eves. 924-4323.

REALLY BEAUTIFUL POOL

POSSIBLE LEASE

Dominican cul-de-sac view home that begs for a lively youthful family. Four bedrooms, one with a private sundeck, overlook the 20'x40' custom pool and the lush hills of Marin. Mature oaks, one shading the largest deck we've seen. The family room with its raised hearth fireplace shares the view with a separate dining room, kitchen and breakfast room. Two family size baths plus a pretty guest lavatory. Formal entry hall and large living room are freshly carpeted over random width oak. The low maintenance landscaping allows full leisure use of the pool. $62,000 from a reluctant owner transferred to Europe. 3-year lease a possibility at $500 mo. Eves. 456-3383.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON PROPOSED FORMATION OF AN IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT WITHIN THE OCEANA MARIN-DILLON BEACH TERRITORY OF NORTH MARIN COUNTY WATER DISTRICT

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Board of Directors of North Marin County Water District will conduct a public hearing on the proposed formation of an improvement district in the Oceana Marin-Dillon Beach territory of North Marin County Water District at 8 o'clock p.m., P.D.T., on Tuesday, July 15, 1969, at the office of the District, 999 Atherton Avenue, Novato, California. Said hearing will be held pursuant to and on the matters stated in Resolution No. 784 of the Board of Directors of said District adopted on July 1, 1969, which resolution reads as follows:

'RESOLUTION NO. 784
RESOLUTION OF INTENTION TO UNDERTAKE A PROJECT IN OCEANA MARIN-DILLON BEACH AREA AND TO FORM AN IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT THEREFOR

BE IT RESOLVED by the Board of Directors of North Marin County Water District as follows:

1. This resolution is adopted to institute the formation of an improvement district within North Marin County Water District in the County of Marin, State of California, pursuant to Chapter 5 of Part 6 of Division 12 of the California Water Code.

2. A description of the boundaries of the imporvement district proposed to be formed is as follows:

A portion of the uninhabited lands in the County of Marin, State of California, which were annexed to North Marin County Water District on April 16, 1969; said portion referred to as "Oceana Marin Unit No. 3 and Oceana Marin Unit No. 4". A legal description and boundary map of said lands are appended hereto and made a part of this resolution.

3. Said improvement district proposed to be formed is hereby given the designation "Improvement District No. OM-1 of North Marin County Water District".

4. A brief general description of the project to be undertaken with in such improvement district is to provide for the operation and maintenance of a sewage treatment plant and spray irrigation disposal system, a force main and pumping stations, and a collection system for the purpose of treating and disposing of the sewage from Oceana Marin Unit No. 3 and Oceana Marin Unit No. 4 as provided for by the sewage disposal facilities agreement between the North Marin County Water District and Bodega Bay Lands, Incorporated and Highway Properties, Incorporated, dated July 1, 1969.

5. This Board hereby finds that the project will be of special benefit to such improvement district.

6. This Board hereby declares its intention to undertake the aforesaid project.

7. This Board hereby estimates the annual cost of the operation and maintenance of the sewage disposal facilities at $3,000 per annum.

8. The method by which the project is proposed to be financed is by the levy of ad valorem taxes upon all the taxable property within the improvement district. The rates of such taxation shall be fixed annually by this Board of Directors in the manner provided in Sections 31702.1 to 31702.4 inclusive of the California Water Code, provided, however, that the maximum amount of such tax which may be levied in any year shall not exceed seventy-five cents (75c) per $100 of assessed value of the taxable property in such improvement district.

9. The Board hereby sets 8:00 P.M., P.D.T., on Tuesday, July 15, 1969, at the District offices, 999 Atherton Avenue, Novato, California, as the time, date and place for a hearing by this Board on the formation of the proposed improvement district, on the boundaries thereof, on the project proposed to be undertaken therein and on the method by which the project is proposed to be financed.

10. The Secretary of this District is hereby directed to give notice of the time and place of the hearing in accordinace with Sections 31597 and 31598 of the California Water Code.'

Any person may appear at the hearing and present any matters material to the subject thereof.

Written protests against the formation of the proposed improvement district, signed and acknowledged or proved in the manner required to entitle deeds to be recorded may be filed at the aforesaid office of the District until 8:00 P.M. on July 15, 1969, and may be filed thereafter at the said hearing at any time prior to the conclusion thereof.

Marine Files For Release

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI)—An Indiana Marine serving 20 years in jail on a conviction of murdering five South Vietnamese civilians has filed a second petition for release.

Lance Cpl. Denzil Allen, 21, of Lebanon, Ind., said in his petition for a writ of habeas corpus from U.S. District Court yesterday, he had exhausted all military avenues of appeal.

He said that in the interval since his first application for release was denied in May, the Military Appeals Board rejected his appeal.

Judge Edward Gignoux denied the first application on grounds that all military remedies had not been tried.

Allen is serving his term at the Naval prison at Portsmouth Navy Base, Portsmouth, N.H.

Potatoes contain a significant amount of vitamin C. Scurvy was common following shortages of potatoes in Ireland in 1847.

Raid Overplayed, Taipei Claims

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist China's commando raid against a Communist Chinese naval base yesterday was an "overplayed" incident and not intended to increase tension in the Formosa Strait, government sources said today.

"There have been many such raids in the past," the sources said. "As you know, they are not always reported."

The sources indicated they were surprised by the prominent play that the raid received in some countries, adding: "The reports seem to have been overplayed."

New Bible

LONDON (UPI)—A modern translation of the Bible is being printed for sale next spring, the Oxford and Cambridge University Press announced today. The publisher's New English Version of the New Testament has sold seven million copies since it was issued in 1961.

☆ Meet the champ ☆

John Taylor of San Rafael

Few boys, anywhere, have a record like this:

- Chosen one of 6 best carriers in state, 1969
- Earned 30 straight I-J achievement awards since he started in 1966
- Now I-J Carrier-of-the-Year, 1968

When you consider that the I-J has 800 newspaperboys you can see that John's achievements were not lightly come by. Month after month since he started carrying the I-J (in 1966) young John has met every test of service and responsibility on the job. He has an "executive" sense of managing each detail on his route: keeping subscribers happy; getting new ones; handling his accounts; keeping his records. Much of his success is due to the I-J newspaperboy training program, but a lot is his own consistent desire to do a good job. MEET THE CHAMP!

People's Pad Plan Being Withdrawn

BERKELEY (UPI) — The People's Pad for youthful summer visitors may follow the People's Park into oblivion before it even sees the first light of day.

The original proponents of the pad have withdrawn their application to convert a vacant housing project into a summer youth hostel and called the whole thing a mistake.

"We didn't talk to the community as we should have," said Berkeley activist Art Goldberg, referring to the objections of neighbors to an influx of hippies. "We didn't explore what their needs were."

Fred Cody, a bookstore owner involved in the proposed project, said there was "no hope of its being worked out in the form submitted. We were honor bound to withdraw our request."

The people who wanted to build the pad were many of the same hippies and students who took over a vacant lot owned by the University of California and turned it into the do-it-yourself People's Park.

The park is now being turned into a parking lot and playing field, the University's original plan for the property, but not before two weeks of violence left one dead, scores injured and hundreds arrested.

Israel Power Lines Damaged

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Saboteurs damaged two towers on an electric power line to the port city of Eilat early today the army announced.

The sabotage apparently was in retaliation for an Israeli commando raid into Egypt's upper Nile June 29. The Israelis claimed knocking out a power line running from the Aswan Dam to Cairo.

The Israelis said their line was cut in the Negev, north of Eilat near the Jordanian border.

RUSHING TO WAIT

The bag may be bulky but the weight is light because the steps, ceremonial and otherwise, after all those months, are finally coming to an end for this American soldier in the 3rd Battalion, 6th Infantry, 9th Division. Scheduled to leave Vietnam shortly as part of troop withdrawal, he is waiting to disembark from a landing craft at Dong Tam Base Camp in Mekon Delta.

Liquor-Sparked Riot Brings Prison Damage

NORCO (AP) It was a rollicking Fourth of July party — with singing, laughing, and plenty of booze.

But the California Rehabilitation Center here doesn't permit its inmates to have liquor—especially the kind they brew themselves from fruit, called "pruno."

Security guards moved into the barracks and confiscated the moonshine.

The 50 to 70 prisoners there grew sullen. One shouted, "It's a holiday, we deserve something special."

Others began ripping up bed sheets, destroying mattresses, and throwing furniture through the windows. Some set small fires.

The violence spread—and soon more than 400 inmates were involved in the brief Friday morning melee, which caused $10,000 damage and left nine prisoners and one staff member slightly injured.

The disturbance was quelled by about 100 guards with tear gas after about an hour and a half.

To prevent any escape, Riverside County sheriff's deputies and California Highway Patrolmen ringed the minimum-security institution, where more than 2,000 drug addicts are undergoing treatment.

Thirty-five of the rioters — identified as ringleaders—were taken to the California Reception Guidance Center in Chino, a maximum-security facility.

Officials said most of the 35 would be transferred to other state narcotics centers, and may have criminal charges filed against them.

Guards were still looking for the still which made the illicit drink, officials said.

Laos Reds Claim U.S. Plane Down

TOKYO (AP) — The Communist Pathet Lao claimed today that it shot down two American F105 jets and a U.S. helicopter when it forced government troops out of the city of Muong Soui June 29.

Hanoi's official Vietnam News Agency said in a broadcast that "hundreds of tons of weapons and war material were destroyed or captured" during the assault, "including many tanks and artillery pieces."

The broadcast said Muong Soi, a strategic city 110 miles north of Vientiane, was one of several bases built up by the United States and its allies "as springboards to launch attacks and smuggle bandits and commandos for daily sabotage" against Pathet Lao-controlled areas.

Second Day Camp Registration

The San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department will hold late registration for the second session of day camp at 8:30 a.m. Monday at Albert Field.

The second session of day camp, held at Deer Park in Fairfax, will run Monday through July 18 for children aged 7 to 12.

Vatican Denies Nixon Report

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A Vatican spokesman denied today reports that diplomatic relations between the United States and the Vatican were discussed when Pope Paul VI met with President Richard M. Nixon's special envoy two days ago.

Nixon's news secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, said the envoy, presidential assistant Peter Flanigan, told the Pope that Nixon had decided against naming a full-time U.S. representative to the Vatican.

But the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Fausto Vallainc, Vatican news spokesman, told newsmen: "Regarding the question of eventual diplomatic relations between the Holy See and the United States, of which the press has been writing in the past few days, it does not result that Mr. Flanigan, special assistant to President Nixon, talked about this with the Holy Father during the audience July 3."

Klansman Jailed In Dixie Fracas

SWAN QUARTER, N.C. (AP) — Seventeen Ku Klux Klansmen were jailed last night after a brief exchange of gunfire with a group of Negroes in Hyde County.

Lt. L. F. Lance of the North Carolina Highway Patrol said gunfire was exchanged during a KKK rally in a building near the small community of Middletown in the coastal county.

Lance said charges were being prepared against the Klansmen.

Lance said one Negro girl was injured slightly during the exchange of shots. The unidentified girl was treated at a hospital in Belhaven and released.

One Klansman was hurt while being arrested by state troopers, Lance said.

Alto-Richardson 5 Pct. Pay Hike

A 5 per cent salary increase for fiscal 1969-70 has been approved for employees of the Alto-Richardson Bay Fire District, according to Chief Carl O. Heynen Jr.

Heynen said the salary hike, approved Thursday night by directors, will cost the district approximately $4,000 in the 1969-70 budget of $135,000.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Outdoor Workers' Skin Ages Faster; Other Changes Told

VAN DELLEN

People whose lives are spent outdoors not only look older than office workers, but they also are more susceptible to skin cancers.

Sunlight has an aging effect, especially when the skin is bombarded by ultraviolet over a long period of time.

Benjamin Franklin, an astute observer, probably was right when he remarked that you cannot tell the age of a group of women if barrels were put over their heads and shoulders.

A GROUP OF dermatologists from Houston proved that the epidermal layers were definitely harmed by daily exposure to old Sol. Damage was noticeable in oldsters but depended more on degree of exposure and extent of natural and artificial protection.

Many tanning faddists do not realize that sun light leads to dry, coarse, leathery skin that is wrinkled and dotted with various pigmented lesions. This is better understood by comparing regions exposed to light with those protected by the clothing.

AGING ALSO ALTERS the functions of the epidermis. The water content decreases and, for no apparent reason, may increase slightly after age 60. Resiliency is greater in the young, but the skin loses its elasticity as the years pass.

There is a decreased output of sweat and the outer layers are consistently drier. Nail growth also decreases.

The oil (sebaceous) glands are controlled by the sex and pituitary glands. Sebaceous glands increase in size during puberty and adolescence. This is partly responsible for the teen-ager's oily skin and acne.

In essence the secretion drops off in women but to a lesser extent in men.

GRAYING OF THE HAIR begins in childhood and continues throughout life. The change is more rapid in males between 30 and 34 and females from 35 to 39. The process is more marked in persons with hypertension and arteriosclerosis.

The cause can be found in the hair follicle where tyrosinase activity slows down and the pigment-producing cells become less and less active. The result is gray hair.

HEBERDEN'S NODES

I. R. writes: One of the joints of my little finger has been swollen and painful for a long time. I would like to know if this is an infection and what can be done about it.

REPLY

I assume that this is a Heberden's node, especially if the swelling involves the joint nearest the nail. The pain subsides within six months, but swelling may persist. Heat is the best remedy. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this disorder.

BURNING NOSE

REPLY

Too much sun, Hungarian goulash, or John Barleycorn. The burning sensation usually is due to dilated capillaries. Burning and itching may be difficult to tell apart. The latter stems from allergy or nervousness.

HIDING PLACES OF DISEASE

A reader writes: Can a person be a diphtheria carrier if his tonsils have been removed?

REPLY

Yes, because the tonsils are not the only organs in which the bacilli hide. The culprits also settle in the adenoids, sinuses, nose, and throat.

FATTYTUM SOR t FATTY TUMORS

D. H. writes: I have one fatty tumor on the back and another on the ankle. Can these be dissolved?

REPLY

No. However, if they are bothersome or in an area subject to irritation, the lesions can be removed surgically.

CONFUSED WHEN ILL

P. N. writes: My wife had a severe sore throat that lasted 14 days. She was given a dozen penicillin injections within four days. During the illness she became confused and saw pictures on the ceiling. Do you think penicillin was responsible for her mental confusion?

REPLY

This is questionable. Infection is a more likely cause. Delirium may stem from toxic products of the bacteria or from a high temperature. Older persons frequently develop psychiatric symptoms when they become ill and inactive.

IODIZED SALT

E. T. writes: Will the use of iodized salt aggravate an overactive thyroid?

REPLY

No. If anything, the chemical may help. Iodine is used in the treatment of hyperthyroidism but it is not recommended for long periods of time. Otherwise, it masks symptoms and delays cure.

AT WIMBLEDON

Laver Wins Crown

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Top-seeded Rod Laver retained the men's singles title with a 6-4, 5-7, 6-4, 6-4 triumph over Australian countryman John Newcombe in the Wimbledon Tennis Championships Saturday.

Laver, the 30-year-old southpaw rated the world's No. 1 player, rallied from a 1-4 deficit in the third set to wear down fellow pro Newcombe, 25, and take his third major tournament title this year.

He won the Australian and French championships before successfully defending his 1968 Wimbledon crown and can duplicate his grand slam of seven years ago with a victory in the U.S. Nationals.

Midway in the third set, however, his Wimbledon title hopes appeared to be dimming. Newcombe, the 1967 titlist, had taken the second set to square the match and broke the champion in the third for a 4-1 lead.

Then Laver took seven games in a row, pulling out the set and taking a 2-0 lead in the fourth. Newcombe battled gamely the rest of the way, but could not keep up with the powerful defender.

Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif. failed in her bid for a fourth consecutive women's singles title yesterday. She lost the final to Ann Jones of England 3-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Mrs. Jones, after trying to win the title for 13 years, became the first Briton to triumph at Wimbledon since Wightman Cup team captain Angela Mortimer won the crown in 1961.

DOUBLE VICTORY

Unlikely Giant Heroes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three unlikely heroes have vaulted the San Francisco Giants back into the thick of the National League's Western Division race, while leaving first-place Atlanta in a precarious position.

Reserve first baseman Bob Burda, light-hitting outfielder Dave Marshall and seldom-used starter Ron Herbel emerged from obscurity to lead the Giants to a 7-6 and 7-3 doubleheader sweep of the Braves yesterday.

Bobby Bonds chipped in with three home runs as the badly crippled Giants pulled to within 4½ games of first place. Atlanta's lead over second-place Los Angeles was trimed to one ta's lead over second-place Los Angeles was trimmed to one game.

TIES GAME

Burda tied the first game with a two-run pinch homer in the ninth inning. He followed with a two-run, game-winning run in the 10th, snapping the Braves' six-game victory streak.

Marshall, who began the day with a .225 average and was hitless in two trips in the first game, cracked a key two-run single to highlight the Giants' five-run, six-inning uprising in the second game.

Herbel, 4-1, who defeated Cincinnati 12-5 last Saturday, went the distance in the nightcap—the first time th bepsetacled right-hander had hurled two complete games in his six-year major league career.

All wasn't cheerful for the Giants, however. Willy McCovey injured his left wrist chasing a foul ball in the opener and Hal Lanier bruised a heel in the nightcap. Both were expected to be out of action at l one day.

LATE SCRATCH

Catcher Jack Hiatt was a late scratch yesterday, being sent to the hospital for bleeding ulcers. Third baseman Bobby Ethridge also was sidelined after splitting an index finger while whipping the ball around the infield Thursday.

"I wasn't going for a homer," admitted Burda. "But my chances were better than Lanier's. The homer was the farthest thing from my mind. With two strikes on me, I just tried to keep from striking out."

JIM MURRAY

He Still Sees Staid England At Wimbledon

LONDON — Listen! You know the L.A. Tennis Club? Bulldoze it.

Forest Hills? Park cars on it. The National Clay Courts? Flood it and iceskate on it.

Get a bag of rocks and throw them at any tennis courts you have ever seen. River Oaks? A dog run.

Wimbledon is to tennis what the Sistine Chapel is to worship, what the Hope Diamond is to jewelry, what Bach is to music. Everything else is Bridgeport. It's not an arena, it's a cathedral.

Think you're a big man in the old home town, do you? Think you're president of Shrapnel Oil with a rug on the floor, two secretaries and your own cable address?

Sell a million dollars worth of insurance last year, did you? Company bought you a new Rolls and you made the cover of Business Week?

only on of your homes, is it?

Look at it this way: Did your father ever wear a crown to dinner? Sober that is?

Maybe they painted your ancestors' pictures. But on stained glass windows?

How Many In Westminister?

How many people in your family are buried in Westminster Abbey? Anybody ever call your Uncle Bertie, "Your Majesty"?

People curtsy to your wife? Anybody trying to arrange a marriage for your daughter with the King of Greece? Anybody play a trumpet when you come down to breakfast?

Maybe your grandfather was a soldier but I'm not talking about the quartermaster corps. The question is, did he lead the troops at Agincourt? Napoleon ever offer a reward for him? Pigeons perched on his statue in Trafalgar Square?

Any of your ancestors make archbishop? People have a fit because you married a commoner?

At Wimbeldon, you'd be lucky if they didn't sic the cops on you. You got to give your regiment, wear your medals and have a page in Burke's Peerage all to yourself or they'll quarantine the chair you sat in. The guy who sold you a ticket will be fired. If your family came from a country where the mean summer temperature rose above 60, he better have been president, or king. At least, prime minister.

Most Exclusive Sports Party

This is the most exclusive party in sports, 29,000 people sitting there in hats a foot high, swallowtail coats, more monocles than the German general staff.

The accents are so stilted, they're incoherent. It's about as emotional as a will-reading.

"Bjore!" murmured one walrus-moustached type with ruddy face at one critical point. "Wad he say?" I asked. "He said good shot!" a companion answered. "Yeah, but in what language?" I asked.

You should be Sir Walter Scott to cover this thing. You should make notes with a quill pen. You feel hopelessly crass writing with anything but a feather. The tapping of a typewriter sounds like a sonic boom. A polite burst of applause is permitted if a player makes a once-in-a-lifetime shot but what is really preferred is a kind of stiff-upper-lip murmuring like a sound of bees in clover. They got so many stiff upper lips over here, they talk only with the bottom half of their mouths you keep looking around for the ventriloquist. I would say there were more cases of constipation per square inch than there is in 10 floors of Bellevue Hospital.

The Tennis Is Only Secondary

The tennis seems secondary. Open tennis has perpetuated the pillage of the game by the Australians who outnumber the world in the final matches, three to one.

A British player hasn't won this thing since the days when airplanes had two wings and ships were wood, but no one seems to mind terribly much.

Who needs to win Wimbledon when he's got a hat at home made out of jewels and "home" is not, repeat not, in the suburbs, but a 200-room, 300-year old pile of marble and stained glass guarded by a bunch of guys in fur hats and swords and dinner is served by guys in knee britches and gold buckles on their shoes? It's well established no gentlemen ever plays a game well enough to win, anyway. Good heavens! Would you want us to be like those awful Americans or any other savages and go about with rings in our noses?

Penn Crew Loses Henley Challenge Cup

HENLEY - ON - THAMES, England (AP) — The Einheit eight-man crew from Dresden, East Germany, defeated the University of Pennsylvania today for the Grand Challenge Cup, premier event in the annual Royal Henley Regatta.

The race was rowed under almost ideal weather conditions.

The East Germans won by three-quarters of a length in 6 minutes, 28 seconds for the 1 mile, 550-yard course. The record time of 6:16 for the race was set by Ratzeburger Rowing Club of West Germany in 1965.

LADIES CUP

The Nereus Rowing Club of Holland won the Ladies Challenge Plate for eights by defeating Trinity College of Hartford, Conn. The winner's time was 6:55.

The Hartford crew was the first American one to reach the final of this event, which was thrown open for the first time in 1967. Nereus won by 1½ lengths.

Washington-Lee High School of Alexandria, Va., led all the way to beat England's Emanuel School and take the Princess Elizabeth cup for schoolboy eights.

The winning margin was two-thirds of a length and the time was 7 minutes flat.

Washington-Lee was half a length in front after the first few strokes and never trailed.

SECOND YEAR

This is the second year in a row that the cup has gone to the United States. Last year Washington-Lee's neighbors, J.E.B. Stuart High School, won. Washington-Lee last won this event in 1964.

"Well, it was tough, as expected," said Joe Burk, Penn's coach, after his team's defeat.

"Maybe three hard races in three days was a bit too much for us. But we are not too disappointed, it was a fine race and this crew is the fastest I ever brought here."

Sharon Walsh Out In National Meet

Sharon Walsh of San Rafael fell by the wayside in girls 18 play of the 22nd annual National Junior Hard Court Tennis Championships at Burlingame yesterday.

Sharon lost to Janet Newberry, 6-3, 6-4, in the quarterfinals but teamed up with Cindy Thomas to down Susan Warfield and Cindy Crosby in the girls 18 doubles, 6-4, 6-3.

Cranston Leads Track Victory

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—His team was running last Friday but then Sen. Alan Cranston came on the scene and put it into a respectable third place.

California's junior senator, 55, is competing in the second annual Masters Track and Field meet for men over 40 this weekend. His team in the 440-relay was losing until Cranston took the baton.

A track man in his days at Stanford, Cranston did the 100-yard dash in 12.4 seconds Thursday, not quite the :9.9 he was clocked at more than 30 years ago.

Girl Jockey Gets Five-Day Suspension

LOS ALAMITOS, Calif. (UPI) —Tomey Jean Wieburg, the first girl jockey to win a race at Los Alamitos, has been suspended at the quarter horse track for five days.

The stewards last night handed her the suspension because of her ride aboard Dickey Bar Joe in the fourth race Thursday. Her mount was disqualified from third place for interference and placed last. The 18-year-old girl, who will begin her suspension next Tuesday night, collected her first win aboard Jo Burress Monday night.

Key Clash In Southern Marin Loop

Some of the confusing dust in the South Marin division of the Joe DiMaggio League will settle tomorrow when the reluctant front-runners knock heads in a 1 p.m. game at Marin Catholic High School.

That's when Toby's Truckers, leading the division with a 5-2 record tangle with the Italian Club, runnersup at 4-2-1. Roger Smith will go for the Italian Club while Bill Kelly will handle pitching chores for the Truckers.

In other games tomorrow the Mill Valley Chiefs, in third by a shade (4-3) meet Holiday Magic at the Presido at 1 p.m. and San Anselmo meets Herb's Pool Service at Drake High School at 1 p.m. and San Anselmo meets Herb's Pool Service at Drake High School at 1 p.m.

Annex Motors, breezing along with a 6-1 record in the North Marin division, takes on Healdsburg at Novato High School at 5:30 p.m.

The Presidio, last in the South, has a bye.

Hunter Doesn't Have It

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP)—"You know it's a mystery," one of the Oakland Athletics was saying. "Jim either has it or he doesn't. He's either perfect or gets tagged."

Jim Hunter, now 5-7, didn't have it yesterday as the Minnesota Twins bombed him for eight hits and seven runs in 3 2-3 innings en route to a 10-4 victory.

The loss cut the A's American League West lead over the Twins to four percentage points.

Chuck Dobson, 9-6, of the A's faced Dick Woodson, 5-3, of the Twins today.

Bob Miller, a former Los Angeles Dodger used mostly in relief, scattered eight Oakland hits, including Rick Monday's seventh homer, a three-run blast in the ninth.

Ted Uhlaender doubled, Tony Oliva doubled and Harmon Killebrew hit his 20th homer.

Rod Carew and Oliva, who along with Uhlaender had three hits each, doubled for another run in the third.

Cardenas led off the fourth with his fifth homer. Two outs later, Hunter was chased by Carew's sixth homer, following Uhlaender's single.

Rich Reese singled in a run off A's reliever Jim Roland in the fourth and the Twins added their ninth and 10th runs in the seventh on doubles by Uhlaender and Carew.

The A's, hit by injuries to shortstop Bert Campaneris, left fielder Mike Hershberger and catcher Larry Haney, called up outfielder Jose Tartabull and put Hershberger on the 21-day disabled list. Campaneris and Haney are expected back next week.

Improved Driving Wins '400'

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Lee Roy Yarbrough says better driving on his part and improved teamwork among his pit crew made the difference between his four major stock car racing victories this year and his string of second place finishes last season.

"I think we've been tying up all the loose ends," Yarbrough said after powering his white and red 1969 Ford through two crashing cars and past runner-up Buddy Baker of Charlotte, N.C., to win the Firecracker 400 stock car race yesterday.

"I think I definitely had the fastest car," the handsome Columbia, S.C., driver said. "This engine runs flawless. It just sings."

"He was a fraction of a second faster than I was," Baker acknowledged. "I was ready to give it an All-American try for the flag, but I just couldn't catch him." Baker drove a 1969 Dodge.

Yarbrough's four wins this year tied the record for the most major speedway wins in a single season. Cale Yarborough, the pole sitter for the Firecracker 400 who had to drop out after the first 50 miles with a broken valve in his 1969 Mercury, set the record last year.

Yarbrough's improved driving came into play at the start of a pileup that eventually involved five cars.

"That wreck happened right in front of me," he said. "I saw two cars come together. I couldn't go around either side. I put on brakes and waited for them to come apart. They did and I went right between them."

Rain-Delayed Buick Open Goes Again

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (UPI) —Front runners R. H. Sikes and Homero Blancas try again today to hang on to their lead in the second round of the rain-delayed $125,000 Buick Open on the 7,001 yard Warwick Hills course.

Both players matched the course record of 65 on the first round to seize a two-stroke lead on the field, and Sikes was even par for the first seven holes of the second round. Then the rains came and almost three hours later, PGA officials canceled play for the day.

It was the fourth time in 12 years that the Buick, often harassed by rain, has had a washout and the fifth time this year that a PGA tournament has been forced into postponement by rain.

The rainout forced officials to order play of the complete second round today and schedule a 36-hole final on Sunday for the players who make the cut, the 70 low scorers and ties. It will be the third tourney this year on the PGA tour on which a 36-hole Sunday finale was necessary.

Bonds Steps Into Mold

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

For the last few years, Bobby Bonds has been touted as the man to replace Willie Mays as the San Francisco Giants' center fielder. He showed why yesterday in a Fourth of July power display.

The 23-year-old outfielder belted three home runs to power San Francisco to 7-6 and 7-3 victories over the Atlanta Braves, the Western Division leaders. He hit his first homer in the third inning of the opener and tied the game with his second in the eighth. Bob Burda, who tied the game at 5-5 with a ninth inning homer, doubled home two runners in the 10th to give the Giants the victory.

In the second game, Bonds connected in the third inning and singled during a five-run sixth inning rally that wiped out a 3-0 Atlanta lead.

Elsewhere, New York swept Pittsburgh, 11-6 and 9-2, Chicago edged St. Louis, 3-1, in 10 innings, Cincinnati beat Los Angeles, 4-1, Montreal swept Philadelphia, 8-5 and 7-3, and Houston shut out San Diego, 4-0.

Al Weis who entered the doubleheader batting .167, lashed five hits and drove in five runs in the Mets' sweep of the Pirates. Weis had a two-run double in the opener to climax a four-run fifth inning and he tripled to climax a five-run first inning in the second game.

Tom Seaver won his 13th game in the opener and Cleon Jones, 4-for-10 in the doubleheader, recaptured the NL batting lead from Matty Alou.

Billy Williams doubled in one run and scored another on Ron Santo's single as the Cubs scored twice in the 10th inning off Bob Gibson to beat the Cardinals. Don Kessinger, who tripled in the third and scored the Cubs' first run on Glenn Beckert's sacrifice fly, singled leading off the 10th and stole second. Beckert beat out an infield hit and Williams doubled to score Kessinger.

Ferguson Jenkins allowed seven hits in recording his 11th victory.

Little-used Pat Corrales broke a 1-1 tie with a two-run double in the fourth inning as the Reds went on to beat the Dodgers. Tony Perez singled and Lee May doubled before Corrales collected the first of his two doubles. Bob Tolan also had two doubles and drove in a run.

Rookie Jerry Robertson hurled a six-hitter for his first major league complete game and also drove in a run as the Expos snapped the Phils' nine-game winning streak in the opener.

Bob Bailey and Coco Oaboy each drove in two runs during a four-run eighth inning rally in the nightcap which gave the Expos a sweep of the doubleheader.

Larry Hisle drove in three runs with his 11th and 12th homers of the season in the opener for Philadelphia.

Larry Dierker won his 11th game in 16 decisions as he held San Diego to seven hits. Doug Rader drove in two runs with a fifth inning double and scored on a sacrifice fly as the Padres lost their sixth straight game.

SIX-LEGGED RUN — Looking like a six-legged creature, the Chicago Cubs' Don Kessinger beats out a throw to first in the seventh inning against the Cardinals in St. Louis. First baseman Joe Torre (9) is pulled off the bag.

Spirits May Be Outlawed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—City fathers here may outlaw certain expressions of spirit at professional sporting events. That is, the kind fans bring in brown paper bags and turn to when the home team has caved in before their eyes.

If a law drafted by the city attorney's office is adopted by the Board of Supervisors, fans will be prohibited from bringing their own alcholic beverages into Kezar Stadium, home of the football 49ers, and Candlestick Park, playground of the baseball Giants.

The proposal was requested by the Recreation and Park Commission, whose spokesman said nearly every other major stadium and ballpark in the country had such a law.

Specifically, the plan would outlaw fans from bringing any "malt, spiritous or vinous liquor containing more than one per cent alcohol by volume" into the arenas.

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (UPI)—The 25th Transpacific Yacht Race from Los Angeles Harbor to Diamond Head in Hawaii is under way.

Seventy-two sleek sailing craft left Friday on the first leg of the 2,250-mile event.

Jackson Eyes Twin Sluggers

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Reggie Jackson watched quietly as the Minnesota Twins slugged their way into a first-place tie with the Oakland Athletics in the Western Division.

The Athletics' muscleman, who has slammed 33 homers and is far ahead of the record pace of Babe Ruth and Roger Maris, was limited to a double yesterday by Bob Miller as the Twins clobbered Oakland, 10-4, behind home runs by Harmon Killebrew, Leo Cardenas and Rod Carew. The victory moved Minnesota .004 percentage points behind division-leading Oakland.

In other American League action Detroit defeated Baltimore, 4-1, in a game halted after 4½ innings because of rain, Washington downed Boston, 5-1, before dropping the nightcap, 7-4, New York edged Cleveland, 5-4, before the Indians rebounded, 4-1, Kansas City swept Seattle, 13-2 and 3-2, and California downed Chicago, 7-3, before losing the second game, 3-1.

Norm Cash's three-run homer in the first inning was the key blow in the Tigers rained-shortened victory over the Orioles. Mickey Lolich chalked up his 11th victory against a single loss as he allowed only a solo homer to Frank Robinson in the fifth inning. The game was held up twice, for 68 and 34 minutes.

Ken McMullen batted in three runs and Frank Howard blasted his 28th homer as the Senators topped Boston in the opener but Carl Yastrzemski's two-run homer in the first inning and a three-run double by Tony Conigliaro in the seventh inning rallied the Red Sox in the nightcap. Reggie Smith and Brant Alyea also homered in the second game.

Gene Michael and Bobby Murcer helped Fritz Peterson to his ninth victory as they each drove in two runs in the Yankees' first game triumph over the Indians.

But a two-run homer by Ken Harrelson off the left field foul pole and a two-run double by Tony Horton enabled Cleveland to gain a split of the doubleheader. Juan Pizarro pitched a five-hitter in the second game.

Bob Oliver led the Royals to a sweep over the Pilots by belting the first grand slam of his major league career in the opener and singling home a run in the nightcap. Oliver's slam capped a five-run eighth inning after the Royals had scored six times in the seventh. Roger Nelson pitched a four-hitter in the first game.

Local Drivers Star In Packed Cycle Benefit

Marin County Motorcycle Association's annual Guide Dogs for the Blind benefit Moto-Cross drew some 300 entrants yesterday from as far away as Reno, Eureka, and Los Angeles.

Local riders held their own, however, with Brad Larry, San Rafael motorcycle mechanic, taking first overall in the 250 open amateur-expert event on his American Eagle and then going on to third overall in the 250cc amateur on a Suzuki.

Edmondson Blazed Trail Through Redwood Empire

IN THE FINAL YEARS OF his long service as general manager of the Redwood Empire Assn., Clyde Edmondson would have been a poor bet to win any kind of a popularity contest among the people with whom he worked.

At times he was, as they say, very controversial.

"The man who has no enemies cannot have worked to accomplish much of anything," Abraham Lincoln is said to have observed.

So it was with Clyde Edmondson who devoted every ounce of strength and energy to working for what he believed to be the best interests of all the people in all of the nine counties—including Marin — embraced by the Redwood Empire.

TODAY, THE REDWOOD EMPIRE of northern coastal California (and the portion that spills over into Josephine County, Oregon) is known world-wide as one of this earth's greatest concentrations of natural beauty. It includes unbelievably beautiful beaches, unsurpassed rivers and lakes, and millions of acres of giant redwood trees, the oldest and tallest of all living things.

Half a century ago, the world was unaware of these great attractions.

Had the world been aware, it would have made little difference; it all was largely inaccessible.

There was no Redwood Highway. The first overland trip from Marin through the coastal counties to the Oregon border had been made, but it was a rugged pioneering expedition.

MEN OF VISION AND imagination, like Clyde Edmondson dreamed of a day when a man with an automobile could take his family and drive the length of this scenic area, with ease.

They foresaw the importance of the motor truck as successor to freight train and cargo ship in supplying the needs of communities along this coastal strip.

Nearly 50 years ago, these visionaries formed the Redwood Highway Assn. Young Clyde Edmondson, barely old enough to vote and with a full head of curly red hair, was probably the most visionary and most impatient of that organization's board of directors.

Their efforts during the first decade produced powerful little highway and mostly monumental frustrations.

IN 1930 THEY ORGANIZED on a broader base, calling themselves Redwood Empire Assn., and prepared to move forward on a wider front, with young, energetic and aggressive Clyde Edmondson as general manager.

Today's Redwood Highway which enables the man with a family to drive easily to any of the hundreds of vacation attractions in the nine counties is a monument to the energy and effort that went into those many decades of developmental work.

CLYDE EDMONDSON DIED in San Francisco this week. He was old, tired, worn-out and the tiny fringe of hair bordering his bald pate had long since grown nearly white.

Friends who knew him intimately say it was his wish that whatever estate he might leave would go toward the preservation of more redwood trees for public enjoyment, alongside the Redwood Highway.

CLYDE EDMONDSON HAD A REPUTATION for being tough and uncompromising. So he was.

But he also had a soft side which almost none of those associated with him ever had occasion to know.

HE NEVER, NEVER, NEVER spoke personally of his own great tragedy—the loss of his wife and newborn son more than four decades ago. For many of those decades, his late wife's effects were maintained in the room where she left them, just as she left them.

It was obvious to those who knew his secret that he had plunged himself into his work, driven himself without respite as to leave no time to brood over his own great tragedy.

At the same time, in a strangely old-fashioned, formalized way, he always conveyed his concern for the wives and families of those with whom he worked.

IN 1960, AFTER HE HAD served the Redwood Empire for nearly four decades, he felt himself "running out of gas." He did what he thought best for the area he loved. He quit to make way for someone younger and more energetic, more equal to the task yet to be performed. They called it retirement.

In "retirement" he never missed a Redwood Empire Assn. meeting; he never failed to speak out on matters of concern to him.

He "kept in touch" almost daily with his successor as Redwood Empire Assn. general manager.

IT COULD BE SAID THAT the world-wide recognition of Redwood Empire scenic attractions and the Redwood Highway itself stand as monuments to Clyde Edmondson's life and work.

Those who knew Clyde Edmondson best are sure he would prefer to think of every moment of human enjoyment of a redwood tree or a Redwood Empire beach or river or trail or blossom or view as the monument he worked to provide.

—Jack Craemer

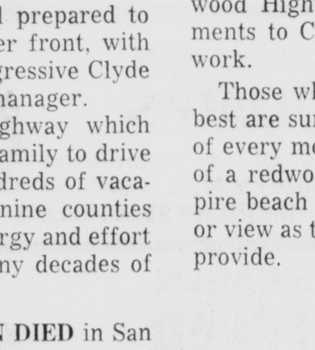
AN AGENT CALLED a night club impresario to enthuse, "I'm sending over a new singer you simply gotta audition. He's another Frank Sinatra." "What's his name?" inquired the impresario. "That's it," said the agent. "Another Frank Sinatra."



A murderer in Taipei was about to pay the penalty and grumbled to his guard that his last meal was not the traditional sumptuous one. "You're the only poor fish being hung tomorrow morning," apologized the guard. "When they are two or more, we add egg rolls and barbecued ribs."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Are Feds Immune To Planning Rules?

The account of the controversy at Inverness over a proposed Coast Guard barracks and apartment project omitted a most important consideration — the proposed density of the project is about three times that permitted under the West Marin Master Plan.

The Coast Guard, a federal agency, thus negates and ignores the federally financed plan that was to protect the Point Reyes National Seashore from overcrowding.

The Coast Guard proposes to put 81 dwelling units — 180 people — on 23 acres, of which eight are to be used for spraying their treated sewage effluent.

A private developer could not have done as the Coast Guard has done — prepared this project in secret, keeping both the National Park Service and the Marin County Planning Department in ignorance of its plans. The first news that Mr. Zucker received of the plan came from myself, who had received it by word of mouth, although I am downstream of the project and am vitally affected.

A private developer would have had to go through planning, health, and public works staff, conforming to the California subdivision acts; would have had to have several publicly noticed hearings before the Planning Commission and Board of Supervisors. Of course, his approval would have a set of mandatory conditions.

Most important, a private developer could not have received the award of density of 3.5 dwelling units per acre on this type of land. The general average density for the West Marin Plan area, 1.15 units per acre, represented an excessive award to the importunate land owners, and is not by any means appropriate as a norm, yet it is to be exceeded threefold by the feds, calmly immune to planning standards that another federal department is trying to encourage!

Unilateral Pullout Is Irresponsible

Your editorial of June 25, "Action, Not Tokenism, Needed in Vietnam," gives the erroneous impression that the only U.S. troops presently scheduled to be withdrawn are "25,000 medical and supply troops." To cite an authoritative source (I-J June 23 and 24), three battalions of the 9th Infantry Division as well as 5,200 Army and Navy personnel patrolling the Mekong Delta are among those units being returned. One Marine regimental landing team is also being called back.

North Vietnam, on the other hand, can hardly be accused of tokenism as it continues to occupy portions of neutral Laos and Cambodia, to carry on offensive operations in South Vietnam, and to fire rockets at Saigon and other cities.

Certain other words besides tokenism are more appropriate in the present situation. We expect Communist delegates to bargain for peace in Paris, yet we have nothing to bargain with — we occupy no section of North Vietnam, have ended bombing of the North, and have begun unilateral withdrawals. The words for this are wishful thinking.

Clark Clifford and Cyrus Vance (now that they are no longer responsible for Defense Department policies), Senator Fulbright, and others propose wholesale unilaterial withdrawals and a unilateral cease-fire while at the same time professing to oppose the communization of Southeast Asia which such policies might well bring about. The word for this is irresponsibility.

LINES ON LIVING

It Is Never Too Late To Create Joy In Life

By RABBI HAIM KEMELMAN

For those tossed in a boisterous sea of troubles, there is apparently little room for optimism and good cheer. They may reject out of hand the precept of "Enjoy yourself," with an inverted pessimism of resignation: "It's later than you think."

It's too late, some will say. There is too little in their own life to cheer them. They are spending all their time and overtime to deal with the heartaches and hard pressing problems of the day. How can you find time for joy in life when there is so little in your life that you really like?

CREATE IT! Every person is still master of his own soul. And what he is alone, in himself and by himself, what no one else can give him or take away from him — is still the most precious element in one's destiny. No one will deny that physical poverty, agonizing loneliness and shattering disease can make life miserable and joyless. But morbid self-absorption is of little help. On the contrary, it will accentuate the problem at hand by making it a festering and spreading sore.

There is really very little choice for us. We can focus our attention and our life energies on ourselves by filling our minds with mirrors reflecting only our own little world of petty ambitions and fleeting pleasures; or we can merge ourselves with the mainstream of life by opening up our minds with windows that will extend into the great world of outgoing joy and enduring involvement.

A MATURE person is one who has learned to break out of himself — not away from himself — in order to bring a greater measure of meaning and richness into his individual life; who has mastered the art of integrating his personality by finding those satisfactions and joys in himself and in his work that will bring enjoyment and service to others; who can come to think of others before he considers his own comfort and pleasure. A mature person, in a word, is a self-extended individual.

People who are self-centered and self-obsessed always live in a glaring world of the blinding mirrors of their own dazzling self-indulgence and super-sensitivity. They are imprisoned to an awkward and self-conscious existence by "taking their own pulse," imagining exaggerated problems, hurts and humiliation. The mental hypochondriac who can't get off his own hands imagines the whole world to focus on him, against him. He sees insult where there isn't; malice where there is none.

He is in the way of himself, blocked in the dead-end of his own deadweight. So vain is he in his egocentricity that he causes his personality to be arrested in development, always to remain an immature infantile wrapped up in a bundle of his own sensations and clamoring needs.

AT ALL TIMES and circumstances, in our happy moods as well as in our anguished moments, we can find relief by releasing ourselves from the narrow world of our "mirror mind" which can turn into a torture chamber of mental anguish for us. "Anxiety," one psychiatrist remarked, has the same root as the Latin word "angina," which means narrowness, a narrow pass. The egocentric, being hemmed in by some neurotic narrowness of personality and outlook, finds himself hopelessly caught in a squeeze of his own making until he can hear Balaam's proverbial ass speaking for his better self in chastisement: "What have I done unto thee that you have struck me these three times?"

Men and women who feel inadequate, unfulfilled and troubled by some weakness, handicap or unsmiling fortune, can always find some compensating interests and stimulation outside themselves that will bring them a measure of joy and warmth in life. Instead of treading their own narrow path of crushing pressure and repeated remorse of resounding regret: "What have I done . . . ?" they might better face the greater arena of a world larger than themselves and by affirming it, find enough love and grace, laughter and joy to make living challenging and worthwhile.

Congress Steers Clear Of Sex Education Issue

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Some members of the House and Senate are being fervently urged to act, but it looks as if Congress will steer carefully clear of the burgeoning public controversy over sex education in schools.

The door is open for action. Rep. Henry C. Schadeberg, R-Wis., has introduced a bill on the subject. The bill would forbid federal assistance for teaching, teacher training or research in public school programs of sex education.

Senators and congressmen are well aware of the noisy controversy. Mail is quite heavy in some congressional offices, and a couple of Washington's bedroom suburbs, where congressmen raise their own children, are already involved in sex education battles.

There has been some talk of public hearings on Schadeberg's bill. For the present, however, it seems unlikely that Congress will provide a national forum for the violent protests which are being loudly pressed in many localities across the nation.

FOR ONE thing, congressional leaders are suspicious of the right wing origins of much of the mail which demands an end to sex education courses. They are convinced that such organizations as the John Birch Society and the Christian Crusade have inspired many of the protests.

In that regard, House and Senate education experts, who have guided federal education programs through racial and religious mazes, are not anxious to involve them in a sex education battle with right wing overtones. They are quite willing to leave that to the local agencies which run the public schools.

Finally, knowledgeable lawmakers, aware that many school systems have long conducted a sort of sex education in the guise of "health" and "hygiene," believe the question is not whether to have a sex education program but what kind of program to have.

MANY OF the complaints reaching congressional offices are aimed at the independent, non-government Sex Information and Education Council of the United States, a clearing house which, under the acronym SIECUS, has become a full fledged villain of the ultra-right. The group is headed by Dr. Mary S. Calderone, a long-time birth-control crusader.

SIECUS, a non-profit organization, does not control programs but seeks to promote local sex education campaigns through speeches, publications and films. The programs which it fosters, sometimes under the heading "Sensitivity Training" or "Family Life Education," are designed to eliminate sexual fears among young people and promote a normal healthy sexuality.

Courses fostered by SIECUS usually involve the force-feeding of very explicit biological and sociological information from kindergarten through high school. That is where the criticism comes in, and some of it is not from the John Birch Society or its supporters.

"These people are sinking their own ship," says Dr. Gerald Sandson of the National Institute of Mental Health, who feels that misdirected SIECUS promotions are alienating parents and provoking local and state legislation which could hamper useful school programs.

HE IS CONCERNED that the teachers who wind up using the volatile materials promoted by SIECUS will not be professionally or psychologically suited to that difficult teaching chore.

Similar views have been expressed by New Yrok City child psychologist Rhoda L. Lorand. She is the author of a book, "Love, Sex and the Teen-Ager," which has been well received by child guidance experts.

Friends here say Dr. Lorand's book was warmly praised by Dr. Calderone when it first appeared, as a contribution to the child rearing cause. Since Dr. Lorand blasted SIECUS, they say, her book has been ignored by the organization in its promotional efforts.

ART BUCHWALD

Don't Feel Smug With MIRV; They Can Counter With IVAN

WASHINGTON — I know he doesn't mean to do it intentionally, but every time Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird opens his mouth.

We're told that if we don't build an ABM system to protect our Minutemen, the Soviets will be able to wipe them out with their MRVs (multiple re-entry vehicles), which they have developed as a first-strike weapons capability in answer to out MIRV — a multiple independently guided re-entry vehicle. Our MIRV carries clusters of nuclear warheads as compared to the old-fashioned nuclear missiles, which could only be shot off one at a time.

YOU WOULD think that MIRV would be the ultimate doomsday weapon in our arsenal, but this is not the case.

I have a friend at the Pentagon who said:

"What is IRVING?"

"IRVING is the intercontinental re-entry vehicle injector nuclear group. It not only has clusters of missiles, but each cluster reproduces a new generation of missiles while in flight."

"MY GOD," I said, "that should certainly give us more than parity with the Soviets."

"It would, except that we know they're working on IVAN."

"What is IVAN?"

"An independent vehicle anti-IRVING Nike, which has clusters of hydrogen warheads set in nitrogen bombs, which can explode within 200 miles of an IRVING."

"I'm sure we've got an answer to it."

"We have it in BERNIE."

"BERNIE?"

"BERNIE stands for ballistic engineered re-entry nuclear evaporator. It has 10,000 rockets which, when ignited by a cluster of IRVINGS, can hit every major capital in the world."

"Good for BERNIE," I said. "I'm sure the Russians wouldn't start anything once they knew we had BERNIE."

"They know it, and we know that by 1987 their answer to it will be MISHA. As you know, MISHA stands for multiple intercontinental supersonic atomizer. It is fired down instead of up, and when it hits the earth's core it explodes and blows up the entire world."

"THEN THEY have the doomsday machine?"

"They will have unless we immediately start work on MORTY."

"I know it stands for multiple something," I said.

"Wrong. It stands for megaton oscillating re-entry thick yield. You fire this weapon through a hidden garbage disposal unit and in 20 seconds it produces a mushroom cloud, not only around the earth but over the entire universe."

"Oh," I cried, "if we can only develop MORTY in time."

"Even if we did," my friend said sadly, "we'd still have to go on. You see, while we're talking, the Soviets are doing their preliminary work on SASCHA. Would you like to know about SASCHA?"

"Could it wait until tomorrow?"

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

'Starving In Midst Of Plenty' Is Fate Of This Working Girl

DEAR HELEN:

I'm single, have a good job, a plush apartment, a wonderful boy friend. We've known each other for 10 years. He has a very successful business, has completed his military service—nothing stands in the way of his marriage: Except that he likes his life the way it is.

He is kind, considerate, attentive — when we're alone, but at other times he barely speaks. We were childhood friends, and when we started dating, he pressured me for "a meaningful relationship." I put up all the old arguments against today's new morality — about waiting for marriage, guilt feelings, the whole route. But after a year of constant bickering, he won. I was tired of all the arguments, the shattered nerves, and I decided waiting wasn't worth it. You see, I love him very much. I couldn't bear to lose him.

Jim has never said he loves me or offered hopes for a future together. He abhors planning ahead, though he comes over steadily, we go out, come back to my apartment, go to bed. Then he leaves, and I'm left again, with only my dreams of happiness and my reality of loneliness.

Helen, all I want is to please him, to be with him always, as his wife. I know all Jim needs is to realize how much he really needs me, but how can I make him see that? — EX-BELIEVER IN THE NEW MORALITY.

DEAR EX:

Jim won't realize how much he needs you until he stops having you — and perhaps not even then.

Tell him you're tired of being "always a bed-mate, never a bride," and your apartment is off limits to anyone who doesn't have a ring in his voice . . . wedding ring, that is.

Then look for a man who doesn't take you for granted, among other things.—H.

Parents' Anniversary Is Daughter's Day Too

Married on her parents' 27th wedding anniversary was Jeanette M. Gilbert of Larkspur who was wed to Peter Biegh on Saturday, June 28. The ceremony was performed at Stewart Chapel in San Anselmo. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley J. Gilbert of Larkspur and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Beigh of Deerfield Park, Ill., and were present.

Gail Egan of Greenbrae was maid of honor for Jeanette and the bride's three sisters were among her bridesmaids. They were Mrs. Erik Andersson of San Mateo, Mrs. Martin Langsam of Sausalito and Valerie Gilbert of Larkspur. Brenda Sloan of Chicago was a bridesmaid also.

Attending the bridegroom were Jack Riesche of Deerfield Park, Ill., as best man and ushers Michael Rockwood and George Knackstedt of Schiller Park, Ill., Martin Langsam of Sausalito and Erik Andersson of San Mateo.

A reception at Peacock Gap Country Club preceded a wedding trip to Hawaii. The new Mr. and Mrs. Beigh will live in San Francisco.

Jeanette was graduated from Redwood High School and Bay City College. She is employed as a United Airlines stewardess in Chicago. Her grandmother, Mrs. J. Leo Wright of Newark, N.J., was among the wedding guests.

Peter is a graduate of Deerfield High School and attended the University of Wisconsin prior to employment with Northwest Orient Airlines in Chicago. His brothers and sisters, Annette., Eilene, Phillip and Mark, came for the wdding.

Others coming to Marin for the nuptial and anniversity celebrations were Mr. and Mrs. Prime Wright who returned from four and one-half years in Vietnam to be present, Mrs. John Edward Gill of Stanford, Conn., Marguerite Clare of Darien, Conn. and V. Zimmerman of Newark, N.J.

Tan—Don't Burn

To get that tan without suffering through a painful sunburn this summer, medical authorities suggest you begin your first day with about 15 to 20 minutes of exposure each on your face and back and then extend the period in the sun each day. Increase exposure by one third the second day, another third the third day, and so on. Remember that painful burns can be caused by wind as well as sun, and that even on a cloudy day it is possible to get a severe burn.

Peace Corps Duo Marry And Couple Notes Fifty Years

CHATTING WITH Sengalese friends after their wedding in Dakar, Senegal, West Africa are Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Donaldson. She is the former Patricia Browning of Mill Valley and the couple will soon visit in Marin with her parents. They have served with the Peace Corps in Senegal the past two years.

By MOLLY MARIN

After their marriage in Dakar, Senegal, West Africa the Douglas Clyde Donaldsons are on their way across the United States to visit Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Forest Browning of Mill Valley, parents of the bride, who is the former Patricia Thomas Browning.

The couple, who have been Peace Corps volunteers the past two years in Senegal, were married in a French civil ceremony, with Fred Davis of New York, a Peace Corps volunteer, and Mamadou N'Diaye, director of the school for girls in Foundiougne, Senegal, as the witnesses. A large reception followed at Peace Corps headquarters in Dakar, attended by the American Ambassador, Peace Corps friends and Senegalese friends of the couple. The villagers of N'diedieng honored the bridegroom with a farewell dance the last night of his stay. Douglas had been in charge of community development for the village under the Sengalese ministry of Rurale Animation, and Patricia was director of the social center at Foundiougne, where she taught kindergarten, child care, health and nutrition and she also taught art at the school for girls.

After a wedding trip through the Canary Islands, Rome, Paris and London the couple are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Donaldson of Hopkins, Minn., and plan to arrive in Marin the first part of August. Douglas will then enter Hastings College of the Law and the bride will continue graduate work at the University of California school of education.

A GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY celebration, hosted by their children, honored Mr. and Mrs. Erich Burkhardt of San Rafael Thursday evening. A reception and banquet at the Franciscan room of the Holiday Inn was attended by 33 family members and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Burkhardt came to the United States from Germany in 1949 and made their home in New Brownsville, Tex. In 1965 they moved to San Rafael. Erich Burkhardt retired from his post as a mechanical engineer in 1959 and Meta Burkhardt has been active with the practical nurses group in Marin County.

The Burkhardt family includes their son J. E. Burkhardt, his wife and four daughters of Terra Linda; and Mrs. Ursula Mohler, her husband, two sons and a daughter of Washington, D.C. giving the elder Burkhardts seven grandchildren. J. E. Burkhardt is a real estate executive dealing in special properties and Mrs. Mohler was a research scientist prior to her marriage. Mr. Mohler is the chief medical officer for the FAA in the nation's capitol.

Old Church Is Setting For Nuptials

Old St. Hilary's Landmark in Tiburon was the locale of the wedding of Elaine Lyons and William K. Halnan yesterday. The Episcopal ceremony was the first marriage service performed at the former Roman Catholic Church since 1954. The old church, replaced by the present St. Hilary's Church for Tiburon Peninsula parishioners, was purchased by the Belvedere-Tiburon Landmarks Society in 1959.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. Harold M. Lyons of Ross and Mrs. Wilson Lyons of Winton. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Watson Lyons of Diamond Bar, and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Asmussen of Atwater. Her sister, Jennie Lyons, lives in Granada, Spain.

William is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Halnan of Oakland.

Suzanne Lyons of San Francisco was maid of honor for her sister. Jane Halnan, of Oakland, the bridegroom's sister, was the bridesmaid.

Best man was Gary Gebhard of Oakland. Malcolm Dunlap of Rohnert Park, Robert Strom of San Francisco, and Charles Newcomb of La Jolla, escorted wedding guests to their places. The reception was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Watkin in Kent Woodlands.

Elaine attended Sir Francis Drake High School and was graduated from Redwood High School. She is a graduate of Willamette University in Salem, Ore., and is employed as a secretary to Henry S. Dakin in San Francisco.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Fremont High School in Oakland and of the University of California. An engineering graduate, he is employed at Airco Temescal in Berkeley.

After a wedding trip to Southern California, the newlyweds will live in San Francisco.

MR. AND MRS. CRAIG D. ELDRED were married at a small family wedding held at the Belvedere home of the bridegroom's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Roy E. Eldred on June 27. The bride is the former Diana Flynn of Plymouth, Mass.

Hem Markers Are A Boon

DEAR MRS. FARMER,

When I make my daughter's clothes, I measure the hem so carefully and when the dress is finished, the hem is exactly the same width all around. My problem is that when she puts the dress on it seems to be much shorter in the back. Should I cut the back slightly longer when I cut the dress out?

MRS. J.K.E.

DEAR MRS. J.K.E.:

The only accurate method of making a hem even when the garment is worn is to actually mark the hem while it is on with a hem marker. If you have someone to mark your hem for you, the markers that have an attachment that permits pinning the correct length are the greatest. However if you must take your own skirt length, you will have to use the kind that sprays white chalk at the correct spot. By using a hem marker, your hem will always be the same distance from the floor. You can always change the width of the hem itself if it isn't exactly even.

MRS. G. H. CREECY JR., Portsmouth, Va., is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her suggestion:

"New idea for nylon net! Wanting to finish a dress and finding myself out of either woven or non-woven interfacing, I came across some nylon net and decided to give it a try. I used a single layer in my collar and found it does a beautiful job, perhaps better than the woven kind. It launders better and doesn't lose its stiffness and is much less expensive. I have used a double layer where I needed more body and it, too, works beautifully."

DEAR EUNICE,

I just finished making a dress out of a sheer knit fabric. I wore it a few times and discovered that the machine stitching where I top stitched the zipper has caused the fabric to tear. How can I keep this from happening again? — MRS. R. B. T.

DEAR MRS. R.B.T.:

The only explanation I have is that perhaps you had a blunt needle in your sewing machine. Since the fabric is a sheer knit, it is possible that it could have cut the fabric.

Most women only replace a sewing machine needle when the one they are using breaks. Actually, you should replace needles with almost every garment. Since most machine stitching is over pins, the machine needles become blunt much quicker.

When you replace the zipper, you might use one of the new invisible zippers that are available. If you still prefer the lapped closing, try handpicking the zipper instead of machine stitching. Keep the stitches fairly loose so that they will have the same elasticity that your fabric has.

DEAR EUNICE,

I would love to make a fur muff for my daughter out of the fabulous fake furs but can't find a pattern for one. Have you any suggestions?

MRS. R.S.G.

DEAR MRS. R.S.G.:

Sorry, but I don't have a pattern available for fur muffs either, but your question is certainly opportune. If any of our readers know how to make a fur muff or know where a pattern can be purchased, please write to me, Eunice Farmer in care of the Independent-Journal, so that I may pass this information on.

Olive-Cheese Hors D'Oeuvres

Quick olive-cheese hors d'oeuvre may be served immediately or stored in the freezer.

Combine 1½ cups of biscuit mix with ½ cups each of grated sharp cheddar cheese and dairy sour cream. Mix well and knead on lightly floured surface 10 times. Shape dough into balls around 15 large pimiento-stuffed olives. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Bake in preheated 450-degree oven 7 to 10 minutes, or until browned.

Mrs. Losee Is Elected

Social Service Auxiliary of Marin members have elected a new president, Mrs. William H. Losee Jr. of San Rafael. A five-year-member of the organization, Myra Losee has previously served as first vice president.

Auxiliary plans for the year include the annual Candlelight Ball and Christmas tea. Members also operate the This 'N That Boutique in San Rafael.

A former school teacher, Mrs. Losee is a graduate of Fresno State College. She has lived in Marin for 11 years. Her husband is regional manager of the San Francisco division of Avis Truck.

MRS. WILLIAM LOSEE JR.

She is also a member of the Marin Chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma Alumnae, Confraternity of Christian Doctrine and Little League.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

East Uses Deceptive Diamond Play To Steal Away A Victory

If you get too close to the nest of a certain bird, she will pretend to fall to the ground with a broken wing and will try to lure you away from her nestlings. You might practice that broken-wing routine for use at the bridge table. Any diversion is worth a try if you see that declarer is sure to make his contract by normal play.

SPADE LEAD

West opened the jack of spades, and declarer won with the ace. He returned the ten of diamonds for a finesse, and East won with the ace.

South was very pleased, for a time. He won the spade return with dummy's king, got to his hand with a heart and led the nine of diamonds to repeat his "proven" finesse.

This time East produced the queen of diamonds, to South's dismay. The rest of the spades then defeated the contract.

East timed his deceptive play of the ace of diamonds very cleverly. If he had won the first diamond trick with the queen he would have pushed declarer into the winning line of play.

NORMAL PLAY

Imagine that you are South and that you lose the first diamond trick to the queen. Now your remaining spade stopper is removed, and you must make your contract or not at all. What would you do?

Naturally you would lead a club from dummy and try a finesse with the queen. You would hope to win all five club tricks, which is possible if East has the doubleton king. This line of play would work, and you would make your contract.

DEFEATS HAND

East could see that his king of clubs was just where a finesse could pick it up. Instead of folding his arms and accepting loss of the rubber, East produced the deceptive diamond play to steer declarer away from the winning line of play.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner deals and bids one club, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ Q 8 7 3
♦ A Q 4

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade.

Most experts consider the anemic four-card heart suit too weak for a bid, but some will bid any four-card suit in this position. Unless partner insists on spades, you will make your next bid in notrump.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, July 5, the 186th day of 1969 with 179 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1865 William Booth founded the Salvation Army in London.

In 1935 President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the Wagner-Connery Bill, offically known as the National Labor Relations Act. It guaranteed labor's right to collective bargaining.

In 1945 Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced the liberation of the Philippines.

In 1965 President De Gaulle of France boycotted the European Common Market, creating a danger to Europe's ever-increasing prosperity through trade.

A thought for the day: Mark Twain once said: "To promise not to do a thing is the surest way in the world to make a body want to go and do that very thing."

Crowds Cheer Burglars' Sentence

HAVANA (AP) — When six members of a burglary ring were sentenced recently to prison terms ranging from three to 30 years, the trial drew a large crowd and there was vigorous applause when the convictions were announced.

Thus reported the Communist Party newspaper, "Granma," commenting that the applause showed "an unmistakable sign that the people are in a state of alert in this fight to the death against delinquency."

BAPTISTS, CATHOLICS

Ecumenical Talks On Informal Basis

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — Southern Baptists and Roman Catholics, for years the two main holdouts from the ecumenical movement in America, finally are getting together to share their approaches to faith—on an informal basis.

"At least we are making a start," says Brooks Hays, former president of the Southern Baptist Convention.

What brought about the new steps, says Catholic Auxiliary Bishop John S. Spence, of Washington, D.C., is an "awakened consciousness of our spiritual kinship."

Making those first conciliatory moves took some delicate diplomatic footwork, and involved a long history of mutual aloofness from cross-Christian activities, a situation altered in recent times on the Catholic side.

The common past position of both groups on the matter served to ease the strain.

As noted by a Catholic theologian, Rev. Kilian McDonnell, of St. John's College, Collegeville, Minn., Catholics understand the Baptist hesitancy toward ecumenical contacts because Catholics also are latecomers to the movement.

For centuries, up until the 1960s, Catholicism had shunned any official recognition of other church bodies or relationships with them, until the second Vatican Council plunged the Roman Catholic Church into vigorous association with other denominations around the world.

Southern Baptists continued to avoid any involvement. Its 11-millionmember communion remained the largest Protestant body not taking part in interchurch councils or other cooperative enterprises.

25 MILLION

Furthermore, Baptists, as an international alliance of 25 million, were the only major Christian group that refused to send observers to the Vatican Council. Some individual Baptists, defying the policy, went unofficially anyhow.

Over-all, the record had marked a stiff barrier between the two bodies—a condition which, paradoxically, stemmed from their longtime similar attitudes on the subject.

But a beginning was made toward bridging that gap this month at a meeting at Wake Forest University's Ecumenical Institute in Winston Salem, N.C.

It was the first jointly organized Baptist-Catholic dialogue, and it was regarded as the prelude to other future sessions.

"The principal focus of our interest is the unchallenged and overwhelming fact that we are brothers in Christ," said a resolution adopted by the 58 participants—39 Southern Baptists and 19 Catholics, including two bishops.

NO DISGUISE

"We did not attempt to disguise our theological differences, but were made aware of the mutual enrichment under the guidance of the Holy Spirit."

Previously, in the past three years, regular, periodic consultations have developed between Catholics and every other major Christian tradition, but until the sessions this month, there had been no talks with Baptists.

Much of the initiative in arranging the meeting with Catholics came from Hays, the onetime Arkansas congressman and prominent Baptist layman who now heads the recently established Ecumenical Institute at Wake Forest, a Baptist university.

Hays says the conference, for which the institute served as sponsor, was a first step in "establishing the basis for a reconciliation between two important religious communities."

Because of special Baptist concepts, which hold that each congregation is an autonomous church unit for which the denomination as a whole cannot make commitments, the meeting was described as not officially representative. The Bishops' Commission is an official arm of the Catholic Church, but agreed to the modified role to satisfy the Baptist reservations.

GUEST SPEAKER—Joseph D. Gargiulo, Novato city councilman and principal of North Marin High School, will be guest speaker at the 8:30 and 10:55 a.m. services at the Novato United Methodist Church, 1473 South Novato Boulevard. His topic will be "The Daily Challenges of Christianity in 1969."

Funds Voted For National Crisis Issues

MINNEAPOLIS (LC) — Appropriations totaling $3,415,000 for programs and projects aimed at alleviating national crisis conditions are included in the American Lutheran Church's budget of $23,461,061 for 1970.

Budget approval for the next fiscal year was voted recently by the ALC's joint council in the wake of a pressure campaign by a "Conference on Inner City Ministries," an ALC subsidiary group known as CICM, which made demands echoing the rhetoric of the James Forman authored "Black Manifesto."

No funds were appropriated for the Forman organization, the National Black Economic Development Conference.

National publicity which attended the demands from the CICM meetings held at Augsburg College, Minn., a few days prior to the meetings of the ALC's church council and joint council, resulted in a flood of mail and telephone calls from various parts of the country objecting to any concessions by the ALC to the program of the militants.

The CICM group had repudiated the "Black Manifesto" admonitions to "violence in all its forms," but had urged the ALC to approve the principle of reparations demanded by the Forman document in the amount of $500 million.

Initial response by the Church Council, which met prior to the budget meeting, was to repudiate "strong, coarse, inflammatory language" of the "Black Manifesto," but to pledge an aggressive program of "help to solve the American problems of racism and poverty."

Following the budget approval, the ALC's president, Dr. Fredrik A. Schiotz, said the CICM action in pressing the "Black Manifesto" demands had served as an "alarm clock to awaken the ALC leadership.

SITS IN ON SESSION—Rev. Richard Christensen, associate pastor of the University Lutheran Church in Seattle, may be a "strhip" to some narcotic takers because he is straight—not on drugs—but yet is hip on the teen scene and its problems. Here he sits in one of his group discussions. (AP Wirephoto)

THEY CALL HIM 'STRHIP'

Lutheran Minister Working To Solve Fears Of Young People

By NEIL BIBLER

SEATTLE (AP) — The dopeheads call him a "strhip." He calls himself a "muver." His basic pitch: There's grass growing on Bikini again.

If that seems like double talk, that's because you're not with it yet. You still haven't heard of Teendrunar, for instance. But read on.

The man is Rev. Richard Christensen, associate pastor of University Lutheran Church in Seattle. He's a "strhip" because he's straight—not on dope—and yet he's hip, he knows what the teen scene is and a lot about its problems and has something to offer as help.

That help is two things: "muve" and Teendrunar. "Muve" is a new way to use written language, to meld it with contemporary problems and today's music. It takes what the Beatles did to and through music one step farther into the words, the lyrics, the thought.

It's a way to be cool by showing "your warm," your feeling for others and for yourself, your love of man and your hope.

A ROUGH WAY

And Teendrunar is a rough way to help teen-age dope addicts—the kids who have lost themselves in "speed," LSD and other drugs. It stands for Teen-age Drug and Narcotic Rehabilitation. In psychological jargon, it's peer group corrective therapy.

Whatever you call it, it's spreading; spreading in part because Reverend Christensen has spoken recently to about 40,000 high school and junior high students. And there's his just-released Capitol record," "Muve," his first.

The idea spreads by word of mouth, from one troubled teenager to another.

The teen-age dope addicts, or former addicts, meet with a candidate for their group. The members already know every rationalization for taking drugs. And they lay into the newcomer hard and fast. They tear at him verbally; they break down his defenses; they browbeat him into emotional disruption.

EXPRESSES LOVE

Then one says to him, "You know why we're doing this? It's because we love you, man."

The technique is used by the Synanon rehabilitation center for addicts in Santa Monica.

That's one of the hard ways. It's not for every addict, but it's working for 70 kids.

There were others for whom the idea came too late. That's when "muve" came forth.

"When I'd run into a case that I couldn't do anything about," Christensen said, "I'd go home at night and start writing to that person. I wanted to reach him, to tell him what a beautiful life he was throwing away."

This kind of story, backed by today's throbbing combination of jazz, rock, blues and folk music, make up the new record.

"It's using music as a sledgehammer to drive the point into the heart," the minister says. "And the message is there's hope, not dope."

The message is: "There's grass growing on Bikini again; not even the bomb can conquer life." Bikini, an atoll in the Pacific, was blasted bare by atomic bomb tests.

And "muve" is a way to present the idea. "It's existence in words that are strung together in smooth, polished fashion so that you and I can run our fingers over them and feel the softness of each other's being," he explains.

"A 'muver' is someone who moves along in life and meets someone and touches him and makes things a little better."

And he does it in part through Reverend Christensen's concept of combining "the write fight" and music. "a new way to use our language, an extension of the hip vocabulary born out of an attitude of the young."

Christensen is 39 and the father of five children.

About two and one-half years ago, he joined Rev. Alfred Stone, pastor at University Lutheran, to develop a ministry relevant to young people plagued by trouble and narcotics.

And now, he say, "I sense a real feeling of doubt that dope is the way out.

"I look for more promise and creativity to come out of kids," he says. "I think the era of doom is past."

Seven Congregations To Share Same Plant

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

In Columbia, Md., the new city which is rising midway between Baltimore and Washington, ground was broken last week for a building that has revolutionary significance in America.

The 25,000-square-foot building will house under one roof congregations of the Roman Catholic, Jewish, Methodist, Presbyterian, Lutheran, Baptist and Unitarian faiths.

Each congregation will have its own clergy, conduct its own worship services and carry on its own pastoral ministry, just as if it were operating in a building of its own.

By sharing one physical plant, however, the seven religious bodies will be able to save an enormous amount of money which otherwise would be spent on mortgage payments, utilities, insurance and maintenance.

This money will be available for community service projects, religious education, youth activities and counseling programs.

The Columbia experiment points a way out of one of the most deplorable situations in American religious life — the preoccupation of most congregations with real estate.

America's Christians and Jews now have an estimated $80 billion tied up in buildings, most of which are used only a few hours a week. And they are adding to this massive investment in bricks and mortar at a rate of $1 billion a year.

Because it costs upwards of $200,000 to build even a modest church, many congregations find themselves struggling with heavy burdens of debt. Energy and concern which ought to be channeled into the service of humanity are diverted instead into building fund drives.

The interfaith venture in Columbia shows how wasteful and unnecessary it is for every congregation to erect its own building.

The Columbia structure — known simply as a "religious facilities center" — will be constructed and maintained by a jointly owned non-profit corporation.

The pioneering design by Boston architect A. Anthony Tappe provides four multi-use worship spaces, with seating capacities ranging from 70 to 600. Thus four services can be held simultaneously. With cooperative scheduling, the center should be able to accommodate 20 or more services over a weekend.

The center also will provide office space for all of the participating congregations, and joint-use facilities for suppers, social events, education, drama and community functions.

The shared facilities concept obviously is easier to apply in an area such as Columbia where a brand new community is being built. But with imagination and daring, it also could be applied in established communities, particularly downtown areas where land values are high enough to enable churches entering a joint facility arrangement to dispose of their surplus real estate at a good price.

More than money is at stake. Indeed, the greatest value of the Columbia precedent may be to remind Americans that church is NOT a place, but a body of people with a common mission.

The Piety Kick Disturbing To Noted Church Layman

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The piety of millions of American Catholics is being exploited cynically by pitchmen who infuse religious themes into hard-selling advertising.

So says an angry Catholic layman, Bruce Hutchinson of San Diego. Hutchinson documents his charge in a new book, "The Gospel According to Madison Avenue" (Bruce).

He is perturbed especially about what he calls "the pilgrimage racket." Pilgrimages and "Catholic tours" are extensively advertised in Catholic publications, he says, and the ads which promote them are "profoundly hypocritical" because "they are in fact selling a secular product a vacation trip by presenting it to us as a religious act a pilgrimage."

Each pilgrimage must have a "spiritual director." Usually, he's a priest who's getting a free trip in a package deal offered by airline and travel agencies, under which one no-fare passage is provided for every batch of paying tourists.

Hutchinson quotes from pilgrimage ads which suggest that the presence of a priest somehow imparts an aura of holiness to the entire trip.

"It is deceiving and exploiting us, stamping a secular pursuit with the seal of the Church and persuading countless good camera-toting American Catholics that their trip to Fatima or Glacier National Park is a response to Christ's call for penance," he says.

Hutchinson's ire also is aroused by ads in Catholic publications which suggest that certain products make "perfect gifts" for nuns. He cites, as a horrible example, a soap peddled for $1 a bar with the claim that it is "on the approved list" for use by nuns.

This is a hoax on gullible laymen who are led to believe that "the Church has some sort of 'Good Housekeeping' seal of approval" when in fact there is no such thing as an "approved list" of products that may be used by nuns.

Perhaps the worst exploitation of Catholic piety, Hutchinson says, is that which takes place in direct mail fund-raising appeals. He estimates that "hundreds of millions" of begging letters are mailed out to American Catholics each year.

Marinite Sings Her Messages Of Love

Now They Are Heard On Record

By DON KEOWN

"Hopefully," says Betsy Chapman, "my songs will encourage people to become aware of and sensitive to all aspects of love — love as we find it in our daily lives, as we nurture it in our hearts and minds, as we learn to use it to shape the future of our world."

Religious and youth groups in Marin County and surrounding areas have been listening to this message of and about love from the attractive young San Anselmo wife and mother now for a number of years.

Henceforth, however, she will have a wider audience, for her first record album, bearing the prestigious Capitol label, has just been issued.

NATURALLY, IT is called "A Gift of Love."

She recalls that her daughter "was always singing" during her grammar school days at the Larkspur-Corte Madera School, often with the encouragement of friends and faculty members, particularly from music teacher Marjorie Whittlesey.

THEN, REMEMBERS Mrs. Belcher, Betsy went on to Sir Francis Drake High School as a member of that school's first freshman class, and began singing at rallies in the newly constructed girls' gymnasium, accompanying herself on a borrowed guitar with but two strings.

Her three remaining years at Drake were crowded with participation in the school's music and drama programs.

As a Drake sophomore, she met Len Chapman, then a Marin Catholic High School senior. They were married a year after Betsy's graduation.

"I THINK THE decision on marrying young has to be an individual one," says Betsy Chapman today. "One can't recommend for or against it for all couples in general.

"In our case, we feel that we gained from being able to grow together, and that as we grew, our love grew, and so did our friendship. I think that has counted for much in the happiness we have found together."

After Len Chapman finished a two-year stint in the U.S. Army, he and his wife settled down to community life in San Anselmo. By then, daughter Terry, now 9, had been born.

FOR THE Chapmans, "community life" meant involvement in a number of activities, particularly with the youth group of their parish, St. Anselm's, and those of neighboring communities.

The Chapmans opened their home once a week for meetings of a teen-age discussion group, and then began attending and contributing to weekend programs entitled "Search for Christian Maturity" that were sponsored by the Catholic Youth Organization of San Francisco.

Little Terry accompanied her parents to these functions, and her mother says: "She seemed to gain so much from seeing these older kids interested in their faith and in each other — in seeing real brotherly love happening to these young people. The experience was invaluable to her."

THE PARENTS, too, were deeply impressed, and in an effort to express those feelings, Betsy Chapman began two years ago to write songs of her own. To date she has written

It is her first recording, but Capitol executives are confident that there will be many more from the young Marin guitarist and singer who has long been popular with Bay Area youth, church and music groups.

"What Can Be Done With My Puckered Sports Coat?"

Your complaint is natural. The lining of your sports coat shrunk and the seams puckered in dry-cleaning. Examination shows that the puckering was caused by the sewing threads relaxing during mechanical action. The thread had not been pre-shrunk properly before manufacturing. The shrunken lining is due to the use of rayon which was not pre-shrunk before mannfacture. Heat and mechanical action again caused the shrinkage.

This is not the fault of your cleaner. The sports coat should be returned to the store from which it was purchased for return to the manufacturer for adjustment.

about 50, and she says of them: "They are all 'love songs,' love being synonymous with concern, risk, vulnerability, joy, sorrow, pain, hope, salvation, sensitivity, community, understanding, patience, discovery and action. In short, love is 'being.' "

Inspired by their experiences with the "Search" program, the Chapmans began to take an even more active part in youth and church affairs, with Betsy taking the lead in bringing guitar music and singing into St. Anselm's.

The choir with guitar accompaniment she organized has been performing at the San Anselmo Catholic church's 9:15 a.m. mass now for two years, and it is not coincidental that the service has become one of the best attended in the county.

BETSY CHAPMAN says of this music: "It has a lot more to it than just the guitars. There is such a joy — a communal joy — to these songs. The people find them a pleasure to sing, finding the words meaningful in a real, contemporary way.

"The guitars would be nothing by themselves. It's the wonderful combination of the meaning of the mass, the community of voices all raised together, the spirit that is present, along with the instruments, that keeps people coming so eagerly and expectantly, week after week. They are all giving, and they are all receiving. In this day and age, people want and need a positive love to grow with, and a means of expressing it."

Turning over the guitar-and-voice music program at St. Anselm's to the young people who made up her group — "and what a wonderful job they have done of carrying it on" —, Betsy began visiting other parishes to help them organize their music, and to demonstrate the joys of song at various interfaith programs.

ONE OF THE proudest moments in her life came when she took part in last year's Western Washington Catholic Youth Organization teen convention, which was dedicated to the memory of Robert Kennedy who had been scheduled to speak there, but whose voice had been stilled so tragically.

Deeply moved by the presidential candidate's death, Betsy had written a song entitled "What Will the Morning Bring?" describing the beauty of Kennedy's values, the sadness of the people's loss in his sudden passing and the challenge for society to pick up and carry on his banners by keeping alive the struggle for human rights and freedom.

Her convention performance brought her many letters from both the young and older persons attending the convention who were enthusiastic about her music, her voice and the thoughts that she conveyed.

THEN BETSY and Len Chapman began to be asked repeatedly by those who had heard her sing: "Why hasn't she made any records?" And the Chapmans decided to see what they could do about that.

Capitol Confident There Will Be More To Come

At first, they planned to make their own record. But as enthusiasm grew among listeners, the Chapmans decided to seek to interest an established company. A simple "home" tape was made and sent through a friend to Capitol Recording Inc. in Los Angeles. A second tape was mailed to another company that produces both religious and general commercial records.

The second company responded immediately, and negotiations began. But before a deal could be made, the Chapmans heard from Capitol as well. That firm had received the tape months earlier, but it had been shuttled to an outlying department. Belatedly, it reached the desk of the producer who listened to it and liked it, but set it aside for two weeks before giving it a second hearing. His reaction was still affirmative, and the Chapmans were invited to Southern California to make a demonstration tape there with Capitol equipment.

IN LOS ANGELES, Betsy sang some 20 songs, 15 of them her own, and she and her husband then returned to their Marin home, not yet knowing Capitol's final decision. Ten days passed before they received a call informing them that everyone at Capitol was enthusiastic over the "demo tape" — would they consider signing a contract and making an album in the near future? Indeed, they would.

All this took place this past spring. Of an industry sometimes described as a "dog-eat-dog" business, Betsy Chapman says: "We are most grateful for the quality of people we were privileged to work with at Capitol. From the producer and musical director to the lyricist, the musicians and the engineers, they were all pulling together, offering help and encouragement. There was always such a good spirit present."

BUT PREDICTABLY, Betsy has given it a happy ending: ". . . but with love and faith her heart will show a wisdom, gained from time, to grow; Wednesday's child will come and go."

Betsy is especially pleased, too, that the album includes two Erik Satie songs, for which lyrics, written by Elaine Simone, have been provided for the first time.

Released simultaneously with the album was a "single" containing two of its songs, Satie's "The River" and Buzz Clifford's "Children Are Crying Out Loud."

BETSY CHAPMAN sings with a clear, bell-like tone, and with a warm feeling for her lyrics and the human relationships those words reflect.

Husband Len is supervisor of employment for the Southern Pacific Co. in San Francisco, but he now wears a second hat as manager for his singing wife. The Chapmans have always shared — a warm home life, a keen interest in their church and in youth, a devotion to the principles of love and brotherhood. It is natural that they should now also share what could be a dawning bright new career for Betsy Chapman.

Nightclub singing will be no part of it. "It is not that we are opposed to nightclubs," Betsy explains. "It is just that our child and our family life mean too much to us to jeopardize them through the travel and irregular hours that would be required for that kind of a career."

BUT IT IS apparent that the Chapmans also feel that the smoky, noisy atmosphere of the nightclub is just not the proper setting for the expression of concern for the future of the world, and particularly its youth, that Betsy Chapman wants her songs and her singing to convey.

Betsy Chapman wants no haze or clatter between her and the audience when she delivers her message as her gift of love.

THE THREE members of the Chapman family pose for a picture with the ever present guitars in the foreground. They are Elizabeth or Betsy Chapman, just beginning a career as a recording artist; her husband, Len Chapman, a Southern Pacific Co. supervisor and now also his singing wife's manager; and their 9-year-old daughter Terry.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER, Betsy and Terry Chapman, enjoy the fresh air and an informal songfest, accompanying themselves on their guitars. The scene is the San Domenico School for Girls campus in Sleepy Hollow.

A Career In Carving

Wheat Allen Finds Brisk Demand For Realistic Birds

By FRAN CREBASSA

Howard Wheatley Allen carved his first bird, a robin, from wood as a 9-year-old, using a shiny new Swiss army stainless steel pocketknife his father had just given him.

Today Allen is still carving birds from wood, using that same knife, now not quite so shiny. But it is no longer a hobby. It has become his livelihood, the means by which he supports his wife Rosemary, their baby daughter Lisa and himself.

He gave up architecture which he studied at Dartmouth College to devote his full time to the craft of carving.

RECALLING that first project, he says the miniature red robin "was about two inches long, and I whittled it while we were camping near Lake Tahoe. It took me a day or so to carve and paint it."

That same robin now roosts in San Rafael, in the possession of his grandmother, Mrs. Frank Howard Allen.

Since that time, "Wheat" Allen's sharp knife and nimble fingers have created some 100 sets of miniature creatures comprised of more than 300 pieces.

HIS INFORMAL education in birdlife and nature began with his observations of waterfowl when, as a boy, he accompanied his father, real estate man Charles Howard Allen, on fishing and hunting trips to favorite Marin County spots. He supplemented this by devouring written texts and illustrations by such naturalists as John James Audubon.

As he grew older, his urge for hunting waned, but his interest in birdlife and in carving grew.

His childhood home was in Kent Woodlands where he shared a very comfortable house with his parents, his younger brother Pete and his two still younger sisters Joelle and Susie. His father had grown up in San Anselmo, while his mother, the former Ann Bullard, had lived in San Francisco before moving to Mill Valley in 1937.

AFTER GRADUATING from Redwood High in June of 1959 as a member of that school's first senior class, young Allen went on to Dartmouth, finishing his four years there in June of 1963.

He served as an officer on board the Seventh Fleet flagship Providence CLG-6 from 1963 to 1965 and was stationed in Japan, traveling widely throughout the East.

He met Rosemary Hexberg in San Francisco in 1965 and they were married in October 1966.

SHE IS A talented portrait artist, working in both oils and watercolors, and has studied at the San Francisco Art Institute and the California College of Arts and Crafts in Berkeley.

Ahead of Wheat Allen, after his Navy service, still lay a career in architecture. His abrupt change in plans, he say, came almost by accident.

"I went to Fort Bragg for a summer job with the Union Lumber Co.," he relates, "and while I was waiting for that position to open up, I began doing some bird carvings. I began receiving commissions, and they just kept coming in. I never did start that job with Union Lumber."

WHEAT, ROSEMARY and Lisa (who will be 1-year-old on Aug. 30) live in a four-bedroom white farmhouse with ocean view that they rent in Little River, a quiet town with the air of New England, on the Mendocino coastline, but commute often to Marin County to visit his family who now reside in Stinson Beach.

In Mendocino County and at Stinson Beach, Wheat finds plenty of bird subjects for his carvings, and he likes to work outdoors.

The old pocketknife is still his principal carving instrument, although he has acquired other more professional tools for special jobs — "I keep coming back to my old standby."

WHEAT SAYS HE has not regretted his defection from architecture to the craft of carving, declaring: "I love the life we are leading. But I'm a little surprised at the degree of success I have found so quickly."

Sharing the Mendocino farm with the Allens is Wheat's pet raven Spartacus.

Spartacus and Wheat Allen found each other last spring near Stinson Beach when the raven was an awkward fledgling, sparsely covered with stubby black pinfeathers, his most prominent feature an always wide open mouth that squawked raucously every two or three hours until Wheat came running to feed him a pasty mixture of mash through a meat-basting tube.

THE RAVENOUS raven suffered a malady similar to club-

foot, and is still somewhat handicapped.

"But Spartacus is doing fine," Wheat reports. "He has his full set of adult feathers now. I have built him a nice roomy cage in our lathhouse in the garden which he loves.

"He says 'hello' quite distinctly, and comes at a whistle and hops on my arm. Our small dog, Micah, and our cat, Pussycat, sleep, curled up together in the lathhouse with the cranky Spartacus at night."

NO, WHEAT HASN'T as yet carved a wooden raven, but he plans to do so, now that Spartacus is a full-grown model.

What he has carved include sculptured pieces depicting quail, egrets, owls, geese, ducks, herons, various other waterbirds and songbirds, and fish. Many can be placed on a mantel or a small table. Some are mounted on driftwood, while others, sets of birds in flight, are hanging mobiles. A few of the larger carvings warrant their own pedestals.

Most of Wheat's fish or fowl have sprung to life from hunks of sugar pine, although redwood is another favored material. A large owl, so thoughtfully contemplating — maybe dinner — from a one-legged yoga stance, was chipped carefully from redwood.

WHEAT PREFERS sugar pine for its clear smooth grain and redwood for its color and rich grain gradations. He plans to try his hand with cherry and such hardwoods as teak and mahogany in the future.

"My idea for carving," he says, "usually comes before the shape of the wood might suggest it, although often the wood does suggest changes and new directions."

His work sells rapidly, and the carvings have been on display at Abercrombie & Fitch Co., Bullock & Jones, and other Northern California shops. Allen-carved birds can currently be seen by Marinites at Tweeds and Weeds in Kentfield.

MOST OF HIS work is done by private commission, and inquiries come by cards and letter to Howard Wheatley Allen, Box 483, Little River, alif., 95456.

Twice he has assembled collections of his carved pieces for shows, the first in November of 1967, in conjunction with wife Rosemary's drawings and paintings, and the second in Mill Valley in December, 1968.

There will be a third such show this December when the wood carvings and some of Rosemary's nature drawings will be exhibited at an Audubon Society benefit in San Francisco.

THE CONNECTION is apt, for in his carvings Wheat Allen demonstrates the same meticulous concern for authenticity in depicting a wild creature in its native habitat that Audubon showed in his timeless paintings.

In his work, Allen is craftsman and artist. But he is also very much the naturalist as well. And his love for and empathy with all things outdoors are reflected in the tensed muscles of a majestic hawk, poised in flight and about to strike, and in the peaceful, drowsy countenance of an owl perched in solitude on its branch.

A Garden With A Tropical Lagoon And Pl

The island character of the Tiburon home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Babcock provided landscape architects Katy and Paul Steinmetz with a ready-made theme when they set out to design the garden.

The theme was reinforced by an entrance garden in which lies a serene lagoon, fed by a cascading waterfall and crossed by a walkway of free-standing stepping stones.

The Steinmetzes' waterfall thus serves a double purpose, adding a cool, ornamental note, and also functioning in the very practical role of returning the filtered water to the lagoon.

For the plantings, the Steinmetzes chose growing things thato ne might well expect to encounter around an island lagoon, principally exotic tropicals. But they also made certain that all the selected specimens met the test of thriving in Tiburon's climate.

Thus growing in the Babcocks' lagoon garden one sees such plantings as philodendron selloum and a tree fern that frame the front door, Japanese cut-leaf maples, ferns, a wisteria tree, Monterey pines, Hinoki cypress, creeping strawberry, mundo grass, mugo pines, bird of paradise, a weeping blue cedar, etc.

Statuary such as a carved Hawaiian god and a Japanese stone lantern add a further touch of the exotic. The delicate, curving redwood fence is perfect for the setting.

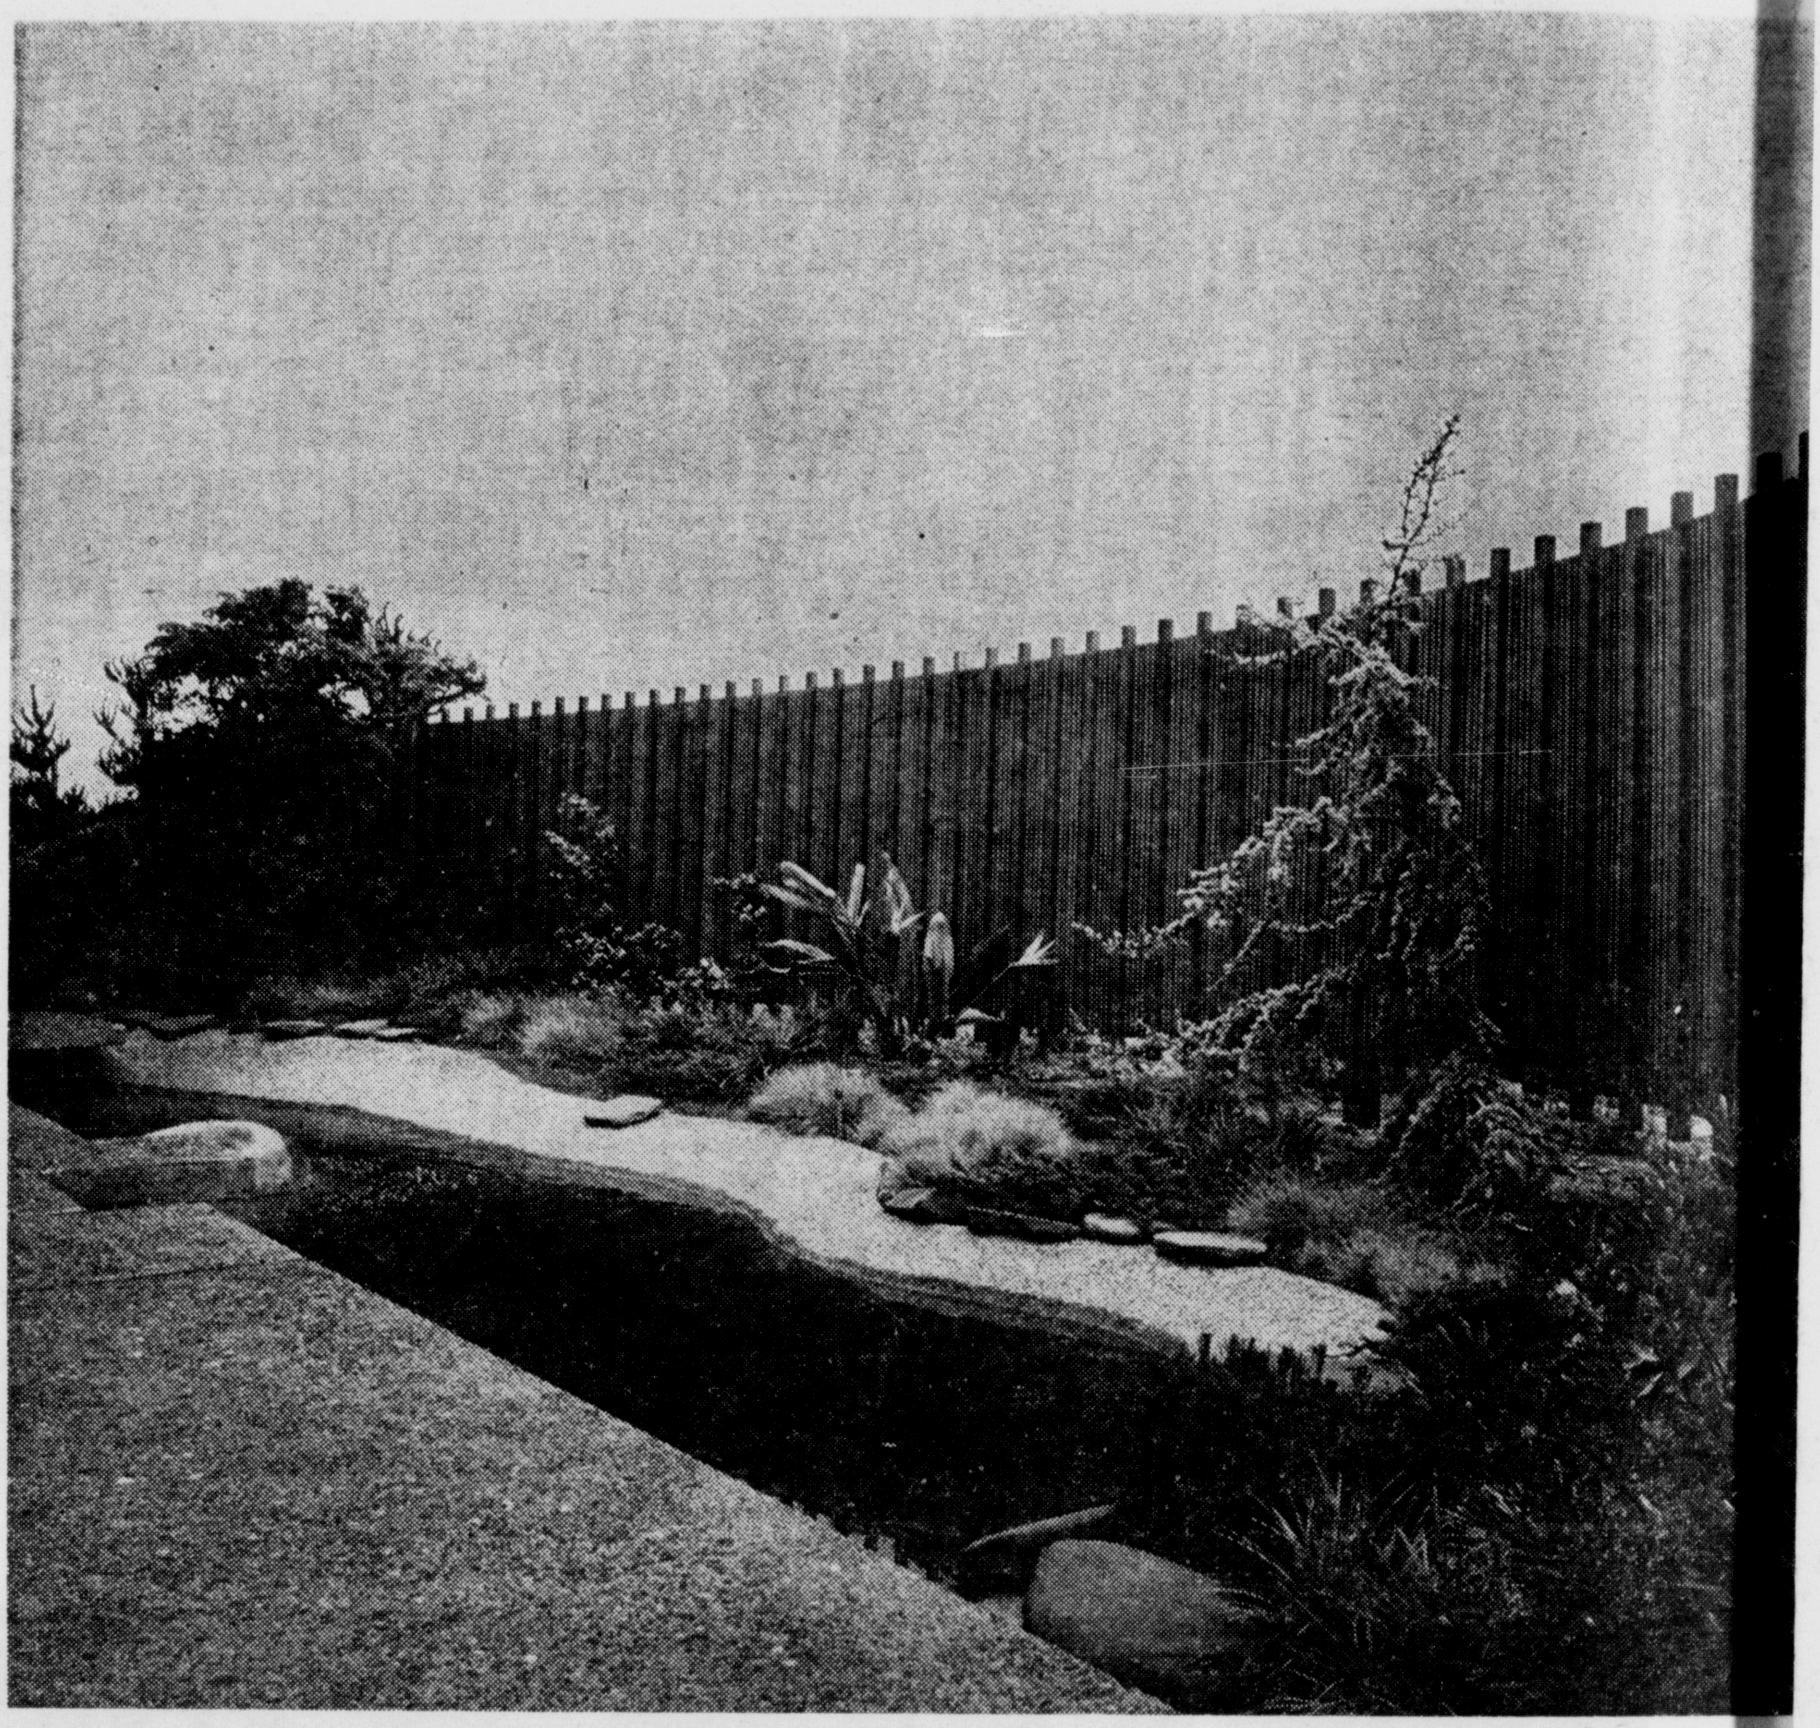
Thus the imaginative design of the Steinmetzes and its skillful execution have provided the Babcocks with what any home owner would cherish—a tropical lagoon all his own.



LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTS Katy and Paul Steinmetz selected plantings for the Tiburon garden of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Babcock that were especially suited to carry out the island character of the design theme. At the same time, they exercised care in choosing only thos Tiburon's special climate. Veronica, mugo pines, of paradise, blue grass and mundo grass were s

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The anti-violence drive, including an edict from the Federal Communications Commission, has affected televisions cartoons to a greater degree than it has prime-time horse operas, spy thrillers and cops and robbers.

The largest, most successful source of animated shows for children, Hanna-Barbera, will reflect the trend away from violence this fall.

President Joe Barbera, an animated man himself with a keen sense of humor, is more than pleased to go along with straight humor which after all, is his bag to begin with.

"THE RETURN to comedy is perfect for us," he said, preparing four new shows for the coming video season. "It's what we do best.

"For a while the 'James Bond' and 'Man From UNCLE' type shows were the most popular things around. Nobody wants them anymore. We followed the trend that adult viewers set. After all, youngsters stay up long enough to watch the prime-time shows, too."

Hanna-Barbera's 1969-70 production includes newcomers "Scooby Doo, Where Are You!," "Dick Dastardly and Muttley in Their Flying Machines," "The Cattanooga Cats" and "Perils of Penelope Pitstop."

THEY ARE scheduled for the kiddy prime time hours — Saturday morning.

"You have to make a distinction in violence," Barbera said. "Comedy slapstick isn't violence. It's historical buffoonery going all the way back to Punch and Judy. A pie in the face isn't violent.

"Then again, we were raised on the adventures of Tarzan and Tom Swift — and with adventure you encounter a certain amount of violence.

"LIKE ANY one else providing shows for television, we have been producing shows the viewers want. Now they're asking for less violence, and I don't think you'll find any violence this season.

"Animated comedy shows run into trouble when the cartoon animals take on realistic human qualities — and start carrying weapons. You simply can't endow cartoon characters with a realistic human image."

Hanna-Barbera, however, won widespread adult audiences with its runaway hits "The Flintstones" and "The Jetsons."

"You can run a steam roller over a cat and flatten him," Barbera said, "and he jumps right up without a scratch.

"But we've learned you can't do that with human beings. And that is one of the principal diferences between slapstick comedy and violence.

"The other is having an animal — say, a dog — chasing a cat only to step on a launch pad and find himself in space. That's all right. But you can't have the cat whip out a revolver and shoot the dog.

"That's violence. What's more, it isn't funny."

The only medication that

Gets to a Major Cause of Hemorrhoids

Now! Most complete 3-way relief!

Important development: unlike every other hemorrhoid product, Counternoid™ works in 3 ways:
1. Lessens pain fast.
2. Coats, soothes and protects injured tissue.
3. Gets to a major cause of hemorrhoids: painful hard constipation.

In hospital X-ray tests, doctors have demonstrated that the exclusive Counternoid formulation with DSS₃₈™ penetrates in minutes to the top of the rectal area to soften the stool and ease the bowel movement, to make natural healing possible.

Remember: Counternoid. For temporary relief of minor hemorrhoid troubles. The most complete 3-way relief you can get without a prescription or without surgery. At all drug counters.

Some New Albums Out Of The Movie Soundtrack And Original Cast Bags

By JOHN SUNIER

"HAIR" — The American Tribal Love-Rock Musical — Original Broadway Cast — Victor LSO-1150:

Broadway's generally low, low state finds happy exception in this theatrical be-in with music by Galt MacDermot and direction by Tom O'Horgan. It is a fresh and fun hippie musical that hits the mark much better than "Your Own Thing" did prior to it.

Some of the fine tunes are already Top-40 hits — "Aquarius," "Good Morning Starshine" and "Let the Sun Shine In," as well as the title tune. This unexpurgated collection of the songs also features some you will never hear on the radio or TV!

Truly one of the best films of the past year, Franco Zeffirelli's treatment of the star-crossed lovers is beautifully preserved in this recording. Some of the spoken dialogue is included to introduce many of the musical sections. The themes are varied, appropriate, and never descend into soundtrack cliches.

The vocal ballad, "What Is a Youth," as sung at the Capulets' party, is a wonderful recreation of music of that period.

It would be an interesting project to compare Rota's music for the various sections of the drama with that of other composers who have been inspired by the story, such as Berlioz and Prokofieff.

GEORGE HARRISON: "Wonderwall Music" — Apple ST-3350:

This is the soundtrack from a film which has not yet appeared in this area as far as I can determine. There is precious little information with the album except for the titles on the LP label.

Harrison is the sitar-playing Beatle and it follows that at least some of the sitar playing on the LP is by himself.

There are some very agreeable sections featuring the sitar against a background of strings, and other very tasteful commercializations of Indian musical ideas. As a matter of fact, the soundtrack was recorded in India. It has many similarities to the "Chappaqua" soundtrack by Ravi Shankar — who was Harrison's sitar teacher.

The sensuously-spinning-out music will appeal to anyone who enjoyed the collaborations of Shankar and Yehudi Menuhin, "East Meets West."

"REVOLUTION" — Original Soundtrack featuring The Quicksilver Messenger Service, Steve Miller Band and Mother Earth — United Artists UAS 5185:

Three top Bay Area rock bands are heard at their best in this music from a so-so hippie film feature. Mother Earth's title tune is very catchy, and the Steve Miller Band shines on "Superbyrd" and "Your Old Lady." There are several rock "samplers" now available, but few of them feature three such major, fine groups in worthwhile performances.

"AVANT SLANT" — A Twelve Tone Collage — The John Benson Brooks Trio — Decca DL 75018:

This is not a musical, nor is it a soundtrack. It is a sort of LP happening which bears much resemblance to McLuhan's "Medium is the Massage" record on Columbia.

Pianists Brooks plays a series of rather blah excerpts of serialized piano music with sax and drums rounding out the trio. These sort of tie together a wild melange of readings, sound effects, commercials, poetry, and other music.

In the poetry department, for example, there are choice words from John Donne, Lawrence Ferlinghetti, LeRoi Jones and Carl Sandburg. This is something to listen to seriously with one's full attention.

Here again is music that seems as though it should belong to a film or something else rather than an entity on its own. However, this is not to belittle it — it is an honest and often rather moving excursion into that no-man's land between serious concert music and outright pop music.

ALONG THE EDGE of the waterfall, where it plunges into the lagoon, Japanese cut-leaf maple and ferns grow. And a Hawaiian god welcomes visitors to the front door of the Tiburon home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Babcock.

There's Much To Do And A Lot To See In Oregon In Summer

By GRACE HENDERSON

It's big. It's wild. It's beautiful. It's Oregon Country.

The first impression, to Californians, is one of space: more freeways than automobiles, more homes than apartments, and space in which to just stop and look at the scenery. And green hills covered by tall Ponderosa and Lodge Pole pines, Douglas firs (state tree) and pungent junipers.

Relaxation permeates the atmosphere.

There is snow-chapeaued Mount Hood dominating fruit-laden Hood River County along the Columbia River; there is the Three Sisters mountain range strung through Central Oregon like a set of polished pearls, forming a white background to the lush mint and alfalfa fields of Jefferson County; and 400 miles of power-producing Columbia River.

EVERYHERE one looks, there are campgrounds, picnic spots and rest stations to entice the traveler to "stay and play" in cool, green Oregon. With some 200 state parks and wayside areas covering 70,348 acres, the vacationer has a choice of scenery and location (more than 50 of the parks include overnight camping facilities).

Driving north from San Rafael on Interstate Five to Redding, then branching off via U.S. 97 one enters Klamath Falls, Ore., a lumber town nestled in the southeast corner of the state.

Although far from being a metropolis the area nevertheless bustles with activity. There are interstate freight carriers, mud-covered log trucks with their smell of Oregon pine, farm vehicles loaded with supplies and produce, and the tourists.

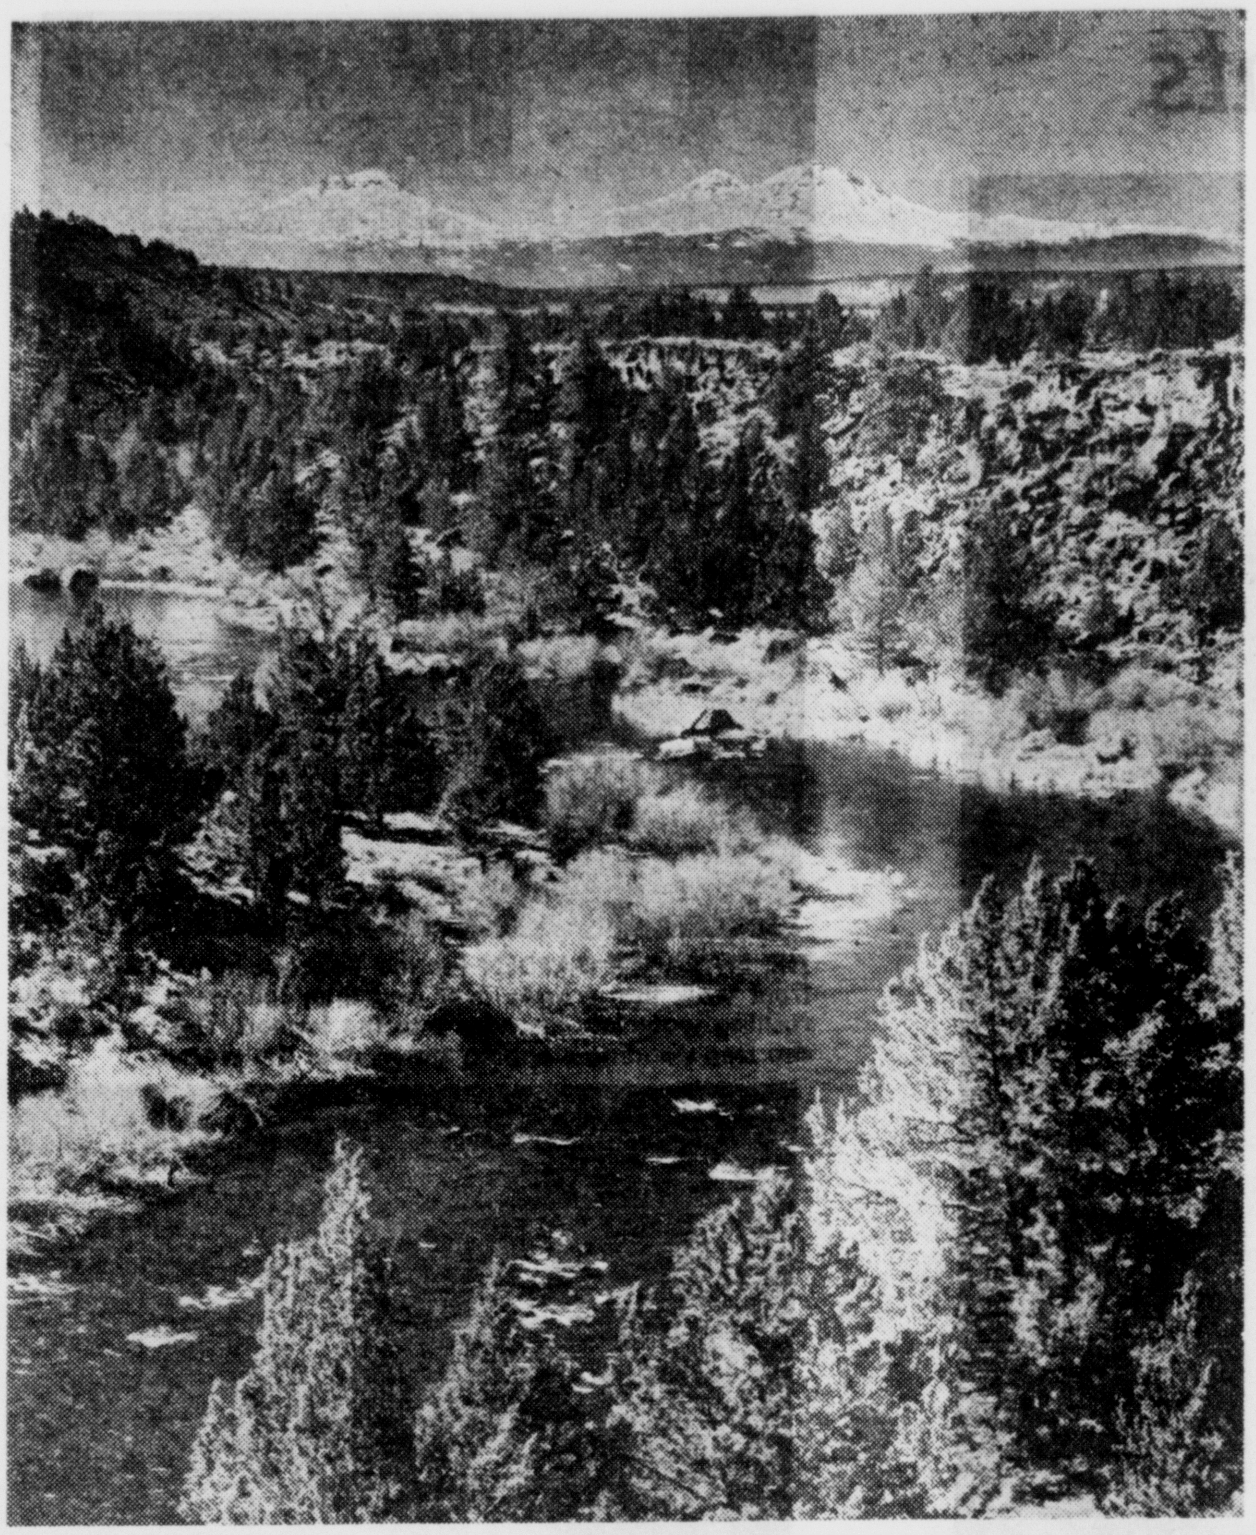
Back on the freeway, it's 100 miles to Bend, reached on a ride over one of the smoothest roads ever constructed, framed by swaying trees and within easy reach of renowned Crater Lake, a few miles to the west.

BEFORE COMING to the Bend city limits the tourist is suddenly detained by an unusual sight, but something he will become accustomed to while in the Beaver State.

A cyclinder butte cone, more than 5,000 feet high, of now-cooled red lava rock seemingly comes from nowhere to dominate a rare piece of flat ground. A drive up a narrow winding road offers the first real panoramic view of the Cascade Range, the mountains that divide the state in half. Here children feed the squirrels and chipmunks while mother and dad record the scene on film.

It has taken about eight hours driving time from Marin County, just right for a long break and there is no better place for strolling than in scenic Bend with restful Mirror Lake and its ducks and swan in the center of town. Or a side trip over Century Drive takes one through restful "stay awhile" scenery.

A FIRST-TRIPPER should allow at least two days for looking, and a must is Peterson's Rock Garden where, among the rocks and juniper, miniature buildings and displays have been constructed of colorful native rock. Here there is information about the obsidian deposits 65 miles east of Bend and about the John Day country where such rocks as thunder eggs (state rock) are found.



THE THREE SISTERS mountain range forms a backdrop for the Deschutes River in the Lower Bridge area near Redmond in Central Oregon. The Deschutes, which parallels the Cascade Range for 150 miles to the Columbia River, is one of the northwest's best-known trout fishing streams. (Oregon State Highway Commission photos)

It is here the California tourists begin to comprehend the vacation land claims of their northern neighbors. Beginning with Elk Mountain, a mere 5,911 feet high, the elevation climbs to Bachelor Butte at 9,060; Broken Top, 9,152; and South, Middle and Northern Sister, all over 10,000 feet. When compared to Mount Tamalpais at 2,511 they are huge.

There is a feeling here of being on top of the world. North of Bend, scrub trees and junipers dot flat lands backdropped by mountains.

HAVING PAUSED at a roadside turnout one has a knowledge of the colorful names along the way. The Oregon State Highway Department has thoughtfully provided this informational stop. Placed in permanent bases forming a half-circle, arrows point to such peaks as Broken Top, Three-Finger Jack, Elk Mountain and the Three Sisters.

Sixteen more miles and there is the junction with U. S. Highway 126 at Redmond, home of a famous reindeer herd and access to the summer time only passable McKenzie Pass. The reindeer are the only domesticated reindeer to be found outside of their native Lapland. They graze in natural surroundings, except during the Christmas season when they are in great demand.

Here it is that the freeway becomes a two-way state highway with little traffic.

IT'S UP AND over Ochoco Summit, a cool drive along alfalfa fields and grazing cattle to the village of Mitchell. Fishing streams abound and it is rural America at your call. West of the John Day River, northwest of Mitchell, are found the most spectacular hills in Oregon. Nature has painted the landscape with multicolored hues and natives have dubbed them the Painted Hills of Oregon.

At Ukiah it is either ahead on 395 to Pendleton or east on State Highway 244 into La Grande, the two being a mere 45 miles apart. The area is made up primarily of the Umatilla Indian Reservation (Cayuse tribe), intersected by U.S. Highway 80 North. This is also Deadman's Pass country, comparable to California's Donner Pass.

Cool, Green Oregon Welcomes The Vacationers Of California

THE LA GRANDE route includes the Umatilla and Wallowa national forests and our destination. The big trees help to emphasize the fact that Oregon has one-fifth of the nation's standing timber crop. There are over 400 tree farms and more being added yearly.

Two state parks later and twice passing over the winding Grande Ronde River, La Grande pops into view. Located in the northeast corner of the state and the hub of the northeastern Oregon Vacation Land, the town is watched over by 6,064 foot Mount Emily on one side and 5,372 foot Mount Harris on the other. To the east is Ladd Canyon over which pioneers traveled and from where an early-day Frenchman declared the valley to be Le Grande — beautiful.

It is here the Old Oregon Trail brought travelers, and Oregon, in time, became the only state in the union to have its name affixed to a transcontinental highway — the Old Oregon Trail.

AFTER A SHORT visit in the mountain valley, side trips are mapped. A 70-mile half-circle takes the sightseer to the Switzerland of America, the Wallowas. It is here one may enter the Eagle Cap Wilderness area (on foot or by horseback) to wander and just look, or to fish.

Snow covers the trails until July and lakes are crystal clear. No motor vehicles are allowed and the loudest noise is of the steady tinkle of horse bridles as they plod along Forest Service-maintained paths, or the baaing of sheep in mountain passes.

For those seeking quieter, less strenuous activity, there is Wallowa Lake State Park cradled at the head of the deep and ice-cold Wallowa Lake. This is where Chief Joseph of the Nez Perce Indian tribe fought, with such dedication, for his freedom. Men match the mountains and local Saturday night dances in the town of Joseph are pages from the past, dominated by jeans, cowboy boots and western music.

BUT THERE ARE other points of interest. Eagle Creek to the east of La Grande gurgles through granite peaks that surely must scratch low-floating clouds. And again cool lakes are reached by easy-to-hike forest trails. Deer, elk, coyote, bear and small animals are common.

A few extra miles and it's the famous Hell's Canyon, the grand canyon of the Snake River. Local chambers of commerce gladly give information on roads, tours, etc.

Or a 50-mile drive over the Tollgate Highway (pioneer wagon drivers paid to use this one) and it's Walla Walla, Wash. From here it is a short distance to one of a number of routes to the Columbia River, discovered in 1775, which escorts tourists to the ocean at Astoria, more than 400 miles downstream.

The Travel Pages

THIS ONCE wild, untamed torrent has been harnessed by power-producing dams beginning with the Grande Coulee Dam in Washington and including McNary, John Day, The Dalles and Bonneville dams in Oregon.

Over the years rushing water has cut into the gorge leaving many-colored palisades along the shores. Numerous wayside parks are available. The scenery is magnificent with 11 waterfalls within 11 miles; Multnomah Falls at 620 feet is the second largest fall in the United States.

Markers along the freeway note "Lewis and Clark Trail" and informational plaques are located at most stops. Holiday weekends bring members of the Columbia Basin Search and Rescue Club to Memaloose Wayside rest area to serve free coffee and friendly conversation to drivers, promoting breaks from the road while viewing the Columbia River and Memaloose Island. The island is an old Indian burial ground above Celilo Falls.

THE BRIDGE OF the Gods, with a myriad of stories and legends, spans the mighty river at Cascade Locks, a small town almost deserted by the by-passing freeway. But a quick turn through town gives the tourist a view long remembered. It is here that the Columbia River virtually turns on its side to rush through the narrow passage between Oregon and Washington states.

From here to Portland, past the Lewis and Clark State Park and others, the traveler combines the scenic surroundings with the anticipation of the upcoming city. Much has been written about the "City of Roses" where the annual festival coupled with the arriving of the fleet converts the peaceful Pacific oast city into a Mardi Gras.

From here highways thread out like fingers on the Jolly Green Giant, some large and others small. We chose to continue on Interstate Five with Albany the destination. But from Portland through Eugene is a myriad of smaller cities with alternating urban, rural and metropolitan atmosphere.

THIS IS THE fastest growing area in Oregon and where lumber and agriculture mingle with the state's third largest industry — tourism.

Forty-seven miles from the nation's 32nd largest city is the state capital, Salem, where legislators convene biennially during the winter months. The capitol building is said to be one of the most beautiful in the United States.

A golden pioneer stands erect above the white Vermont marble, guarding the modern Greek structure completed in 1938 after fire destroyed the earlier capitol. On clear days Mounts Jefferson, Hood, Adams and St. Helens of the Cascade Range are visible from the visitors' viewpoint.

MARBLE IS used throughout the small, but impressive, capitol building. Rose travertine marble quarried in Montana has been used in the walls of the rotunda and the halls. Baseboards and ramps of the great stairways are Vermont gray marble from Missouri. Carrying our Oregon's rural atmosphere are murals on the walls and symbols of trees and fish in the carpets of the House of Representatives and the Senate.

Traveling south one can choose his road to the coast and highway 101 or remain on straight, fast-driving freeway, Interstate Five. Following the latter, lumber mills again come onto the scene and mountains figure in the landscape. It's a fisherman's paradise and a camper's dream. The Lebanon Strawberry Festival draws huge crowds in June and Albany holds its annual Timber Carnival in July. This is where men vie for titles such as "log rolling champ," "champion wood-cutter," etc.

And just before reaching the California line once again, there is little Ashland, home of the Shakespearean Festival that draws hundreds to its outdoor theater every August. Or as you pass through Grants Pass the "cave men" from the local chamber of commerce might choose to welcome you (they've been known to appear at wayside rest areas and public gatherings, dressed in animal skins and carrying cavemen clubs).

FOR THE TOURIST preferring the coastal route, there are the usual scenic spots, campgrounds, etc. But in Oregon there are also the cranberry bogs near Coos Bay, which at first glance do not resemble anything great, but on a Thanksgiving table provide a tasty accent to turkey.

And above Coos County is Tillamook, with the world's largest cheese factory (be sure the kids wear shoes on this tour. It's cold). The Tillamook County Pioneer Museum, no admission charge, is located at Second Street and Pacific Avenue. It houses more than 8,000 pioneer and Indian relics.

North Bend is famed for its myrtlewood trees and souvenir items are for sale, hand-crafted by localites. A "rockhounds' paradise" is located at Bandon with its ideal spots for river and ocean fishing. It is the home of the State Fish Hatchery, huge fields of Croft (Easter) lilies and other sights.

WHATEVER THE summer 1969 tourist wishes in the way of entertainment, scenery or interest, it is available in Oregon. It is up to the individual or family to ascertain the number of days to spend, funds available and fields of interest. From a Potato Festival in Redmond to a Salmon Bake in Depoe Bay; from the Pendleton Round-Up to the DeLake Agate Show; from the Astoria Regatta and Oregon Fish Festival to the La Grande Indian Festival of Arts; and from the Portland National Orchid Society Show to the McNary Aqua Capers near Umatilla, the tourist can absorb the feel of our northern neighbor.

He can participate as much or as little as he likes and can travel for the price of the gasoline, groceries and camp fees or travel in luxury.

A SUMMER SUNRISE finds quiet Eagle Cap casting long reflections into Moccasin Lake, held in the rocky embrace of the Wallowa Mountains in northeastern Oregon. Eagle Cap rears its stony crest nearly 10,000 feet into the blue skies and nearby China Cap Peak is the exact center, north-south, east-west, of the United States.

Just How Safe Are The Jet Airliners?

IT DOESN'T MATTER WHERE YOU SIT by Fred McClement; Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 238 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Mid-air collisions and near collisions are increasing at an alarming rate, to the point where air traffic in these United States is apparently in chaos.

So claims Fred McClement, for 20 years aviation editor of the Toronto Daily Star, in his muckraking book, "It Doesn't Matter Where You Sit," and he distributes the blame among "government regulatory agencies, airport operators, the airlines themselves, and metropolitan planning boards."

He might well have also listed the general public, which should be taken to task for its apathy and acceptance of such conditions as National Aviation and Space Administration policy which, McClement charges, "has permitted aviation progress to lapse in order to launch the space effort, because of recurring propaganda that 'the Russians are ahead of us.' No wonder the American public is bewildered."

There is, however, no great evidence that the general public is bewildered or even concerned, except when personally affected or during one of those periodic flashes of morbid interest fanned by one of the big airliners crashing to the ground and exploding with terrifying force and loss of life.

It is but one more example of the country's confusion in its priorities. But how much commonsense can be expected of people who drive their cars like maniacs or imbeciles, sacrificing their lives and the lives of others, for minutes saved that are promptly wasted? Or from a people that go on steadily sucking foul cigarette smoke into their lungs in the face of warnings they are courting painful early death and encouraging by example their children to do the same?

From those who build elaborate athletic complexes while allowing schools and hovel and slum housing to rot, you might expect the very kind of conditions that expert McClement cites in his scorching analysis of the state of our commercial aviation:

"In 1964, the U.S. talked about travel to the moon and atmosphere probes of Mars and Jupiter, but the country's technology was so far behind times that on our own planet little was known of the great storms that created lightning and other natural hazards." Belatedly it was proven and reluctantly it was admitted that a lightning strike could, indeed, cause a jet to explode in mid-air.

"There is no such thing as 'all-weather' flying, and there never will be," McClement says bluntly. "Severe storms are lethal to both jets and supersonics . . . Some 90 per cent of U.S. commercial air disasters happen in bad weather associated with thunderstorms." And he points to a Department of Transportation Safety Board finding that "many jets are not built strong enough to withstand wind forces associated with thunderstorms." Still, he tells us, they are flown into the teeth of such turbulence.

The airport situation he labels "a disgraceful mess which only federal intervention can remedy, and that is unlikely no matter what the toll in time or life." He quotes an Air Operators' Council survey as showing that five billion dollars would be required to bring our airports up to "adequacy," and declares that more than 600 new airports are needed to siphon off the overflow in air traffic.

Many pilots, we are told, refer to Air Traffic Control as Air Traffic Chaos — "It is bad today, and it will be worse tomorrow."

McClement's attack is a blistering one, particularly against jet airliners, accused of such fatal flaws as insufficient fire extinguishers, dangerous location of hydraulic fluids and fuels, poor anchorage for seats, shortage of exits, ineffectively marked emergency doors and windows, untrustworthy instruments, toxic-forming interior furnishings and much more.

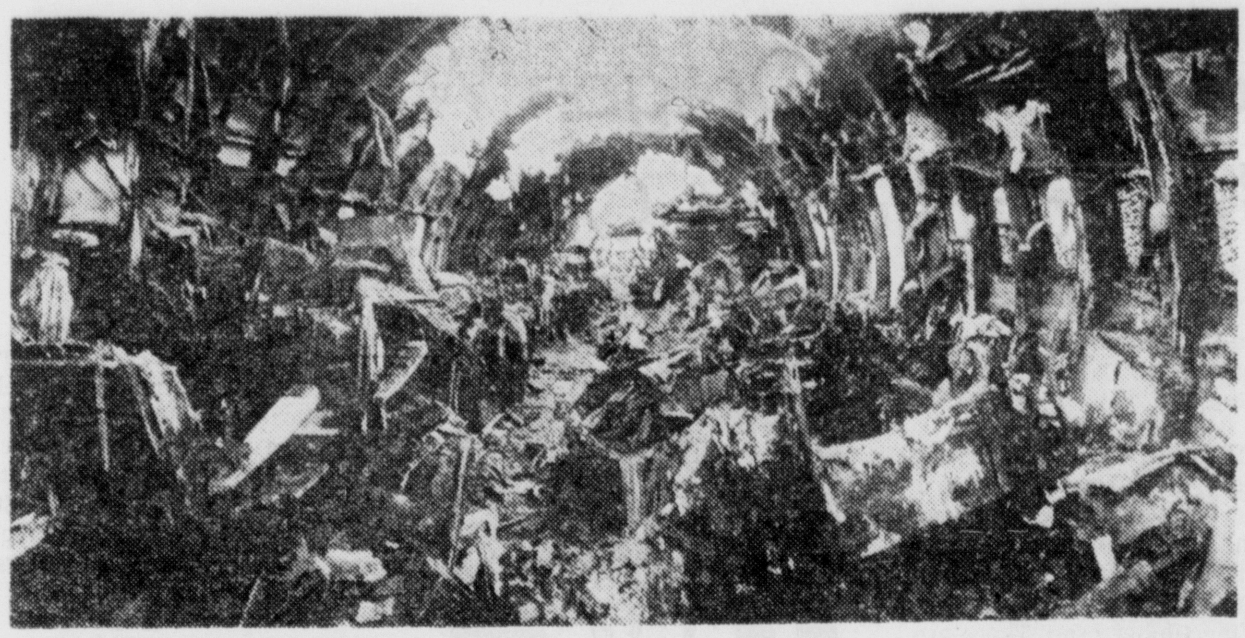
The airlines, the manufacturers and their defenders are certain to accuse McClement of sensationalism and of a one-sided, slanted, alarmist presentation.

McClement has already made his retort: "Too many experts (are) concerned with protecting the image of manufacturers and airlines."

Certainly, the commercial aviation industry will have some difficulty picturing itself as the target of a prejudiced critic, for McClement was in 1966 the recipient of a trophy for "excellence in public relations activity in the aviation space industry."

Nevertheless, it is true that from reading McClement's gruesome list of aviation disasters, which after all were spaced over a number of years, one emerges shaken and with an unquestionably out-of-proportion, exaggerated picture of the dangers of air travel. Still, even a jittery public and an awakened industry would appear preferable to an overly complacent industry and apathetic public. Furthermore, if McClement succeeds in stirring a new concern for safety in commercial flying, the impact of his book will be much less alarming and less prolonged than the recurring newspaper headlines that would accompany crashes that might now be prevented.

The public would be better served if the companies that make and operate the airliners and airports, and the government agencies that supposedly regulate them, would concentrate less on frills, such as movies, gourmet meals and pretty stewardesses, and more upon the life-or-death factors illuminated by McClement. And quite likely, if they would also forego such monsters as the jumbo jets and supersonics until they first learn to fly with consistent safety the aircraft they now have in the air.



THIS SALT LAKE CITY Deseret News photograph shows the charred interior of a jet airliner after it bursts into flames on an airport runway, and, says Fred McClement, underscores the plea for improved safety and fire-fighting measures he makes in his "It Doesn't Matter Where You Sit."

How Crisis Came In Middle East

COUNTDOWN IN THE HOLY LAND by Lester Velie; Funk & Wagnalls, 224 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Bob Raab.

"Get the Israelis out of Egypt, or we will!"

Alexi Kosygin's hotline message to Lyndon Johnson on the morning of June 6, 1967, put us on the edge of war with Russia. The Soviet premier's ultimatum butted directly against our adamant resolution to support Israel.

The events that led to this crisis in history are set forth in tidy, trenchant fashion by author Lester Velie, a senior editor for Reader's Digest.

Velie's account begins with irony — Russian assistance to 100,000 European Jews fleeing to Palestine at the end of World War II.

The Kremlin wanted Great Britain out of the Middle East so it could take control. Russian war weapons and political support were vital to the Zionist drive for a Jewish national homeland.

Another irony — our state department blocked United Nation's efforts to partition Palestine, in spite of Harry Truman's pro-partition stance.

Bloody, bitter success in combat reversed 2,000 years without a homeland for the Jews when, in 1949, they took over a tiny section of Arab world.

Arab hatred of Israel's existence has fomented two wars, in 1956 and 1967. Velie comes down hard on the Arab nations — Egypt and Nasser in particular — for persisting in their effort to destroy Israel.

Nasser is pictured as xenophobic, devoid of morals and a pathological liar. Velie apparently has no plans to vacation on the Nile. Velie claims Nasser used nerve gas to kill hundreds of villagers in remote Yemen in his attempt to get oil wells and revenue there. Nasser, he alleges, supports terrorist groups who murder Arab and Israeli leaders and civilians.

The 1967 Egypt-Israel war started as a fluke, the author states. Nasser was broke and began sabre-rattling to blackmail American financial aid. He bluffed at U.N. troops in the Sinai Desert, and the U.N. folded, hastily withdrawing all troops.

"Like a gambler who bets hundreds and makes millions," Nasser pushed his luck further by closing the Strait of Tiran. Cut off from its oil, Israel was forced to fight. Frantic backstage maneuvers went on in Washington D.C. and Moscow. The Israelis quickly smashed Egyptian troops and Communist-supplied jets, tanks, artillery, trucks and arms.

Russia's desperate effort to save its stake in the Middle East was to threaten war with the U.S. if we did not force Israel to withdraw troops from the Suez. President Johnson ordered the Sixth Fleet into action with combat-ready Marines. Fortunately, the Russians backed off. We did not hear about the confrontation for more than a year, when Velie broke the story in Reader's Digest.

Much of "Countdown in the Holy Land" is devoted to close looks at Israeli military operations and leaders. It is fascinating reading. For example, Israel feels it must win wars quickly, within four days, or it will collapse. Virtually all adult males, many women, and most vehicles and supplies go to the battlefront. The economy would become paralyzed quickly if war were prolonged.

Velie's admiration and support of the Israeli cause is total. He makes no attempt at objectivity and thinly covers his contempt for Arab nations. At times his view is myopic. He admires Israeli's spy system, which includes mailing bombs to German scientists who worked for Nasser.

There is little attempt to look beneath Arab hatred for motives or to shed light on Arab character in terms of Mohammedanism. Yet Velie makes a convincing case for supporting Israel both for idealistic reasons and for our own national self-interest.

An Encyclopedia On Hit Plays With Song And Dance

Anyone who has even the slightest interest in or contact with musical comedy, whether it be through actually witnessing one on the stage or through films or records, will find this encyclopedic volume a delight.

Laufe covers his subject thoroughly. He has filled his book with a wealth of information that traces the musical comedy from its beginnings (1884) through the present, covering each play that became a hit by the 500-plus performance standards.

He traces the changing trends and prevailing moods in each time period, rightly pointing to "Oklahoma" as the revolutionary musical comedy of its day, and pointing out what made it a milestone, even though it seems merely pleasant today.

The success ingredients of each hit are exhaustingly covered with "Oklahoma," "South Pacific" and "My Fair Lady" receiving single chapter treatments, and rightly so. Everyone, I'm sure, has his favorites and may find fault with Laufe's handling of any particular favorite. There seems to be a somewhat snobbish attitude toward "West Side Story," mainly because of the serious and grim nature of the play, dealing as it did with street gangs in New York.

Laufe writes in a dry, matter-of-fact way that will excite few people in terms of style. But that really shouldn't be the strength of this kind of book, which is an exhaustive review of the musical comedy, its appeal and its place in the American theater.

One serious omission, which is no fault of the author, due to deadline, is the absence of any mention of "Hair," surely a ground-breaker and trend-setter and, by any definition of the word, a hit. It would be interesting to see what Laufe had to say about it. There is also very little mention of Off-Broadway hits, some of which ("The Fantasticks" and "Your Own Thing") deserve a place somewhere for sheer longevity and style.

THE BOOK PAGES

A New Militancy From The Ranks Of Black Moderates

BEYOND RACISM by Whitney M. Young Jr.; McGraw-Hill, 257 pages, $6.95.

By DON KEOWN

"Today, I don't know of a single 'moderate' organization or leader. We are all angry."

The reference is to America's black minority, and the writer is not Rap Brown, Stokely Carmichael, Eldridge Cleaver or some other young firebrand, but Whitney M. Young Jr., executive director of the National Urban League, newspaper columnist, and himself long regarded as a moderate in the civil rights spectrum.

The quote, taken from Young's new book, "Beyond Racism," is therefore indicative of black reaction to the continuing denial of the equality promised them by the American dream.

Much is being said these days about a white backlash, a hardening of white opposition to black demands. Less attention is being paid to a corresponding firming up among Negroes of their intention to attain that equality by one means or another. If white racism is an immovable object, Negro militancy might well be the irresistible force hurtling toward it. The collision, if not averted, could be a fearful one.

In his book, Young still holds that violence will not work and counsels his fellow blacks: "We must pursue excellence . . . the special responsibility to excel: to outthink, outperform and outdo those who would deny to black people freedom." That is the kind of advice one has come to expect from a Whitney Young or a Roy Wilkins.

But Young also declares: "Integration is no longer the issue; the issue today is equality. . . . Any and all strategies that will bring it about must be used." That broad statement is indicative of the impatience even men like Young are feeling today as white America continues to drag its feet.

"It is," he charges, "as if white America has been waging all-out war on black people for the past 350 years."

Young lashes out at critics of Black Power: "Commitment to black solidarity is not reverse racism or mere chauvinism. It's a survival technique. . . . In the fight for survival in which the black community is now engaged, every rational weapon must be used, and the strongest of these are group consciousness, group solidarity and group pride."

He defends the younger generation against accusations of excesses: "I prefer the errors of enthusiasm to the indifference of wisdom."

But he still disparages the more vocal extremists, seeing them as opportunists and labeling them leaders without followers.

There, one wonders if Young, a professional, middle-aged and middle-class black man working with an organization best known for its ability to cooperate with the white establishment (and particularly effective in the employment field), has not himself suffered a kind of segregation — a separation from the angrier young blacks who do constitute a following for the more militant activists. Nor does he seem to recognize the influence these young "loudmouths" have exerted in pressuring him and other moderates into adopting a more militant stance if they are to maintain their roles of leadership.

Anyway, when Young says things like "any child who has managed to survive to the age of 5 in the hell of the urban ghetto has learned more about life than many whites learn in a lifetime . . . ," he is repeating what the Cleavers and the Carmichaels have been saying in earthier language.

And Young slugs away at the white American institutions he blames for creating and maintaining that hell.

Of the church, he says: "Perhaps the most hypocritical and immoral institution in American life. . . . "

Of the "record of failure" of the press: "It has failed to present an accurate picture of the American racial crisis: It has alienated its Negro readers, it has excluded Negroes from its ranks; and it has accepted the racism that so distorts our national life."

Of the schools: They are "vehicles of destruction for black children . . . " run by an educational bureaucracy that "doesn't believe they (black children) are able to, or even that they ought to, learn."

Young still stands apart from the more radical black spokesmen in that he believes in working with white society and in that he clings to hope for success through cooperation. "American democracy has proven time and time again that its apparent rigidity can be cast off; that it is flexible enough to change in the face of pressures." But now there is a new emphasis upon that word "pressures."

His book is not all anger and criticism, but contains a number of specific proposals to move us toward "an open society . . . that can be shared by all decent people of whatever color."

Among his ideas are tuition-free urban grant universities in our cities similar to the old land grant colleges; a deliberate assignment of the best teachers to ghetto classrooms; a speed-up of school integration including inter-district busing; the educational park plan for new schools; community councils to give ghetto inhabitants greater control over their own destinies; ombudsmen to protect the citizen against public official and police abuse; a $2.60 an hour minimum wage; the negative income tax; subsidized rents for low income families; mass construction of houses in factories; active involvement of top corporate officials in fair hiring practices; tax benefits for housing improvements in the ghetto; integration in the suburbs; a universal health plan. His list is much longer, and he also points to sources for financing.

Young sees America as "poised at the brink of disaster." There are ominous indications he is not overstating our predicament — in Los Angeles, in Minneapolis, in New York and elsewhere.

Sober, serious discussions of how we might yet pull back from that dreadful abyss, such as is offered by Whitney Young in "Beyond Racism," merit our fullest attention, before the angry become yet angrier and dialogue ceases altogether.

WHITNEY M. YOUNG Jr., author of "Beyond Racism," has served as executive director of the National Urban League since 1961, and writes a syndicated column on racial and urban problems that is carried by more than 80 newspapers across the United States.

TUMBLEWEEDS, terror of Grimy Gulch and hero of the fast-growing comic strip carried regularly in the Independent-Journal, has invaded the paperback book field with the publication by Fawcett Gold Medal Books of "Let 'er Rip, Tumbleweeds," a 50-cent collection of the adventures and misadventures of the Tom K. Ryan-created cowboy character.

Sleuths & Suspense

STRANGER TO TOWN by L. P. Davies, Doubleday, 189 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Donald G. Davis.

Comparing this one with two others of L. P. Davies ("The Lampton Dreamers" and "Who Is Lewis Pinder?"), it's a little short of the mark.

Davies is a good storyteller and builder of suspense, but he lets down in "Stranger to Town." Julian Midwinter, who leaps into a dead man's shoes to play a dubious role of mouse in "cat and mouse" in a strange town, seems to be a bit of a paper figure. Perhaps this is because Davies is somewhat misleading in opening his story.

There's slow pace, too, in this tale of uncanny accidents, a clinging and rather mysterious widow and a missing heavy statue. There's a flashy fire chapter near the end, but when the smoke clears there's not much surprise or suspense left to unravel.

Suzanne Blanc further cements her reputation as a consistent producer of first-rate suspense novels with this, her fourth.

Her story takes place on board a Norwegian freighter carrying cargo and passengers in the South China Sea. Her principal characters are Arne Haugen, the handsome but somewhat brutish captain, and Corinne Reynolds, the pretty but brooding widow who is among his passengers. Both have pasts that are factors in the new relationship they achieve on ship and shore. And there is a merciless quality in the manner by which Miss Blanc moves her cast relentlessly toward a final confrontation and climax.

It is more a character study than it is a mystery or crime novel. But the absence of a real element of mystery is more than compensated for by the fascination one feels as he awaits for the inevitable eruption of the violence within Captain Haugen, and wonders if Mrs. Reynolds will be its victim.

DOROTHY

There once was a girl in the land of Oz
With pigtails and a freckely face—
She dreamed of a land
Where troubles were made of lemon drops
And where she could hop on chimney tops
While teardrops turned to lace.
It beckoned to her from beyond the rainbow
After the rains had washed the earth;
Her childish innocence caused her to look,
Not for the pot of gold,
For a place to rest—
Where things were their best—
And where dreams were never too old.

Thus she embarked on a 30-year journey
Following the path down a yellow brick road;
She encountered many people,
Strange creatures and things
While passing through woods, fields and streams,
And sung of her wishes, her hopes and her dreams,
Touching our ears and our hearts.

But Dorothy had looked in all the wrong places,
And into the eyes of not the right faces;
Her days turned to night,
And she weakened from fright,
As all small children will do.
Past the point of return,
Dorothy had lost her way,
And so Judy passed on
The other sad day.

SAN ANSELMO — KATHY BURCH

RUNNING BOY

Running boy of mine, you never change your beat—
Your busy, rushing, dancing feet
Staccato everywhere!

Across the greening meadow you ply your carefree way
Scooping up wild flowers as gently as you may.
As you rush by puddles left by heavy rains
You toss a tiny pebble scooped up from the ground
But wait not for its widening water rings to make a single round.
No time to lose—a distant frog is calling from a pond nearby;
A meadowlark is teasing in the tall, dry grass on high.
Over on the sward a hoofprint on the turf
A flash of white tailed deer are charging through the trees
You must leap your hardest and catch up with all of these.
A drop of rain, then a gentle patter on the grass and in the leaves
A million scintillating diamonds in a crown upon your head—
Yet you gladly lost your treasure as quickly you were led
By a rainbow ribbon wrapping half the earth
And you had to run and seek from whence its sudden birth.

You came home dripping wet, with eyes of laughing blue,
A bunch of wilted flowers held in outstretched, muddied hands—
Now how can I be cross with you?

NOVATO — DOROTHY HEFFINGTON

CRAZYQUILT SPELLER

There was a young man named Hugh Pugh,
Who bought many suits, paid for few;
Said the seller, "In lieu
Of the payment, I'll sue."

Low-Growing Annual Is Perfect Planting For A Colorful Border

Marin gardeners find a multitude of uses for the low-growing annuals that can be planted now, but perhaps their most frequent and most effective role is as a border or as an outline for a walkway.

These garden gems come in a variety of sizes to fit the height of the background plantings.

Especially useful are those that measure no more than eight inches tall.

IN THAT LIST, of course, belongs the alyssum, long a summer-time border favorite. These heavy bloomers now come in not only the popular white, but in appealing violet and pink shades as well.

Ageratum is another Marin favorite among the summer blooming annuals. This low-growing plant, highlighted by mink-blue flowers in profusion, is an especially effective companion for golden marigolds or any of the many shades of petunias.

Among the marigolds, there are many dwarf varieties, ideal for borders and walks with colors ranging from cream to orange to gold to mahogany, often in variegations. These are heavy bloomers that give you an awful lot, inch for inch, for the space they require.

THE ZINNIA, TOO, has its dwarfs that are perfect for border duty. The Thumbelina was their forerunner, and later arrivals include the Red Buttons, Cherry Buttons and the Mini-Pink, all standing from six to eight inches high. The Thumbelina gives you a mixture of colors, the Red Buttons and Cherry Buttons provide a solid show, and the Mini-Pink features blooms whose flower form is double.

A couple of other splendid selections for borders or to outline a walk or path are the lobelia and the fibrous begonia.

These small but prolific growers are all to be found in bloom in the nurseries now, ready to give you instant color when transplanted to your yard.

A NEW DWARF plant among the zinnias is the Mini-Pink, a Thumbelina-type beauty that grows uniformly six inches high, making it ideal as a low border planting. Its blooms may measure up to two inches across, and the flower form is more double than that of other dwarf zinnias. The color is a salmon pink. Some Plants Look Best When Paired

However beautiful an individual flowering plant is, it can often be enhanced by planting it next to another flower of contrasting color.

There are exceptions to this, such as the stand-offish Transvaal daisy, but generally we can find combinations of color which are more pleasing than any one member of the combinations planted alone.

DELPHINIUMS are an excellent example.

Few flowers are more beautiful than these extravagant perennials, yet how much more appealing they are when grouped with the orange or yellow of Red Hot Pokers, the warm tones of gaillardia or the clear pink of a giant snapdragon.

The crisp blue of Lily of the Nile is never more beautiful than when interplanted with pink amaryllis or with clumps of yellow day lily. And if you garden on a deck, tub plantings of this combination will do very nicely.

REMEMBER your combinations, too, when you plant spring bulbs next fall. Nurserymen have long known that they can be made even more lovely by covering them with a blanket of low growing annuals or perennials of contrasting colors.

A simple and most pleasing combination is yellow Marguerites with blue Felicia, the so-called blue Marguerite. White Marguerites fit into this combination, also, and for a foreground try Blue Bedder Sage. All of these do well in a sunny border and none of them requires more than casual attention. A little water goes a long way with all of them.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- If you haven't already done so, visit the Marin Art and Garden Fair in Ross tonight or tomorrow, for a treasury of landscaping and gardening ideas.
- Watch your junipers for the appearance of the twig girdler, and fight back by spraying with Lindane.
- Keep a watch, too, on your grass for lawn moths. There are a number of chemicals that are effective against this pest. In using them, follow directions carefully.
- If you have not done so in the last five or six weeks pinch back your chrysanthemums.
- Cut back spring and early summer blooming plantings after they have completed their show of color.
- Regular and deep watering is all-important in Marin during the summer months.
- Maintain a regular clean-up program for your garden. It will pay off, now only in appearance, but in plant disease prevention as well.

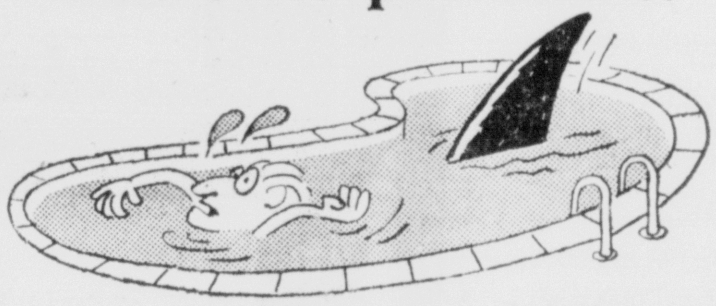
Buying a swimming pool?
Watch out for pool sharks!


During the past 10 years, over 200 California swimming pool companies either went under or changed their names. A lot of nice people wound up taking a bath instead of a swim.
The best way to avoid pool sharks and fishy deals is to deal with a pool company whose responsibility is established and documented. Over 40,000 people have made their decision for Anthony pools, the largest pool company in the world. The only one listed on the American and Pacific Coast Stock Exchanges. Building pools for 25 years at low competitive prices and providing prompt service and superb engineering—Anthony's reputation is as solid as its pool foundations.
If you're planning to take the plunge, look to Anthony who makes pool buying absolutely sharkproof! Fill out the coupon. Or phone. Now!

A 17-FOOT KAYAK has consistently, through the years, proven to be one of the most popular projects that can be built from an Easi-Bild pattern. By sending $2 to Independent-Journal, Post Office Box 215, Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., 10510, you can obtain Kayak Pattern No. 317. The templates are full-size and permit the cutting of the frames from waterproof plywood. The frame is then covered with canvas cut to size as recommended by the pattern. The same directions tell you how to make a two-place, 19-foot version of the same boat.

They stain and wax floors, tolerating them as supports.

An 86-year-old Louisville, Ky., floor company hopes to dispel this notion by working through decorators all over the country to encourage homeowners to discover new ideas in floor designs and patterns.

THE COMPANY, Wood Mosaics, makes varied hardwood floors, ranging from simple herringbone and laminated plank designs to more intricate 39-inch squares of solid wood. The company has custom crafted floors for the White House, as well as for galleries, embassies and private libraries.

In a series of room settings, four well-known New York interior designers showed how various floors can be used to enhance rooms and furnishings.

In a library setting, Michael Greer chose a reproduction of a floor originally used by Thomas Jefferson for his home at Monticello. The original was rosewood and ash, but, walnut and other woods are used today for more durability.

THE PATTERN is set in 10-inch squares.

"Wood is the richest material for floors and my preference is for dark-stained wood to bring out the beauty of the design," Greer explains. He doesn't like rugs to hide beautiful floors. He used the interesting walnut parquetry design with its burl center, to enhance a background of black shiny vinyl walls, a steel fireplace and his favorite steel furniture.

BARRETT LIKES to combine see-through furniture with a white background and dark accessories.

Colonial planking need not be limited to early American houses, says Leona Kahn. In an entrance hall she used random-width planking with pegs, in golden brown Gothic oak. The walls were green damask. The elegant carved doors were gold and buff. Regence chairs with white damask upholstery and a pair of pedestals at doors provided grandeur.

Coloring floors can be a tremendous answer to a contemporary decorating scheme, says Leif Petersen, an interior designer well-known for moving picture sets. Painted floors, he says, need less care than other floors.

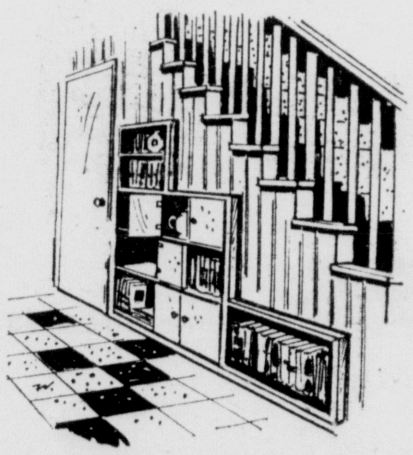
Petersen used a chrome and glass etagere and a blue-topped Parson's table desk in the den-like room. He believes colored floors may be used in any room of the house, particularly in dining rooms.

Petersen's floor was stained so that its grain would show. Sometimes he does all white floors coating them with polyurethane to make a hard, shiny bowling-alley floor surface.

SOME PEOPLE think they would like to do something different to floors, but fear how will it look, says Donald Bell, vice-president of Wood-Mosaics. Now answers may be provided because dealers in major cities will begin to work with decorators so that more interesting floors may be seen on an area-to-area basis, he says.

"If a decorator has an idea, but doesn't understand how to progress in altering the appearance of the flooring, we will tell him how. We consider this plan one of the best ways to reach the consumer."

Storage Space



A STAIRCASE can provide a lot of storage space under its treads, if you will only use it. This example shows a closet built at the high end, with the remaining area devoted to book shelving and closed cabinets in a step-down design. Panel boards of red cedar make a picture frame around the installation.
